

Richard Wilson
Small Business Advocate

Richard Wilson is Tennessee's Small Business Advocate working under the Tennessee Comptroller of the Treasury. Richard answers questions and provides information to Tennessee's small business owners. Richard serves as an informal mediator between small business owners and state agencies, and helps to resolve issues and receive comments.

Prior to joining the Comptroller's Office, Richard worked with the Tennessee State House of Representatives Chief Clerks Office. Richard was a Bill Clerk for the 108th Tennessee General Assembly. He has also managed and worked on political campaigns in Tennessee.

Richard is a graduate of the University of Mississippi, and he currently sits on the board of the Music City Rebels Club. Richard has participated in numerous charitable events benefiting organizations such as Toys for Tots, and the Second Harvest Food Bank.

Richard and his wife Morgan live in Franklin with their daughter Lucy. In his spare time, Richard enjoys golf, baseball, and tennis. During football season you may find him in Oxford, Mississippi cheering on Ole Miss.
