Appendices

You must enclose:

- An extract from the Swedish population register for the referee, a 'family certificate' for a residence permit which confirms the address in the population register, marital status, children etc. The referee orders this form from the Swedish National Tax Agency and it may be no more than one month old (if the referee is resident in Sweden).
- A copy of your passport containing your personal details.
- Extract from your country's population register containing information about marital status and any children. (You can see what documents are required in your country on the Swedish Embassy's website. You can also contact the Embassy for further information.)
- A marriage certificate if you are married.
- Copies of judgments governing custody or adoption (where applicable for children who are making a joint application).
- Documents showing that you and the referee have been registered at the same address abroad or in Sweden (common law spouse).
