Friends of the Intermountain Library recognized Max Carr as the 2005 Volunteer of the Year at the annual general meeting May 19 at the Burney Branch. During the more than 15 years that Max has been available to help out, he has never once said, "Sorry, I can't". He has volunteered to help at yard, book and bake sale

"When Max works a sale, he'll convince you that you absolutely must have this whatever-it-is, and part you happily from your money with the familiar, 'C'mon, it's for the library!'" they said. He's been the man behind the scenes for the Burney library's annual summer film festival. He hangs the drapes, sets up the movie projector, supplies the ice for drinks, and pops the popcorn. He can repair any sort of electronic device and has repaired audio books in the library's collection. "Right now he's framing some —Please See Page 4

Treating for codling moths in local apples urged

By DR. DAN MARCUM

Shasta-Lassen Farm Advisor McArthur - June 5 and 6 are the dates when Intermountain area residents should treat their apple trees for codling moth.

Control methods for codling moth in apples is based upon the detection of male moths in pheromone traps and the accumulation of temperatures following a "biofix" temperature of 62 degrees F or more at one hour before sunset.

Once those conditions are met, sprays should be applied beginning 250 Degree Days after the biofix date.

Degree Days are days when the accumulation of heat is above a base temperature threshold.

The first moths were observed May 1 and the biofix temperature in the Fall River Valley was reached May 12.

The 250 Degree Days will be exceeded on June 9, if historic temperature trends continue.

For backyard apples, the most common control is by chemical sprays which should be applied to apple trees a day or two before June 9 in the Fall River Valley for most effective control.

Repeat the treatment at least once according to label directions.

Carbaryl (Sevin) is the most common product available, but can thin apples as long as 30 days following full bloom.

Organic options include products containing the active ingredient Spinosad, which is derived from a naturally occurring soil bacterium.

Hospital expected to operate on $18 million

The directors of Mayers Memorial Hospital have approved an $18 million operating budget for 2005-2006.

The budget reflects a projected net revenue of just over $17 million, leaving a slight deficit.

The hospital expects their billings to total $25 million, however, both the state and federal governments only pay a portion of what they are billed.

The net revenue is based on Medi-Cal reimbursement of 22-cents on every dollar and Medicare reimbursement of 44 cents on each dollar.

"We're mandated by Shasta County to have a balanced budget and so we are projecting revenues and projecting expenses," said director Les Cufaude.

The $476,000 deficit is made up by local property taxes within the hospital district and rental income, Cufaude said.

The budget shows 15.35 percent increases in both productive salaries ($6.7 million) and employee benefits ($3 million) and a 1.40 percent decrease in non-productive salaries ($721,000).

New post could be created at hospital

The hospital may hire a chief operations officer if a suggested succession plan is implemented.

Directors for Mayers Memorial Hospital want to be prepared if and when CEO Jerry Fikes retires and on May 25 reviewed three succession options.

Fikes and the board's succession plan committee emphasized hiring a chief operations officer with either financial or clinical background who would hone the weaker of the two skills through on-site experience.

"It will be up to the board to determine which set of skills are the most easy to achieve," he said.

Fikes' said the most difficult aspect of upper management is learning the "subtleties of medical staff management and the clinical equations that go into running a small hospital like ours."

He said there are no established guidelines for "creating and maintaining chemistry" with staff.

Ideally, managers and directors would come to the COO "on the day-to-day operations" of the

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Where are they now?

Editor:

As a 1980 graduate of BHS, it seems like only yesterday that my colleagues were preparing for life after 'senior ditch-day.'

It's become a tradition with our class not to organize a reunion.

Nevertheless, some of us remain in contact. In fact, I've been in contact with the following class members:

My talented twin brother Terry N. is a prospering business owner of a micro brewpub in Portland, Ore. Jeff G. is doing very well as an investment and insurance agent for State Farm in Nevada.

Kurt W. is living in Sonora, Calif., and is employed in the timber industry. Lee L. has been to Iraq as a Navy Chief -- and 20+ year man -- and came home to his family as a decorated service member.

Sonny Jarrell is a welder in Stockton, and continues to be a good friend of mine. Brian B. is a successful business man, with MBA in hand, and lives in Cambell, Calif, just miles from me.

Kirk P. is a retired 20-year Navy veteran, who lives in Iowa working in the technology industry. Dave Husa lives in Paradise, Calif., and works for PG&E as a mechanic.

Mike H. continues to work in the utility industry, and is anticipating a move to southern California soon. Brent N. is living in Bend, Ore., and applies his fabrication skills in the custom motorhome manufacturing industry. His sister, Barbara N. lives in Montana where she works as a custom embroidery manager.

Buddy E. still lives in Johnson Park, and enjoys the Intermountain area year round, as does James "Jamie" V.

As for me, I live in Los Gatos, Calif., -- in the Silicon Valley -- and continue my 20-year career in the graphic communication industry.

Best wishes to all who remotely recall our modest contributions to B.H.S. Many of us turned out better than even the most optimistic instructors had hoped for.

Right stuff needed to work at rural hospitals

Editor:

How do you describe a nurse working in a rural hospital?

Many descriptives come to my mind: compassionate, sacrificial, practical, knowledgeable, diplomatic, resourceful. To name just a few!

Having worked many years in large, urban hospitals, I know without question that working in a rural environment takes individuals with the "right stuff."

Nurses in acute care work on the Medical-Surgical Unit, Emergency/Ambulance, Obstetrics, Outpatient Medical, Cardiac Rehab, Surgery, Recovery, Outpatient Surgery, Hospice, Infection Control, Staff Development and Administration.

Many nurses are trained to work in most of these areas, as needed. Now that's flexibility!

In a rural hospital, the nursing staff is called on to care for people across the lifespan from newborn babies to the elderly-often all on the same shift!

Each age group has unique needs and responds to illness and medical treatment differently. The rural nurse strives to meet ALL her patient's needs, all the time.

Rural nurses may not have all the latest gadgets but they understand what good patient care is and focus on that.

The facility may not have a grand piano in the lobby but the patients are bathed, fed, medicated and treated as individuals at a personal level that is simply impossible in the larger setting. Very often patients and staff are on a first name basis!

In this day and age of a nursing shortage with nurse unions driving up the cost of healthcare, dedicated nurses in the Intermountain Area are choosing to remain in their community hospital, at lower wages with increased commitment because they value ideals that go beyond compensation.

Caring for loved ones, friends and neighbors in a struggling rural hospital means more than a bigger paycheck.

Take time to tell a nurse, and of course our dedicated Nursing Assistants, how much you appreciate their caring to make a difference.

Community has benefited from their skill

Editor:

The nursing staff at Mayers Skilled Nursing Facility (SNF) are a group of dedicated professionals.

These individuals have come from various areas and states. Many are local, while others have chosen to reside in this beautiful area.

The community and Mayers have benefited from their skills, knowledge, hard work, and commitment.

Mayers strives to meet the distinctive needs of all our patients. Each member of the nursing staff is challenged to utilize their efforts in providing personal and special services to those who request care.

Our unique employees, including ward clerks and medical records clerks, provide never-ending services.

Without these individuals quality care could not occur. Mayers would like to give a big "Thank You" to all the nursing staff for a job well done.

Battle at lake stirs Almanor

Editor:

The battle at Lake Almanor has been forced to enter a second stage.

Regardless of PG&E's November 2004 statement, this power supplier and the State Water Resources Control Board (SWRCB), are still considering a series of three Thermal Curtains to steal cold water from Lake Almanor and Butt Valley Reservoir, and move it down stream to the lower reaches of the North Fork of the Feather River.

The irony in the idea starts with the understanding that NO historical data is available to show that the temperature was ever lower in those stretches.

Plumas County and its constituents have been outraged by the possible destruction of their ecosystem.

The local Maidu tribes have pointed out the fact that burial grounds under Lake Almanor will be desecrated by the dredging required to pull the cold water from the lake.

Unfortunately, the SWRCB has not acknowledged the fact, or made any steps to stop this insanity.

Several alternatives to the Thermal Curtain are being explored.

Plumas County residents, and the local Maidu tribes may support one such alternative.

That alternative is upstream restoration. The plan is to recreate and enhance the retention and recharge functions of streams, floodplains, forest and wetlands in the upper reaches of the river system.

They also would be looking at installing vegetative buffers along waterways to enhance filtration and lower summer water temperatures through streamside shading.

This approach to help lower water temperatures seems to be the only alternative to the Thermal Curtain that would actually benefit everyone.

For more information on the struggle to stop the Thermal Curtain at Lake Almanor and Butt Valley Reservoir, please visit the www.savelakealmanor.org website.

artwork for an auction the Friends have planned," said Cleckler.

Max was born in Oklahoma and grew up in Los Angeles. He took piano lessons as a child and that was the beginning of his lifelong love of music.

"Max's knowledge of everything musical - he can name any tune in one note - and visual - what a movie buff! - and literary enable him to excel at helping the library," Dean and Cleckler said.

He served in the U.S. Navy in the Korean War and spent his leaves in Japan, a place he still loves.

He later moved to San Francisco where he was an independent design consultant and was employed as the interior designer for the White House department store.

In 1969, he moved to Northern California and in 1977 he came to the Intermountain area, his father's home since the 1930's.

He currently manages rental properties.

"Max's good nature, his wide-ranging interests, and his sheer delight in everything the world has to offer make him unequalled as a library ambassador. The Burney branch is lucky to have him as a friend."

Student donation

Students in the Burney High School FHA-Hero Association recently donated $435 to the Make-A-Wish Foundation and raised money for the project by selling stars and wrist bands to students and community members. Advisor Connie Signs said several of her freshman students also pitched in to help. ## One day studio tours, workshops in Reno

One day studio tours and workshops are offered July 1 and Aug. 5 for anyone 16 and older at the E.L. Cord Museum School of the Nevada Museum of Art in Reno.

Classes are limited in size and early registration is recommended. Scholarships are available for all ages.

Students will travel by mini-bus at 9 a.m. to visit the studios of two or more artists, return to the Museum at noon for lunch at the Café Musee, and then participate in a hands-on workshop with one of the artists visited.

On July 1, students will visit Maria Partridge's drawing and painting studio and then see Connie Paulson, who works in fused glass.

Partridge will lead the afternoon workshop where students will do pencil and charcoal drawings and acrylic painting.

On Aug. 5 students will first visit the studios of Jim Zlokovich (painting) and Joe Zuccarini (sculpture) and then see where David Boyer creates his wind-driven sculpture.

Zlokovich will lead the workshop on contemporary abstract painting techniques. The workshops are $75 each for non-members and $60 for members, plus a $5 to $10 material fee. Lunch is included.

There is another one-day art class just for children 8 to 12 on June 25 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Wingfield Park.

Instructor: Jennifer Ishimatsu will teach how to draw and paint summer landscapes, drawing with dry pastels and painting with vibrant watercolors.

Up to her elbows in animals at camp

Megan Calzia, 13, of Burney, will be "up to her elbows in animals" next week during Zooventures, a special Girl Scout adventure camp at Busch Gardens in Tampa Bay, Florida.

Megan and 30 other Girl Scouts from throughout the United States were selected for the six-day experience after submitting an application and essay.

The Girl Scouts will work with the zookeepers and the animals in the morning and enjoy outings to Adventure Island water park and a full afternoon and evening at SeaWorld in Orlando.

Calzia and a Girl Scout from San Rafael fly out of Sacramento June 7.

Their round-trip flight was donated by an executive with a New York City investment agency.

Megan also received a $500 scholarship from Girl Scouts for the camp.

She is a member of Girl Scout Troop 35, of the Intermountain Service Center, Girl Scouts of the Sierra-Cascade region.

Megan is the daughter of John and Elaine Calzia of

Advanced parli-pro does well at state competition

By ESTHER DOLMAN

Months of after-school practice finally paid off for the McArthur FFA Advanced Parli-Pro team.

The team, consisting of Jackie McArthur, Delaney Chapman, Blaire Bidwell, Lynnea Bettger, Tim Arnold, Alex Vigil, Kelsey Sloat and Esther Dolman, competed at State Finals.

After the first two rounds, only six teams went on to the final round; McArthur was one of the top six.

McArthur competed the following day and had a fairly good debate round. Unfortunately, it wasn't enough to take to competition. With only 12 points determining second through fifth place, McArthur received fifth place in the state.

Immediate following state finals was the 77th California State FFA Leadership Conference.

Even though the conference lasted only four days, each of the 23 McArthur participants, Jeff Stackhouse, Blaire Bidwell, Jackie McArthur, Lynnea Bettger, Russell Burkett, Delaney Chapman, Alex Vigil, Esther Dolman, Amanda Holscher, Hannah Moyer, Jenna Shuler, Kayla Shelton, Aubrey Shaffer, Kenny McArthur, John McArthur, Jessica Neugebauer, Kayleen Drollinger, Haley Martin, Emily Estes, Bliss Bidwell, Tim Arnold, Kelsey Sloat and Casi Carpenter would say that it had a positive impact on them.

With the "Live the Journey" theme, more than 4,000 FFA members from across the state were encouraged to enjoy and benefit from life, no matter what comes their way.

Each chapter sent two voting delegates who voted on proposals and amendments to the California State FFA Constitution.

It is also their responsibility to vote for the state officers for the upcoming year. Both John McArthur and Esther Dolman represented the McArthur FFA chapter.

The delegates had several opportunities that the rest of the participants didn't get to take advantage of.

First of all, the delegates were required to discuss controversial topics, so that the correct changes to the constitution could be made.

Second, they had the opportunity to debate in the conference preceding the voting process.

Each year the conference has one or two keynote speakers that make each conference unique.

This year, however, four very influential people, who gave amazing words of encouragement and appreciation, spoke to the California FFA Association.

Jackie Mundt, the National FFA President, spoke at the opening session of the conference.

Ceramic tile fundraiser to assist SOS in pool project

The Save Our Swimming Committee for the Burney community pool is selling ceramic tiles as a fundraiser for the pool.

The decorative tiles are $25 each or $10 for children under 12.

A wall at the pool is currently decorated with a design of tiles with the names of families or individuals.

Groups can also buy a block of tiles.

"We feel we can make some money doing this and already have someone who will decorate them," said Lola Harris, SOS chairperson.

In spite of a prolonged rainy season, Harris said that they are making progress in getting the pool ready for swimmers.

The pool entry facility "looks really, really nice and, we hope, inviting for people to use."

ference. Later, Scott Greenberg, a well-known speaker, told of many life struggles and how to overcome them.

This year, all 4,000 plus members were able to hear the words of the State Secretary of Agriculture as well as a State Senator.

Each expressed their gratitude and support for the FFA Organization.

This was a once in a lifetime opportunity, and fortunately, members of the McArthur chapter were able to experience it.

As well as listening to several great speakers, there were many activities to take part in.

In fact, the conference started off with literally a "convention-center full" of activities.

With everything from dancing to boxing and sumo wrestling to Velcro walls.

On the last day, members of the Superior Region (Oregon border to Grass Valley) attended a catered breakfast.

Pioneer Day Saturday at F.R. museum

The Fort Crook Historical Society will raffle a pig at Pioneer Day at the Fort Crook Museum on Saturday.

Raffle tickets to win half a pig are available at the Fort Crook Museum and at many businesses in the Intermountain area for $1 each or books of 6 for $5.

Those entered need not be present to win. Ernie Bruce of Bruce Ranch donated the pig and Johansen's Meats of Orland processed it.

Pioneer Day will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and feature activities of early settlers to the Intermountain area including quilting, spinning and weaving, logging, blacksmithing, ice cream making, and more.

Visitors will also learn how chuck wagons were outfitted and mules were packed for travel.

A horse drawn wagon will provide shuttle from parking to the museum area.

There is no admission fee and refreshments will be available for purchase.

Fort Crook Museum was built by volunteers of the Fort Crook Historical Society to preserve and share the history of the Intermountain area.

The Museum currently consists of the main building with pioneer and Native American artifacts.

Also, the James Showcase with vignettes representing rooms from the home of an early settler of Adin; the mechanical barn with blacksmith forge, print shop, dairy equipment, vehicles from horse drawn to horseless.

Two log cabins, one set up as it would have been used; the Pittville schoolhouse with pony shed; a two-cell jail; and the round building housing early farm equipment that many think is the museum.

Community support is being sought to move the Round Barn to the Museum this summer.

The museum is open Tuesday through Sunday, noon to 4 p.m., from May 1 to Oct. 31.

The Shasta County Farm Bureau sponsored the event.

Partnership awarded sage planning grant

One of only 8 nationwide

U.S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Mike Johanns awarded a $72,652 grant under the Natural Resources Conservation Service's (NRCS), Conservation Partnership Initiative (CPI) program to a partnership of the Pit Resource Conservation District (PRCD), the Susanville Indian Rancheria (SIR) and the Lassen County Fire Safe Council, Inc. (LCFSC).

Combined with matching funds, the partners will have a $147,732 budget to implement their Cooperative Sagebrush Steppe Restoration Initiative.

They will be joined in an 18 month planning effort by dozens of project partners who will help develop a plan for voluntary private land sagebrush steppe restoration projects.

After the planning effort is complete the Principals have set a $2 million goal for funds to apply conservation practices during an initial three year implementation period.

The project encompasses a large portion of Lassen County and the entire Pit RCD in Lassen and Modoc counties.

CPI is a voluntary program designed to foster conservation partnerships and fund projects that focus technical and financial resources on conservation priorities in watersheds and other geographic areas of environmental sensitivity.

"These grants are part of the Bush Administration's efforts to support cooperative conservation," said Johanns.

"They enhance the development of locally led solutions to important natural resource problems and help producers cooperate and share information to address environmental challenges."

PRCD submitted the application on behalf of the partnership. Only eight grants were awarded nationwide.

"The CPI application was truly a team effort" said Tom Esgate, director for the Lassen County Fire Safe Council and the designated project director for the initiative.

"The Lassen County Resource Advisory Committee made an important $30,000 challenge contribution that helped us meet our match requirement and we are especially appreciative of the support Congressman Doolittle has given us."

"He and his staff have taken a keen interest in the project and the potential it holds for ecosystem restoration and biomass power production in the future."

Removal of invasive juniper and biomass utilization will be key elements in the project implementation phase.

The encroachment of western juniper into the sagebrush steppe is widely acknowledged as the single factor having the greatest impact on land health in the region and it is a significant contributor to hazardous fuel loads.

This was the second time the partners had applied for CPI funds.

NRCS in California is only allowed to choose one project from the state to enter the national competition for CPI funds.

"All the partners are grateful that the staff of the state office stood behind us and supported us for two years in row," said Esgate.

"We are planning a very open and inclusive process that will solicit input from the public throughout the project area."

The end result of the planning effort will be a comprehensive plan for voluntary restoration efforts that will complement the planning work being undertaken by BLM and the US Forest Service.

"With the award of CPI funds, sagebrush steppe restoration efforts will now be firing on all eight cylinders in northeast California," said Esgate.

In addition to the comprehensive plan, the partnership intends to produce at least eight site specific plans for producers and one of those will be for the SIR.

The sites for the individual plans will be selected from landowners who come forward during the planning process to request restoration assistance.

Throughout the 18-month planning phase and the three-year initial implementation phase, the partners will seek grants and other assistance to meet their $2 million goal.

The partners plan to begin their first in a series of public meetings later this summer.

Additional information on CPI and the grant awards is on the web at <http://www.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/cpi>.

Old Station adds new equipment for rescue

By JOANN MOORE
President, OSVFC

With the help of Shasta County Fire, CDF and the gracious donations of three local businesses, Old Station Volunteer Fire Company has acquired a new rescue tool for vehicle extraction, commonly known as the "jaws of life."

Until now, Old Station's volunteers have had to call on other fire departments to request this tool in emergency situations.

This can cause delays, particularly if the tool is needed at the far end of Old Station's response area on the Hat Creek Rim.

With this new tool, Old Station volunteers will be able to respond immediately when a vehicular accident creates a situation requiring immediate extraction that cannot be accomplished with hand tools.

The partnership of Shasta County Fire and the California Department of Forestry made it possible for Old Station to acquire a "newly used" Holmatro Rapid Intervention

Tool that needed only some additional parts.

These were provided by three local businesses: Sierra Pacific Industries, Shasta Green and Burney Forest Products.

Their generous financial assistance helped make it possible for Old Station Fire to purchase the additional equipment to complete the tool package.

The community spirit reflected in these donations makes us proud to live in the Intermountain area.

Water flows to increase Saturday

Pacific Gas and Electric Company will be increasing the water flow through the Fall River Pond beginning Saturday through Sunday.

The "flushing" flows which are a requirement of the State Water Resources Control Board Certification for the Pit 1 hydroelectric project will provide an additional boating opportunity as well as help control the growth of aquatic vegetation and mosquito production.

Normal flows for this waterway at this time of year are 150 cubic feet per second.

To meet the state's requirement, flows will be increased to 1,250 cubic feet per second.

The increased flows will be ramped up beginning at 2 a.m. on Saturday and held until 3 p.m. Sunday when they will be ramped down to 150 cfs.

Flows will be released from the Pit 1 forebay through the Fall River Pond increasing flows in Fall River and the Pit River to the Pit 1 Powerhouse.

Recreational and environmental flows are a result of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission License issued for the Pit 1 project in March 2003.

The flows are required three times per year.

Another benefit to recreationists resulting from the new license is real-time and forecasted flow information for a variety of rivers on the American Whitewater's website, www.americanwhitewater.org/rivers. Pit River water flows are also available on The News website, www.im-news.com.

Residents and recreationists are to be advised of the increase in water flow during the flushing process and are cautioned if entering the waterway please do so safely.

Desert tour now slated for Saturday

A free, guided four-wheel-drive desert tour, originally scheduled by the Bureau of Land Management for May 21 has been rescheduled for Saturday.

The tour was postponed because of muddy roads.

The tour will depart at 8 a.m. from the BLM Eagle Lake Field Office, 2950 Riverside Dr., Susanville, and will return at about 4 p.m.

Participants must provide their own high-clearance four-wheel-drive vehicle and bring lunch and water.

BLM Archaeologist Don Manuel and local historian Tim Purdy will lead the outing to Bull Flat, Skedaddle Dam, Amedee, Flanigan, the Smoke Creek Desert and Dry Valley.

At various stops, discussions will focus on the natural resources of the area, development of ranching, and historic transportation and military uses in the region.

The tour route could be altered depending on road and weather conditions.

Forest Service celebrates 100 years with film

As the Forest Service enters its Centennial year, a new documentary brings the history of the agency to a broad audience.

"The Greatest Good" uses rarely seen footage and photos, sweeping landscape aerial shots and dozens of interviews to tell a complex and compelling story of the American public lands.

Before "environmentalism", before the National Park Service, the U.S. Forest Service was created in 1905 by President Theodore Roosevelt and his Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot.

They sought not only to conserve disappearing natural resources but also to maximize the social benefits from those resources.

Pinchot's mission statement for his new agency stated "...where conflicting interests must be reconciled, the question shall always be decided from the standpoint of the greatest good of the greatest number in the long run."

The two-hour documentary "The Greatest Good" uses this maxim as its starting point and as an organizing theme.

It traces the Forest Service efforts to deliver the most benefits to the most people, while remaining good stewards of the land.

It is along this axis, the exploitation and protection of the nature, that the story turns.

About the national forests, historian Char Miller says: "We own them! So of course we are going to disagree about how they should be managed."

Conflict, he argues, is inherent to the management of public lands in a democracy.

The film examines these conflicts in major natural resource issues: grazing, fire, wilderness, game/wildlife, watershed protection, recreation and, of course, timber.

The film also profiles Forest Service employees, including Pinchot, Aldo Leopold, Arthur Carhart, and Bob Marshall, who invented new ways of addressing these conflicts.

The film features an original score and is narrated by Charles Osgood.

"The Greatest Good" documentary will be shown Friday at the Cascade Theatre in Redding, at the Sierra Theater in Susanville at 10 a.m. on Saturday, and at the Memorial Hall in Chester at 5 p.m. on Saturday. Admission is free.

Repairs to increase by 47 percent

Supplies are up almost 15 percent with almost $2.3 million budgeted.

The budget for repairs is $106,000, an almost 47 percent increase over the fiscal year ending June 30.

The budget anticipates 167 more patient days for acute and 60 more for swing beds, but 139 fewer patient days in OB and a two percent loss in skilled nursing patient days.

The hospital budgeted for 13 fewer surgery inpatient cases, 49 fewer ER visits, and 148 fewer lab visits.

Patient day increases are projected in radiology procedures, respiratory therapy and hospice.

The budget shows capital expenditures at more than $550,000 for 2006.

The directors also approved a rate increase for services effective July 1.

One of several increases is the cost for major operations, which will be $715 per 15 minute increments, an increase of $65. Minor surgery is increasing $50 to $525 per 15 minute increments.

The cost for a semi-private room is up $85 to $935 per day. Swing beds are $660 per day, a $60 increase over current rates.

Obstetric rooms are increasing to $935 per day. The nursery will be $480 per day. Several other hospital rates are also going to be higher.

Tis the season to controlling codling moths in local apples

Using Trichogramma platerni wasp is another alternative control practice.

The wasps need to be released on each individual tree because they usually crawl and seldom fly to reach individual apples.

Pheromone is the chemical that the female codling moths use to attract the males for mating and pheromone saturation is successful in commercial orchards.

However, it has been found to provide poor control in backyard trees.

Homeowners can review biology information on codling moth (and numerous other household pests), weather records used to determine the biofix date, degree day projections, and University of California Integrated Pest Management control options at www.ipm.ucdavis.edu.

Older higher urged for CEO post at Mayers Memorial hospital and the CEO would take on every other aspect of managing the facility and personnel.

Fikes suggested that the board hire someone older "who has already been to the big city," rather than a younger manager who might use Mayers as a stepping stone to higher salaries elsewhere.

In other business, the board heard:

- The Community Needs Assessment Committee is having a workshop from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 18 at the Intermountain Evangelical Free Church in McArthur.

- The McConnell Foundation will consider a hospital request for funding for one to three pieces of equipment during an Eastern Shasta County site visit. Mayers needs laboratory centrifuges, fetal monitors and lab cell washers.

- White dots were painted in hospital parking spaces next to entrances and exits and are reserved for family and patient parking and night shift employees.

- A policy change for employees returning from medical leave. For safety purposes, employees who return to work will be re-tested for their capability to perform their job functions before being returned to the positions.

- A new session of Certified Nurse Assistant classes through Feather River College is June 10 - Aug. 6

- Dr. Chris Camarata is taking over Dr. Robert Adams' long term care patients June 1.

Sophomore edged out of top spot at section finals

Fall River High School's Handa just tenths of second away from win

Fall River High School sophomore Brent Handa was just tenths of a second away from winning the 3,200-meter race and a chance to compete in the state championships when Corning junior Cesar Silva overtook him.

Silva finished in 9:41.30 and Handa took second place in 9:41.65 at the Northern Section Track and Field Championships held Friday at West Valley High School in Cottonwood.

Big Valley's Jacob Jarvie also had to accept second place after a 42-foot jump in the Boys' Triple Jump.

Burney's Jackie Harris cleared 6-feet, 6-inches in the pole vault for sixth place.

Big Valley's Adam McKenzie completed the 200-meter dash in 23.78 for 6th place and Talor Fulfer jumped 5-feet, 8 inches in the high jump for seventh.

Big Valley's 4X100 relay team finished in 46.25 for 7th place. The runners were Jason Roope, Caleb Fritsch, Juan Escalante and Adam McKenzie.

"Just to make it there is amazing," said Gere Handa, Brent's mother and Fall River's track and field coach.

As for Brent's race, she said, "He ran a good race, but Cesar was right there and overtook him at the very, very end"

She said she was pleased because "Brent ran faster in the second half of the race and that's something we'd been working on."

Handa's best time in the 3,200 was this season at the Woody Wilson Invitational at UC, Davis, where he won first in 9:31.70.

He has another chance to compete June 12 in the Adidas Golden West Invitational in Folsom.

Have Fun! Read!

Dive Into Some Cool Books

This summer, give yourself the luxury of reading just for the fun of it. Find a special spot to read — on the beach, under a tree or in a cool room. Then grab a newspaper, The Mini Page or a book, and enjoy!

The Mini Page gives you a sampling of fun books you probably can find at your library or bookstore.

Before she began writing and illustrating books, Sandra Boynton was known for her funny greeting cards featuring animals. Her books include "Rhinoceros Tap: And 14 Other Seriously Silly Songs."

"Philadelphia Chickens" includes a CD of the funny songs in this book.

Eoin Colfer is best known for his books about teen criminal mastermind Artemis Fowl. "Artemis Fowl" is being made into a movie.

In "Artemis Fowl, The Opal Deception," Artemis teams up with fairy captain Holly Short to battle the evil pixie Opal Koboi. It is up to Artemis to keep the fairy and human worlds from clashing.

Jane Hammerslough is a former teacher. She has written more than 20 books for kids and articles for many magazines.

The pages of "Dinosaurs" fan out to add to the fun of learning about dinosaurs.

Regina Hanson was raised in Jamaica, West Indies, and taught high school English there. Her other children's books include "The Tangerine Tree."

In "A Season for Mangoes," Sareen is afraid to speak about her grandmother at her first sit-up. This Jamaican custom celebrates the life of a loved one who has died.

Gus Goodsport's Report

Supersport: Alex Smith

Height: 6-4      Birthdate: 5-7-84
Weight: 212      Hometown: La Mesa, Calif.

Alex Smith donned a San Francisco hat and flashed a multimillion-dollar smile. He was the first of 255 players chosen in the April 23 NFL draft. What the 49ers got was a winner with smarts, skill and size.

Noted for making good decisions on the field and flashing an accurate arm, Smith led the University of Utah to a perfect 12-0 record last season and ranked second in the country in passing efficiency.

Smith isn't only football-wise. He earned a degree in economics in just two years of college, and then began working on his master's.

Now Smith — whose father, Doug, played in college, and whose uncle, John L. Smith, is the head coach at Michigan — will be involved in big-time economics after signing a huge contract with the 49ers.

Elaine: What type of cowboy steals teapots?
Earl: A kettle rustler!

Eve: Why did the cowboy die with his boots on?

Hospital's infection control staff keeping close eye on West Nile

Health officials are now saying that mosquito repellents that do not contain DEET are as effective as those that do.

Anna Engman, director of acute care nursing at Mayers Memorial Hospital, recently gave an update on West Nile Virus and said state and federal health agencies have determined that DEET-free products have "good effect."

While DEET is still recommended, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention said that repellents containing the chemical picaridin or the natural oil of lemon eucalyptus offer "long-lasting protection against mosquito bites."

The Environmental Protection Agency reports that when oil of lemon eucalyptus was tested against mosquitoes found in the U.S., it provided protection similar to repellents with low concentrations of DEET.

Oil of lemon eucalyptus has not been tested against mosquitoes that spread malaria and some other diseases which occur internationally, according to the CDC.

Picaridin, while still a chemical, reportedly smells better and feels better on the skin than products containing DEET.

Both products have been available in Europe and Australia since the 1980's.

New products without DEET include Repel and BugOff!

Spectrum Brands has had a repellent with oil of lemon eucalyptus since 2002 and recently introduced Cutter Advanced, a picaridin-based repellent.

Lemon eucalyptus oil usually lasts from 2 to 5 hours, but should be reapplied right away if mosquitoes resume biting.

Picaridin products provide about six hours of protection.

The CDC still encourages people to stay indoors at dawn and dusk and to protect themselves by wearing pants and long-sleeved shirts while outside during mosquito season.

People should also routinely check their property for and empty containers of water that are often breeding grounds for the flying insects.

Engman said the hospital's Infection Control staff is "keeping a close eye on West Nile Virus."

According to the CDC, no cases of West Nile virus cases have been reported in Shasta County so far in 2005 or have there been any reports of West Nile in humans or horses throughout California.

The state has reported 70 bird deaths from the virus with the majority, 16 cases, in Orange County. Santa Clara County reported 8 bird deaths and Sonoma County, 6.

There have been three West Nile Virus bird deaths in Humboldt County and one in Tehama County in 2005.

All dead birds, especially crows, jays, and raptors, should be reported to the Dead Bird Hotline. Call the toll-free number 877-WNV-BIRD (877-968-2473) or send an e-mail to: arbovirus@dhs.

ca.gov. West Nile Virus is transmitted to people and animals by infected mosquitoes.

Only certain species of mosquitoes carry the virus and very few mosquitoes are actually infected.

A mosquito first acquires the infection by feeding on a bird with virus in its blood.

The virus lives in the mosquito and is transmitted to a new host in the mosquito's saliva when the insect bites a person or animal.

The virus is most prevalent from May to October when mosquitoes are most abundant.
