Maintaining an inventory of the items in your house can be helpful if you ever have an insurance claim. Preparing a list before something happens is easier than trying to write a list from memory later. A detailed inventory can also speed up the claims process and help prove tax-deductible, uninsured losses.

Tips for making your home inventory:

- Make your inventory as complete and detailed as possible. Your insurance company will require a detailed list of your personal property before paying your claim. Update your inventory regularly to add new items.
- List purchase dates, values, serial numbers, and brand names for items when possible. Keep receipts for expensive items.
- Keep a detailed inventory of your clothing and accessories, including shoes and jewelry. Attach extra sheets to your inventory to include longer lists for these and other items.
- Photograph or videotape each room in your home, including inside closets, storage buildings, the attic, and the garage. Open drawers and photograph the contents. Label the photographs or videotape with the date they were taken.
- Keep your inventory, photographs and videotapes, a copy of your insurance policy, and any appraisal reports in a secure spot. Consider keeping a copy in a secure place away from your home, such as in a safe deposit box, at work, or at the house of a friend or relative.
- Save your photographs, videotapes, and any documents on a computer. Consider keeping the items in your e-mail archives so you can access them wherever you can log onto a computer.

Review your policy's personal property coverage limit annually, and be sure the limits are high enough to cover the items on your home inventory. Personal property coverage pays if the items in your house (such as furniture, clothing, and appliances) are damaged, destroyed, or stolen.

Homeowners policies usually offer limited coverage on certain personal property, such as jewelry and furs. You may be able to buy more coverage for an extra premium. Tell your agent or company about any special items you have that you'd like to insure.
