MEETING SUMMARY

Summary: Meeting opened with Valerie Pompa, plant manager, welcoming the attendees and then going through a presentation that included a status update on the state and federal permits. The presentation also included next steps in the permit process and the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality's technical review process.

In response to panel inquiries, Pompa told the group the TCEQ informed Flint Hills Resources that there have been public comments regarding the state permit. Flint Hills Resources is working with the regulatory agency to provide answers and address any concerns regarding the project and hopes to continue to advance through the permitting process.

Since the project announcement in August, Flint Hills Resources has met with more than 20 civic and community organizations as well as city and county leaders to discuss the project to process more domestic crude, while decreasing criteria emissions. Flint Hills Resources will continue to evaluate whether a larger, public meeting is necessary.

Flint Hills Resources is continuously updating the project's website www.fhrcorpuschristi.com with new information.
