What is a core fee?

If you are not able to bring in your old car battery when picking up your new battery, a 'Core' redemption charge/fee will be added to your purchase total in addition to the price of the new battery. This is a state-mandated fee that is refundable to you upon return of a used car battery. The goal is to encourage the return of unused/depleted batteries for proper recycling, helping to protect the environment from the hazardous materials present in all batteries entering landfills.

To receive a refund for this fee, you must retain your receipt showing the Core Fee paid. Bring it and your old battery within 30 days to any Walmart store location to have this fee refunded.

Prices shown on services are national pricing. Please check with your local store for local pricing that may vary.
