The Northwest Indian Bar Association (NIBA) is a non-profit organization of attorneys, judges and advocates in Alaska, Idaho, Oregon, & Washington who practice Indian Law. NIBA aspires to improve the legal and political landscape for Pacific Northwest Indian communities. The purposes and goals of NIBA are:

- To represent and foster the education and welfare of Native American attorneys, paralegals and tribal court personnel of the Pacific Northwest;
- To provide role models and mentors in the legal profession for Indian people, particularly Native American youth and law students; and
- To encourage and promote pro bono legal work and civic involvement that benefits Indian people on reservations and in urban areas throughout the Pacific Northwest.

To join NIBA, please complete this form and send it along with your dues to: Northwest Indian Bar Association, c/o Lisa L. Atkinson, 611 Main Street, Suite B-1, Edmonds, WA 98020.
