Program Description

The Equity and Social Justice Department offers a 15-credit, short term academic certificate in Multicultural Understanding. This certificate is designed for those who wish to develop awareness, knowledge and skills in issues of race, social class, gender, ability and sexual orientation. These skills could enhance your success in a variety of contexts including family, work, and community. Courses can be completed in face-to-face, hybrid, or fully online formats.

The program includes an introductory course in Multicultural Understanding, followed by ten credits from courses in American Ethnic Studies, Communication, Education, English, Gender and Women's Studies, History, and Sociology. After taking the introductory course, learners can select any two courses in their particular areas of interest; all of these courses focus on issues of power and privilege in developing multicultural understanding.

The Multicultural Understanding Short Term Academic Certificate is open to all learners enrolled at Shoreline Community College. All courses can apply toward the Associate in Arts—Direct Transfer degree, or endorsements for current teachers.

Those who are interested in pursuing a bachelor's degree in multicultural understanding should follow a planning guide in a related field such as American Ethnic Studies, History, or Gender and Women's Studies. For more information, contact the faculty advisors or the Social Science office at 206-546-4540, Rm. 5329.
