Research Paper Outline Worksheet

1. Introduction (introduces topic in interesting way; introduces key ideas to help explain your argument)
Thesis Statement: (your argument & road map)
2. Background Paragraph: (information to help reader understand the broad context of your topic)
2. Background Paragraph. (mnormation to help leader understand the broad context of your topic)
3. Section/Subtopic 1:
a.
b.
c.
How does this prove your thesis?
4. Section/Subtopic 2:
Evidence: a.
b.
c.
How does this prove your thesis?
5. Section/Subtopic 3:
Evidence:
b.
How does this prove your thesis?
6. Counter Arguments Paragraph: (explain the arguments against your thesis and refute them)
7. Concluding Section/Paragraph (restate thesis, summarize main points, offer insight to the larger significance of your topic and thesis)

- 1. Introduction: Introduce your argument and end with your thesis statement.
 - a. Set the scene and include background information that helps the reader understand your position
 - b. Thesis Statement: 1. provable, 2. arguable, 3. how you will prove your argument (Road map)

Example: Despite the unifying messages of hope from President Franklin Roosevelt, the Great Depression pulled the country apart as discrimination increased, families were separated, and the division between social classes grew.

- 2. Background Paragraph: Additional background information on your subject, event, person, etc. that helps the reader understand what you are writing about.
 - a. What caused the Great Depression?
 - b. The effort the government made to fix it New Deal
 - c. How GD was different than previous decade
- 3. Section/Subtopic 1:

Topic Sentence: Controlling sentence that tells you what the section/paragraph is going to be about. It is kind of like a "mini-thesis" in that it is an argument and you say how you will prove it. (Example: Economic hardships of the times increased the nature and extent of discrimination.)

- a. Job competition
 - 1. Mexican Americans—deportations
 - 2. African Americans—increased racism, Jim Crow laws expand
 - 3. Married Women—feared they would take away men's jobs
- b. Increased racial violence—(list specific examples)
- c. Oakies faced discrimination in California (list examples)

Clincher Sentence: This sentence ties what you discussed in this section to your thesis statement.

(Example: The discrimination during the 1930s widened already existing divisions between race, class and gender causing further fractures in the country.)

4. Section/Subtopic 2:

Topic Sentence: Another way in which the country suffered divisions was in the breakdown of the family structure.

- a. Hobos men left their families to look for work
- b. Kids left to raise themselves
 - 1. Juvenile delinquents
 - 2. Fewer children went to school
- c. Women went to work—lower pay, even when they're sole breadwinners
- d. Statistics reveal family trends: Divorce rates increased, marriage and birth rates decreased

Clincher sentence: The family was a microcosm of the country; as traditional families disintegrated, so did the foundation of the country.

- 5. Continue with this section format for as many subtopics or body paragraphs that are necessary.
- 6. Counter Arguments Paragraph: Explain the arguments against your thesis and refute them
 - a. FDR's role as a unifying force and inspirational speaker
 - Refute: many felt loyal to FDR, but that didn't change their relationship with others
 - b. New Deal provides range of jobs
 - Refute: jobs are mainly limited to younger white men; causes animosity
 - c. Pop-culture (radio, film) expands to unite country with common language, experiences
- 7. Lastly, include a concluding paragraph (or paragraphs) that summarizes your main points, restates your thesis, and offers a connection to the larger historical significance of your argument or issue.