Page 1 of 2

Step 1: Parent: Complete this form if you wish to borrow a Federal Direct Parent PLUS Loan for 2011–2012.

Step 2: Your student must complete and submit a Free Application for Federal Student Aid at fafsa.gov, even if you are only interested in applying for the Federal Direct Parent PLUS Loan. Submit this completed form to the Financial Aid Office. Electronic document upload is preferred, and is the quickest, most efficient way to submit materials to our office. Please visit www.usc.edu/financialaid and click on “My Financial Aid & Documents” for specific instructions.

Step 3: If you did not apply for need-based financial aid, you must also complete a Supplemental Form online. Supplemental Forms are available at www.usc.edu/financialaid by clicking on “My Financial Aid & Documents.”

Step 4: Once the Financial Aid Office processes your loan and the Department of Education approves your credit, you must sign a Federal Direct Parent PLUS Loan Master Promissory Note (MPN) at studentloans.gov. You will receive an e-mail reminder at that time.

Please note: To receive your Federal PLUS Loan, the following criteria must be met.

- The student cannot be independent for the purposes of receiving federal financial aid or over the age of 24;
- The student must be enrolled as an undergraduate at least half-time in a degree-granting program;
- The student must maintain Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP);
- The student must maintain eligibility for the loan in her or his financial aid package;
- The parent must meet the federally established, minimum credit criteria. The Direct Loan Servicer will perform a credit check when we notify them of your eligibility.
