Because financial aid eligibility is determined by the difference between the cost of a student's attendance at the University of Indianapolis and the resources available to meet those costs, certain additional allowances in the student's cost-of-attendance budget are available to those who qualify. The following is a worksheet to help determine what costs you will have while attending the University of Indianapolis. Please answer accurately and honestly the questions that apply. Please report zero (0) when appropriate. Your budget will not be reviewed without appropriate documentation submitted. Submission of an appeal for a budget increase does not constitute approval for the increase. Students should not expect to receive gift aid such as grants and scholarships to support the budget increase. Generally, loans and college work study are awarded or adjusted to cover the increase in expenses. Submit documentation as requested below.
