Executive officers of a corporation who own 25 percent or more of the corporation's common stock will no longer automatically be considered employees of the corporation under the Nebraska Workers' Compensation Act. Since the officer will not automatically be covered under the corporation's workers' compensation policy, no Corporate Executive Officer Waiver of Rights will be required if the officer chooses not to be covered. To the contrary, for policies effective January 1, 2003, if such an executive officer wants to be covered as an employee, a written election of such coverage must be filed with the insurer as well as the corporate secretary. The election is effective upon receipt by the insurer. Partners and Sole Proprietors are NOT automatically included, but may elect to be included. To be included, each has to sign a letter of intent.
