April 3 • James Bennett •

Illustrator

James Bennett began his professional career shortly after receiving recognition from the Society of Illustrators as a scholarship student at the School of Visual Arts in New York.

James Bennett's conceptually humorous illustrations have since appeared as covers and interior pieces for the New York Times, the L. A. Times, Forbes, Time, Sports Illustrated, The Weekly Standard, Mad, Business Week, New York, Smithsonian, Reader's Digest, Yankee, Golf and Philadelphia magazines, among others. He has also produced art for RCA Records American Express, Paramount pictures, Citibank, Hasbro, and Milton Bradley.

James Bennett has recently completed a number of picture books two of which have appeared in the top 5 of the New York Times Best Seller list. They are "Tell Me a Scary Story... But Not Too Scary", written by Carl Reiner and the picture book "Halloween", written by Jerry Seinfeld.

James Bennett's awards include the prestigious Hamilton King, which acknowledges an illustrator's outstanding body of work represented by the Best Illustration of the Year by a Member, the Steven Dohanos Award from Society of Illustrators in New York. The Creative Show in San Diego which recognized the best in advertising for the year, awarded him a gold medal, and he has also won gold medals from the Society of Illustrators Annual Shows in New York City. Bennett has recently been featured in an issue of Communication Arts. His oils can be found in the Howard Gallery in New Hope, Pennsylvania.

A member of the Executive Board of Directors at the Society of Illustrators, Bennett is also active in the Illustrators Partnership of America. He has taught classes in illustration and portfolio technique at the School of Visual Arts and Pratt in New York, the University of the Arts in Philadelphia, and has

Workshop with George Thompson

“Painting the Still Life”

Friday, May 9, 2014

Time: 10:00 AM to 3:30 PM

Cost: $60.00 members $85.00 non members

Location: New Britain Baptist Church, Route 202 & Tamenend Avenue, New Britain, PA 18901

I have always felt that tackling the still life is not only a way to learn how to paint but also a wonderful way to freely express yourself and be creative. We will discuss all the academic skills you need to create a life-like painting and at the same time will explore how to paint with your own personal style. We will discuss drawing, color, composition, value and handling the materials and will also challenge you on what a still life should be... from the academic to a more modern approach. If you have not painted the still life before, this one-day workshop will give you a great foundation. If you are an experienced master I will show you how to push yourself even further. Fun and challenging set ups, individual attention, demos and discussions throughout. Oils or Acrylics... or whatever medium you prefer.

Watercolor Workshop with Jim McFarlane

“Creative Color for Expressive Watercolors”

Friday, April 25, 2014

Time: 10:00 AM to 3:30 PM

Cost: $60.00 member, $85.00 nonmember

Location: New Britain Baptist Church, Route 202 & Tamenend Avenue, New Britain, PA 18901

Do you select colors intellectually or randomly? The colors in a painting should be as carefully planned as the composition of the piece. This workshop will concentrate on the use of the color wheel to find new and meaningful ways to use creative color.

lectured extensively at various art institutions locally and nationwide.

James Bennett lives and works in Pennsylvania with his wife Susan and sons Steven and Brett.

May 1 • Richard Godshall

Pennsylvania impressionist, R.A. Godshall spent 25 years in the graphic arts field as an illustrator, designer and art director before opening up Off The Wall Custom Framing & Gallery in 2002. Since then, in addition to overseeing his gallery located in Skippack, PA, he has devoted more time to painting in watercolor and acrylic. One can see in Godshall's paintings the influence of the New Hope impressionist painters of years gone by. His subject matter is the landscapes of beautiful Bucks and Montgomery counties and also the New Jersey shore. Godshall, who is a member of the Greater Norristown Art League and the New Hope Art League, has had his work featured in Bucks County Town And Country magazine as well as Montgomery County Town and Country magazine. He also teaches painting classes at Abington Adult Evening School. His paintings are on display at Off The Wall and also at Accent Gallery in Ocean City, NJ. Godshall's works are included in many collections throughout the Northeast and have garnered several awards in juried shows.
