

Cambridge English for Schools

Dear

I am writing to congratulate you on successfully preparing your students for Cambridge English exams. You must be very proud of them. Their successes are not only proof of their hard work, but of your dedication and commitment to English language education.

Thousands of employers and universities around the world recognise our qualifications as proof of English language skills. Your students have taken the first steps on their journey towards future achievements in study and work in a world where English is increasingly the common international language.

It is not only in study and work that English language learning can change lives. In motivating your students to improve their English, you have opened up a world where they can understand others, make friends, and make themselves understood – just by speaking English.

We at Cambridge English are very grateful to you for your passion and enthusiasm. You play a crucial role in developing the language skills of your students and make such a difference to the lives of the children you teach.

On behalf of the whole of Cambridge English I would like to say well done and thank you.

Yours sincerely

Saul Nassé
