The World's Largest-Established Event Dedicated to Africa's Upstream Industry

We invite you to join us, industry peers and colleagues from all over Africa and around the world for the Continent's longest established landmark and world-class Conference, dedicated to the fast-moving African upstream industry – covering breaking trends and critical issues from Cape to Cairo, Madagascar to Mauritania. Meet with key corporate players and national oil companies; interact with senior executives, state oil officials and Ministerial-Government delegations making up the most prominent annual conference held in and on the oil and gas-LNG and energy industry for Africa.

Within the 22nd Africa Upstream 2015 program there will be over 100 corporate/state speakers, plus private and public companies seeking to execute acreage deals and farmouts, combining a quality program with over 160+ corporate industry exhibitors, numerous government roadshows for acreage/asset transaction, along with the presence of major energy banking institutions, institutional oil and equity investors, project financiers, multilaterals, transaction advisors and the a wide range of growing service and supply industry operators found across Africa's oil and gas-LNG value chain.

Our flagship Africa Upstream Conference has long-pioneered, and continues to shape, the consolidation of strategy and technical geoscience knowledge on the continent's oil and gas, and for shaping portfolio in the wider exploration world.

We hope you will join us,

Global Pacific & Partners and ITE Group plc

Africa: Crude Continent: The Struggle for Africa's Oil Prize

This TV/Film Documentary by CNBC Africa is based on the widely-acclaimed book by author Dr Duncan Clarke on Africa's oil game, the players and governments, historiography and impacts on the Continent. Narrated by Chris Bishop, it reveals fascinating insights into the heart of Africa's fast growing oil industry, along with the drama shaping its oil and gas: where it is found, its economic significance, and the critical issues around its exploration, discovery, development and future – plus with interviews from Africa's oil industry experts.

Scramble for Africa

Resources, Strategy Briefing

Cape Town, 26 October 2015

Our widely-acclaimed Scramble for Africa: Strategy Briefing, held prior to Africa Upstream Conference, provides unrivalled insights into the Continent's fast-changing corporate upstream oil and gas game. The Strategy Briefing is built on 35 years plus of oil-gas and economics knowledge, based on extensive research and insider relationships held across Africa and the world. Presentations are made by Dr Duncan Clarke (Chairman of the Board, Global Pacific & Partners), the leading strategist, speaker, thinker, writer and author on Africa's fast-growing, complex upstream game.

Unique to Global Pacific & Partners, this high-quality Strategy Briefing tracks changing competitor maps across Africa's exploration landscapes for oil and gas-LNG companies and foreign state oil firms, within the shifting paradigms shaped by governments and national oil companies. It provides deep-level and seasoned insights with critical interpretations on the strategies of around 750+ corporate players, in a one-of-a-kind review which reveals Africa's emerging and evolving petro-cartography found above-ground, shown as never seen before.

Duncan Clarke is author of the path-breaking, widely-acclaimed continent-wide, 100-year historiography of the upstream and the exploration game, elaborated in Africa Crude Continent: The Struggle for Africa's Oil Prize (Profile Books, 2010: TV-Film Documentary by CNBC-Africa), shown at luncheons in the Conference Auditorium. Earlier published works include The Battle For Barrels (Profile, 2007) and Empires Of Oil (Profile 2007) plus Africa's Future: Darkness To Destiny (Profile Books 2012), and with co-author Babette van Gessel, Three Decades in the Long Grass: The Story of Global Pacific & Partners (Jacana Media, Johannesburg, 2014).

Well over 2,500 senior executives and state oil officials have attended our annual Scramble for Africa: Strategy Briefing over the last 16 years, with 250 in attendance in 2014. Participants benefit from deep understanding of corporate strategies, access to unique knowledge, high-level networking, with Luncheon and Cocktails, prior to our 71st PetroAfricanus Dinner in Africa (separately bookable).

Delegates receive online access to presentations, plus segments for download on "Born in Africa" companies and in addition, the option for separate purchase of our insights from our Strategy Briefing on African National Oil Companies & Governments.

Right of Admission Reserved by Global Pacific & Partners. No Press: Machiavelli's Rules (No Reportage).

Purchase: African National Oil Companies & Governments: Strategy Briefing - £ 750 (GBP)

Delegates to the 17th Scramble for Africa and 22nd Africa Upstream may acquire the separate purchase of this updated, informative and complementary Strategy Briefing, crafted in around 600 images by Duncan Clarke, depicting the state of play in Africa's game, as shaped by State firms and Government entities. The themes cover key issues and provide data on the emergence of Africa's hydrocarbons, the evolution of state entities and the selective policies in-play.

Note: This Strategy Briefing is in download format only, accessible from our e-Conference facility provided for the 22nd Africa Upstream Conference, and for authorised delegates only, on special terms, subject to payment received. To purchase, please complete the registration form provided in the 22nd Africa Oil Week Conference Brochure. Right of Purchase Reserved.

Scramble for Africa

Resources, Strategy Briefing

Cape Town,
Monday, 26th October
2015

Highlights

The Strategy Briefing covers inter alia the following issues with significant current and long-term relevance to oil/gas companies, Governments, National Oil Companies, oil and gas investors, licensing agencies, and executives and corporate strategists in Africa's oil & gas industry and business world, notably:

Top to Bottom diagnosis of the strategies, portfolios and shifting competitive interests of over 750 oil/gas companies in Africa

No-holds barred forensic analysis of the policies, politics and initiatives of Africa's Governments and state oil players active on the Continent

Intensive, image-driven discourse on the proliferating numbers of corporate players and their strengths and weaknesses within Africa

Worldwide understanding of the foreign state oil companies in or entering Africa, based on our direct relationships and advisory practice

Critical insights on the diverse portfolios in play for unlocking Africa's oil and gas natural capital, as the continent's primary economic growth driver

Significance of the surge towards resource nationalism in key African countries, for energy/oil-gas investments and corporate oil strategies

Drivers of the competitive corporate game in Africa, and the lunge by Great Powers (China, India, Russia, Europe, Latin), with the rise of state oil entities

The shaping of foreign/domestic oil and gas investment trends Africa-wide, and implications for local and foreign company players alike

Emerging corporate opportunities and state oil/energy bottlenecks (in resource nationalism, infrastructure, capital markets) for Africa's growth path

New entrants, die-hards, the "good, bad and ugly" – from super-majors-to-minnows – now shaping and making Africa's oil future

Intelligence and insight unavailable elsewhere, with rich-content, to reveal the evolving corporate oil and gas landscapes across Africa
