Chapter LIV

Polk-Scroggin kinship

On the arrival of Capt. John Scroggin and Eunice Jane (Polk) Scroggin, his wife, in Kentucky in the fall of 1793, they established themselves on a fine farm in Bourbon County, about twelve miles from Cynthiana. There they lived, prospered, raised their children and died, and their bodies were interred in the family burying ground on the farm. It is said that Capt. Scroggin's brother, Samuel, accompanied by Ephraim Polk, 3d, and several others from Sussex, had previously come to Kentucky (in 1786) to view the land and fix on locations for their respective families. When they came in 1793, they fixed their homes not far apart, some locating in Bourbon and some in Woodford County. John and Samuel Scroggin settled in what is now Harrison -- then a part of Bourbon -- and Robert and other brothers in Woodford County. All the related families that came -- the Scroggins, Nutters, Polks, and Morrisises -- brought with them, from Delaware, slaves and live stock.

p. 160

The seven Scroggin brothers were all over six feet in height and all were officers in the Revolution. They seemed to inherit the religious tendencies of their mother (Sarah Caldwell), who was of a French Huguenot family, grafted onto Scotch-Irish Presbyterians. Her descendants generally followed the latter faith.

Notes for DAVID BEDFORD BROWN:

From The Nelson Brown Genealogy of the United States by Gladys Nelson Bremer, Lawrence, KS, 1960. Quoting the History of Monroe and Shelby Co., Mo., Pub. by National History Co., St. Louis, 1884 Obituary of:

Bedford Brown, - - died at his residence in this county, on the 20th of October, 1876, in the fifty-seventh year of his age. This brief announcement marks the close of a useful and well spent, unmarred from the beginning to the end by a breath of reproach.

To thus have lived is to have triumphed over life and was a victory over the grave. For such, the reward of the future cannot be doubted. And it is a reward as lasting and as precious as the conscience of God. To the flesh it may be more gratifying to strut out our brief period in this world, to exhibit our gaudy feathers in bright noonday sun and thus attract the envy of those as empty-headed as we thus prove ourselves to be.

But to the man or woman of conscience of soul, of sober, sturdy intelligence, nothing could be less enviable than such vanity. To live right, to live plain and honestly, to do one's duty in life faithfully and well and to keep ever before our eyes the laws of humanity and the laws of God, observing them in all things dutifully and with an earnest free will, is the truest and best mission of man. - - It was thus that Bedford Brown lived and it was such a life as this that he left behind him when he died. - - Born in the state of Kentucky Feb. 25, 1820, while yet early in youth, he was brought to Missouri by his parents, Judge Levin Brown and his wife, nee a Miss Mary Kidd, who removed to this state and resided for a time in Marion Co. The family subsequently removed to Shelby County and here Mr. Brown's father, Judge Brown became a prosperous and highly respected citizen.

He served for some years as Judge of the County Court. And was otherwise a leading man in the community.

Bedford Brown, deceased, was reared partly in Kentucky and partly in this state. And was brought up by his father to steady habits of industry and sober frugality and honesty. He learned the great lesson that if one wishes to succeed in life honestly, he can succeed only by preserving industry. He too became a farmer and became quite well-to-do. He left a good farm at his death of nearly 300 acres. His life was one of unbroken industry and upright citizenship. An energetic farmer, a law-abiding intelligent citizen, a kind and highly esteemed neighbor, and an affectionate, faithful husband and father.

He died in the full faith of the Redeemer, being at the time of his death and for years before, an accepted and exemplary communicant in the Missionary Baptist Church.

He left a family consisting of his widow and ten children. The children are as follows:

Anna E., wife of Henry Nicol

Alexander

John, who is married and lives in Vernon County

Lucinda E., wife of James A. Nelson, Knox Co.

Benjamin F., who with his brother Alexander, has charge of the farm.

Julia, the wife of James Gentry, Rolls County

Mary E., at home

Lillie, at home, Kitty E. and Joseph B., at home.

Mrs. Brown, the mother of these, was a Miss Elizabeth Todd before her marriage. A daughter of William and Eleander (Andrews) Todd, who came to this county from Maryland in 1838. She was married in Sept., 1849. Two of her children, besides these mentioned are deceased. James A., the eldest, and Alice, the third daughter. Mrs. Brown is also a member of the Missionary Baptist Church.

16, 1971 in Seaside, Clatsop Co., Oregon, USA171. She married WILLIAM SCHWEGLER172 April 07, 1909 in Portland, Multnomah Co, Oregon, USA, son of CHRISTIAN SCHWEGLER and THERESA HÜSLER.

Notes for CAROLINE MAY BROWN:

Living with husband's parents in Deep River, Washington in 1910 Federal Census

On page 71 of the book Deep River, the C. Arthur Appelo Story, there is a photograph of the Wilmi School at Deep River. On the photocopy, Gordon Schwegler wrote "Caroline Brown (Mrs. Wm. Schwegler) taught here 1906-7".

She graduated from Monmoth (college or university, or normal school?) as a teacher, per Lois Schwegler Mather.

Notes for WILLIAM SCHWEGLER:

1880 Federal Census: living with parents in Deep River, Washington

1900 Federal Census: living with parents in Deep River, Washington. Working as a day laborer

1910 Federal Census: living with wife and parents in Deep River, Washington. Working as a woodsman

Per pages 24 and 47 of the book Deep River, the C. Arthur Appelo Story, Bill Schwegler built the Shamrock building in Deep River, used first as a store, then a saloon, then a hotel / boarding house, famous for its meals.

According to Lois Schwegler Mather, he built both the family homes on Svensen Island and on Holiday Drive in Seaside. He was at one time co-owner and boiler room engineer of the SS Columbia. He worked for Pacific Diking Company (Frank Behnke, President, and Charles Schwegler, Secretary). He also ran a dairy farm on Svensen Island in the 1920's and early 30's.

DESCENDANCY CHART - JOSEPH SCROGGINS

Carrie Foreman <CaAlaine@aol.com> 10 Nov 1998

William Schwegler, 67, resident of Seaside for the past three years following his retirement as a farmer in the Svenson district, died Wednesday at an Astoria hospital following a two months illness. He was born in Knappton, Washington, the second son of Christian and Theresa Schwegler, who were among the first pioneers to settle in that district.

Mr. Schwegler spent his entire life in the lower Columbia river district. He engaged in the logging industry in Wahkiakum county, Washington, for many years, followed by being interested in diking and dredging projects for several years before moving to Svenson where he operated a dairy farm for 17 years.

In addition to his widow he is survived by five sons, three daughters, and two sisters.

Funeral services have tentatively been set for Thursday afternoon at Ginn's Funeral Home with Rev. Ira Aldrich of Seaside officiating. Burial will be made in the family plot in Ocean View cemetery.
