Peace and Conflict:
Ten Years after 9-11

November 9-10, 2011

World View's 2011 Community College Global Education Symposium explores the ten years post September 11 and how this significant 21st century event has shaped global perspectives in geopolitics, East-West relations, and educational discourse. We will also look at the nature and causes of international conflict, human rights, peace resolutions, and more. This symposium offers general sessions, concurrent sessions, and support for college-based teams in creating an Action Plan for globalizing colleges. The program is designed for administrators and faculty of all disciplines, and provides current information and unique strategies for helping students learn about the world.

Location: The Friday Center at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Cost (North Carolina Educators): Registration is $175 per person. A team of 4 is $600 (save $100). A team is comprised of 4 or more individuals from the same college. Only $150 for each additional team member.

Cost (Out-of-State Educators): Registration is $275 per person.

Registration is now open. Reserve your spot today!
