

Understanding Global Change workshop registration

The cost of this summer course is $75 which will cover snacks and all materials. Lunch is not provided.

Please fill out the following form and mail it, along with a check for $75 made out to "UC Regents," to:

University of California, Berkeley
Understanding Global Change Summer Institute
Museum of Paleontology
1101 VLSB #4780
Berkeley, CA 94720-4780

Name _____

Mailing address _____

Phone _____ Email _____

School _____ Grade level at which you teach _____

Course(s) you currently teach

School address _____

The workshop is aimed at educators who are not only interested in learning more about global change science, but who also are interested in integrating learning materials on global change into their classroom and demonstrating the Understanding Global Change web resource with their students. Following the workshop, we ask for a commitment of one semester in which teachers will remain in contact with the Understanding Global Change team to provide feedback and additional information.

Please provide a brief explanation of why you want to participate in the Understanding Global Change summer institute and how you would apply the workshop topic and web resource materials in your classroom.

See page 2 ...

Please explain if and in what way you are already teaching about global change in your classroom and, if you are not, what (if any) barriers you experience in teaching about this topic.

List 2–3 key topics that you hope will be covered in this summer institute:

If you have any questions, please contact
Lisa White at ldwhite@berkeley.edu or Minda Berbeco at berbeco@ncse.com