

Post Traumatic Stress Disorder: the impact of traumatic events on brain, behaviour, emotions and mental health in children and young people

Friday 4 December 2015; 09.00am until 17:00pm

Chilworth Manor Conference Centre, Baddesley, Southampton SO16 7PT

OVERVIEW

ACAMH Southern branch are pleased to invite you to their winter conference on Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD). Children and young people who are exposed to psychological trauma may subsequently experience a range of symptoms characterised as PTSD. These difficulties can be pervasive and persistent, interfere with functioning and underlie other problems e.g. depression and anxiety.

This conference, which is suitable for professionals and practitioners working with children and young people, will explore the origins of the concept of PTSD, our current knowledge of the effects of trauma on brain function and evidence for and techniques used in therapy with parents and children.
