General Information

Objectives

This conference provides continuing education in the prevention, recognition and treatment of child abuse and neglect, with a focus on CSEC in Georgia.

At the completion of this conference, the participant should be better able to:

- Explain CSEC.
- Define child sexual abuse and identify its impact on a child and a community.
- Describe the legal and informal methods lawyers use to obtain records.
- Discuss how to work with children with developmental disorders when evaluating for abuse and neglect.
- Outline current CSEC prevention programs for children and young adults.
- Discuss factors for determining when child exploitation offenses originating on the local law enforcement level should be considered for exclusive federal prosecution or dual prosecution by both entities.
- Review the ways to identify children who are exposed to intimate partner violence.
- Describe the risk factors and consequences of teen dating violence.

Who Should Attend

- Attorneys, law enforcement officers and juvenile court staff
- Child advocacy center staff and Court-appointed Special Advocates (CASA)
- Division of Family and Children Services (DFCS) staff and victim advocates
- Medical professionals, school staff, and violence and injury prevention professionals
- Psychologists, mental health providers, counselors and social workers
- Foster parents, other caregivers and students interested in child abuse and neglect issues

About the Stephanie V. Blank Center for Safe and Healthy Children

The center promotes the safety and well-being of children through advocacy in the community and the identification, assessment and prevention of child abuse and neglect. The center works closely with law enforcement agencies, child protective services and other community professionals when investigating reports of child abuse and neglect. Available services include forensic medical evaluations and interviews, multidisciplinary team reviews, case tracking and research, and collaborative partnerships. The center also offers ongoing training, education and consultation to professionals throughout Georgia and the Southeast.

Children's Healthcare of Atlanta resolves to ensure that its educational mission and, particularly, its continuing medical education activities are not influenced by the special interests of any corporation or individual associated with its program. While having a financial interest or professional affiliation with a corporation does not necessarily influence a speaker's presentation, the standards of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education require that this relationship be disclosed to the audience. Any potential conflict of interest will be made known to participants at the beginning of the conference.

All programs are intended to be accessible to all persons. If you have a disability and require assistance to fully participate in the conference activities, contact the conference coordinator to discuss your specific needs.
