For the Educator

We hope you will consider a field trip to the Thomas Stone National Historic Site. The park provides an opportunity to learn about the Thomas Stone as one of the Maryland signers of the Declaration of Independence and the difficulty deciding whether to stay loyal to England or support the Revolution.

This curriculum guide will acquaint you with the life of Thomas Stone and the Thomas Stone National Historic Site. Inside you will find information about Stone's life and career as well as a variety of classroom activities for your students. If you are able to bring your class to the historic site, the suggested activities will both preview and reinforce ideas presented at the park. If you are unable to bring your class for a visit, you may use these materials as a supplement to your current curriculum.

This field trip is designed for students from 8th grade. Because of the size of the house and the visitor center, it is suggested that one class come at a time but we will take larger groups. There are picnic tables to eat lunch. Students will be searching for clues to his innocence or guilt and in a mock trial to determine if Thomas Stone was a traitor to Great Britain or an American Patriot for signing the Declaration of Independence. Will your class find him guilty or innocent?

For more information on field trips to the National Historic Site, please visit <http://www.nps.gov/thst/forteachers/planafieldtrip.htm>. You may schedule your visit by calling the Thomas Stone National Historic Site visitor center at (301) 392-1776.

If you have questions or are in need of further information, please contact us at:

For Teachers and Chaperones

We hope that you have an enjoyable learning experience with your students at Thomas Stone National Historic Site. Please follow these rules and guidelines and have fun at your visit. Please be sure to share the student guidelines with your class.

- Dress appropriately for the weather. Wear shoes appropriate to walk the trails and walk to the house.
- Five picnic tables are located near the Visitor Center. Students need to provide all lunches, snacks, and drinks; there are no vending machines or concessions on site.
- Orientation begins at the Visitor Center.
- The only restrooms are in the Visitor Center.
- Photography is permitted.
- Silence your cell phones please.
- Shhh! Always quiet the group down before entering the building.
- Quiet down students if they are talking during the tour or program.
- Do not allow students to run ahead of the tour. Park rangers should always lead the way.
- Know where your students are at all times.
- Once on site notify the Park Ranger of any special concerns or medical conditions.
- Remind students to respect the historic places and objects. All natural and archeological items are protected.
- Leave No Trace: take only pictures and leave only footprints.
- Remind students to respect the park rangers and volunteers who care for these places.
- Set an example for your students. Chaperones and teacher should also remain quiet, keep food and drink sealed and silence cell phones. Please respect the historic buildings and demand that same respect from your students.

Should anything unforeseen occur preventing you from keeping your appointment, please call the park at 301-392-1776 to notify us of your late arrival or cancellation.

Programs will continue rain or shine, but in case of snow please call to confirm that the park will be open.

Student Guidelines

We hope that you have an enjoyable learning experience at Thomas Stone National Historic Site. Please follow these rules and guidelines. Many are the same rules you have in your classroom. Have fun on your visit!

- Food and drink is only allowed at the picnic areas.
- No chewing gum allowed.
- Wear comfortable shoes for walking.
- Dress for the weather.
- Silence any cell phones or music players.
- Shhh! Enter every building quietly.
- Remain silent when the park ranger is talking.
- Know where your teacher or chaperones are at all times.
- Let the park rangers lead the way.
- Respect the historic places and objects.
- Respect the park rangers and volunteers who care for these places.
- Remember these rules. There may be a quiz.

Curriculum Connections and Objectives

A visit to the Thomas Stone National Historic Site fits within the framework of a number of course topics, and aligns neatly with the Maryland Core Curriculum and Charles County Social Studies Units for 8th grade.

Program Objectives for students

Students will be able to:

- compare and contrast the differences between the views of patriots and loyalists.
- participate in a mock trial to decide whether Thomas Stone was a traitor to Great Britain or an American Patriot for signing the Declaration of Independence.
- determine the causes of the American Revolution.

Curriculum Connections

Maryland State Curriculum Standards for Social Studies

This curriculum and a visit to the park relate to the following essential concepts and essential skills from the Charles County Social Studies 8th grade units based on the Maryland State Curriculum Standards.

Maryland Curriculum for 8th Grade:

1.0 Political Science

1. A. 2. Analyze the impact of historic documents and practices that became the foundations of the American political system during the early national period

The student will demonstrate knowledge of the causes and results of the American Revolution by

- d) explaining reasons why the colonies were able to defeat Great Britain.

Background Information

The following is provided to give you a brief overview of Thomas Stone and National Historic Site. Please contact us or visit our website if you have any questions before your visit.

Thomas Stone

Thomas was born into a prominent family at Poynton Manor in Charles County, Maryland. He was the first son in the family of David (1709–1773) and Elizabeth Jenifer Stone. Thomas read law at the office of Thomas Johnson in Annapolis, was admitted to the bar in 1764 and opened a practice in Frederick, Maryland.

In 1768 Stone married Margaret Brown (1751–1787), the younger sister of Dr. Gustavus R. Brown. Soon after, Stone purchased his first 400 acres and began the construction of his estate named Habredeventure. The family would make their home there, and they would have three children: Margaret (1771–1809), Mildred (1773–1837) and Frederick (1774–1793).

As the American Revolution neared, Stone joined the Committee of Correspondence for Charles County. From 1774 to 1776, he was a member of Maryland's Annapolis Convention. In 1775, the convention sent Stone as a delegate to the Continental Congress. He was re-elected and attended regularly for several years. On May 15, 1776 he voted in favor of drafting a declaration of independence, in spite of restrictions from the Maryland convention that prevented their delegates from supporting it. In June the restriction was lifted, so Maryland's delegates were free to vote for Independence. Previously, Stone had been in favor of opening diplomatic relations with Great Britain and not going to war, as he was not only a pacifist but a conservative reluctant to start a gruesome war.

That same year Stone was assigned to the committee that drafted the Articles of Confederation, and he was struck with a personal tragedy. His wife Margaret visited him in Philadelphia, which was in the midst of a smallpox epidemic. She was inoculated for the disease, but an adverse reaction to the treatment made her ill. Her health continued to decline for the rest of her life.

After Stone signed the Declaration of Independence, he took his wife home and declined future appointment to the Congress, except for part of 1783 and 1784, when the meetings were at Annapolis.

Stone accepted election to the Maryland Senate from 1779 until 1785, at first in order to promote the Articles of Confederation, which Maryland was the last state to approve. But he gave up the practice of law to care for Margaret and their growing children. As her health continued to decline, he gradually withdrew from public life. When Margaret died in 1787, he became depressed and died less than four months later in Alexandria, reportedly of a "broken heart".

Thomas was buried next to his wife at his plantation home, which still stands.

Thomas Stone National Historic Site

This park contains 322 acres, about a mile and a half of walking trails, the restored home of Thomas Stone, circa 1840's outbuildings, and the burial site of Thomas Stone, his family members, slaves and servants.

The Visitor Center has information, exhibits, and a bookstore. Guided tours of the house are offered from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm. There is also an eight minute video about Thomas Stone.

Admission to the site is free. The Visitor Center and the house are fully accessible to visitors. The cemetery can be reached by a path across the field.

In 1981, the park was established as a national historic site managed by the National Park Service. The national historic site's purpose is to preserve the historically significant properties associated with the life of Thomas Stone as well as to commemorate and interpret his life, career, and accomplishments.

American Revolution

In 1763, Britain won the French and Indian War against France (which had been fought mainly in North America), and so the English-speaking settlers on the East Coast could stop worrying that they were about to be taken over by France.

To pay for that war, the British Parliament began to make the English-speaking settlers pay more and more taxes. This brought the government a lot of money, but it made the settlers angrier. They were especially angry because they couldn't vote or speak for themselves in Parliament about these taxes. The settlers said this was "taxation without representation" and it was wrong. The settlers decided to boycott everything they had been buying from British traders - they would not buy their tea, clothes, glass, paper, and so on (This is when many Americans began to drink coffee). Women proudly spun and wove their own cloth, though they had not done it for a long time. To show that they meant it, in 1773 they threw a lot of tea on three British ships overboard, into the ocean - this is called the "Boston Tea Party."

Boston Tea Party

In 1775, two years later, the first shots were fired in Massachusetts. Britain and America were now at war. George Washington was the commander in chief of the Continental Army. At first he won, and on July 4th, 1776 the Continental Congress published the Declaration of Independence. But then the British government sent lots more men to fight (women weren't allowed), and soon America was losing the war. At this point, Benjamin Franklin went to Paris and succeeded in getting the French king to send help. In 1777 the French navy helped send in lots of weapons for the Continental Army to use. Then Spain and the Netherlands also came in on the side of America. Nobody was on the side of Britain. Even some British people were on the side of America. By 1781, America (with the help of the French general Lafayette, other French soldiers, and lots of French money) had won several big battles. Even when the British won, they couldn't get people to support them, or get their navy through to help them. So in October the British army surrendered to General George Washington, the Continental Army and the French. That ended of the Revolutionary War.

Pre-visit Activities

The following activities are provided to prepare your students for their visit to the park. This information will help your students be well prepared with ideas and questions for their tour of the Thomas Stone National Historic Site.

- Vocabulary List for Declaration of Independence

Purpose: The purpose of this lesson is to familiarize students with the 18th-century terms used in the Declaration of Independence.

- Vocabulary List for History on Trial

Purpose: The purpose of this lesson is to familiarize students with the 18th-century legal terms which will be used in the on-site program at Thomas Stone National Historic Site.

- Reader's Theater: Mock Trial

Purpose: Students will participate in a scripted mock trial to help connect vocabulary terms and become familiar with a trial.

- Reading History: Thomas Stone Biography

Purpose: Students will become familiar with Thomas Stone by reading his biography.

- Causes of the American Revolution 1763-1775

Purpose- Students will identify major events that led up to the revolution, place events in their proper sequence, and identify reasons why the colonists wanted independence.

- Declaration as an Indictment

Purpose- By analyzing the center section of the Declaration of Independence as an indictment against the King by British citizens living in the Colonies students will gain an insight into some of the reasons the Colonists revolted. The revolutionary war had many roots to its origins; many of the reasons given for the beginning of the war can be traced back to the list of indictments listed in the Declaration of Independence.

Vocabulary

The content disciplines are particularly rich areas for vocabulary development. Vocabulary instruction plays an essential role during both literacy and disciplinary area instruction. Vocabulary knowledge is inextricably linked to reading comprehension and conceptual knowledge.

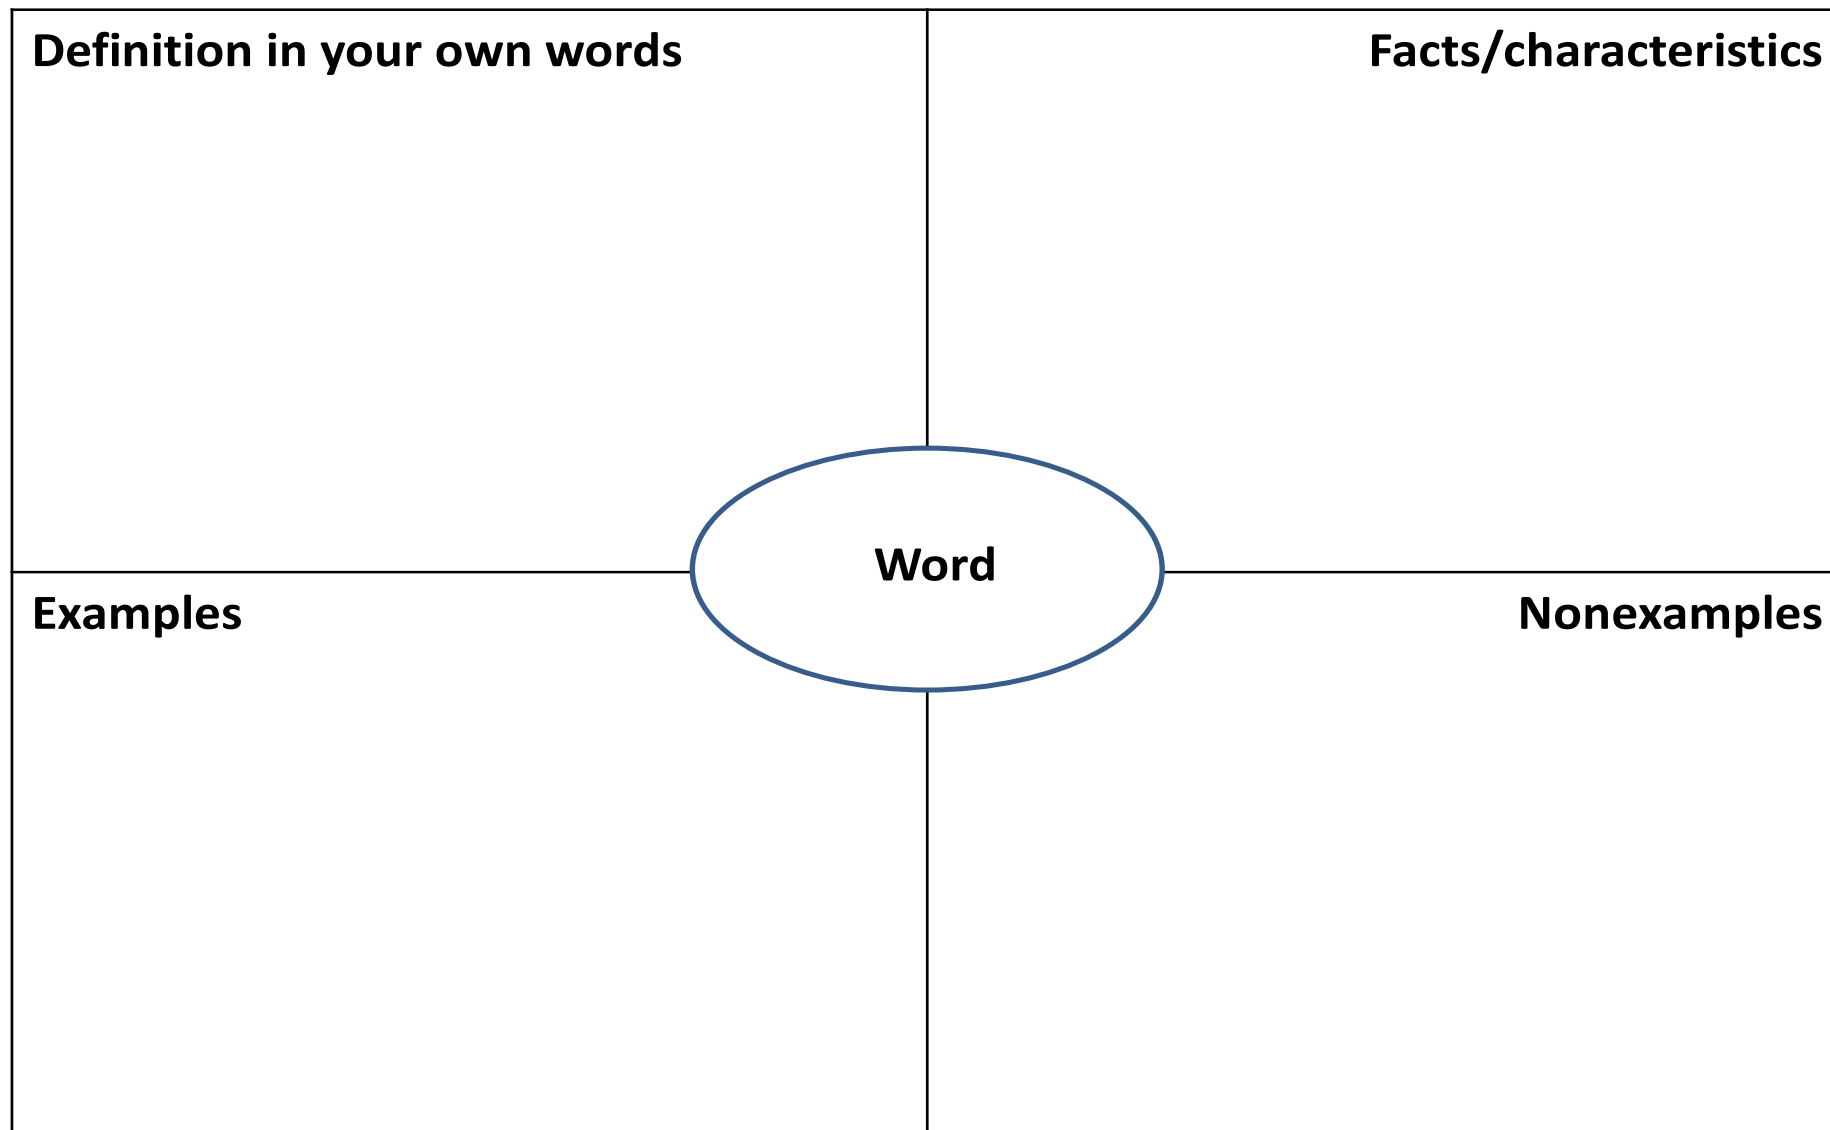

The graphic organizer provided was designed by Dorothy Frayer and her colleagues at the University of Wisconsin to provide for a thorough understanding of new words. Students are asked to provide a Definition of the word, Facts or Characteristics of the word, Examples, and Nonexamples. This graphic organizer will lead students to a deeper understanding of a word and its relationship to their own lives.

Have the students either work together or in groups/partners to complete the rest of the vocabulary words.

Declaration of Independence Terms

1. Prohibit -to prevent from doing something
2. Import -to bring into
3. Impose -to establish by authority
4. Harass -to annoy repeatedly
5. Repeal -to withdraw by authoritative act
6. Quarter -to provide with lodging or shelter
7. Grievance -complaint or protest
8. Customs -a duty or tax on imported goods

Reading: Thomas Stone

Use this biography of Thomas Stone to familiarize your students with Thomas Stone and why he is important. Can be posted and read as a class, read in groups or individually.

Post-Reading Activities

1. Sequence: Create a timeline of events in Thomas Stone's life.
2. Summarize: Write a paragraph explaining why Thomas Stone was a great American. Begin with a main idea sentence. Follow this with detail sentences explaining the main idea and a closing sentence.
3. Draw conclusions: How do you think Thomas Stone felt about signing the Declaration of Independence?
4. Synthesis: Would you have signed the Declaration of Independence? Why or why not?

Thomas Stone

Thomas Stone

Thomas Stone was a modest family man who stepped onto the pages of history when he signed the Declaration of Independence in 1776. Let's take a closer look at Thomas Stone.

Childhood

Thomas Stone was born near Port Tobacco, in Charles County, Maryland in 1743. Little is known about his education as a young boy, but Thomas grew up to be a lawyer. He was known for weighing all the options before making a decision. Thomas married Margaret Brown in 1768. In 1770, he bought Haberdventure to raise his family. He had three children; Margaret, Mildred and Frederick.

On the Road to Independence

Thomas Stone was chosen as a member of the Charles County Committee of Correspondence. His job was to help keep in touch with the other colonies. He was chosen for the Second Continental Congress in 1775. Britain had been taxing the people in the colonies and the colonies felt it was unfair. There was also a lot of anger and arguments in the colonies between the people and Britain.

The colonists were upset about taxation without representation.

Declaration of Independence

In May of 1776, Thomas Stone voted in favor of declaring independence. This was a hard decision for Thomas Stone to make. He wanted to be free, but he did not want to go to war. He hoped Britain and the colonies would be able to get along. On July 4, 1776, the colonies said they were free from Britain with the Declaration of Independence. Thomas Stone was one of 56 signers, four of the signers were from Maryland and seven were from Virginia.

A Great Man

Thomas Stone's wife had become sick while he was working in the Second Continental Congress. After signing the Declaration of Independence, he took his wife home. He practiced law, served in the Maryland Senate and cared for his wife and growing children. His wife died in 1787 and Thomas Stone died less than four months later. Thomas Stone started off as a quiet family man who stepped into history by helping our country become what it is today.

Thomas Stone's home, Habershire

Causes of the Revolution 1763-1775

Title- Causes of the American Revolution 1763-1775

Objective- Students will be able to identify the events that led to the American Colonists drafting the Declaration of Independence.

Purpose- Students will identify major events that led up to the revolution, place events in their proper sequence, and identify reasons why the colonists wanted independence.

Materials- Events for Timeline and a copy of the Declaration of Independence

Procedure-

- Using the events that led up to the revolution, create a timeline by putting the events in chronological order.
  - Note: These timelines can be used as you are learning events leading up to the revolution. Students can add event after learned. Keep timelines as visuals to help students when new events are learned. Post a class timeline for students to refer back to during lessons.
  - Optional: Students can add illustrations to the events on the timelines for a visual representation.
- Students will read the Declaration of Independence and match the events listed in the timeline to the grievances against the King of England as listed in the Declaration of Independence.

Events for Timeline

1763: End of the French and Indian War/ Seven Years War

Britain won this war against France and Spain, and became the major power in North America. The cost of fighting this war left the British treasury almost empty. Britain began taxing the colonies in America to pay for the cost of this war. The Colonists felt that that this was not fair; that they should not pay greater taxes than other Englishmen.

Phrases like "no taxation without representation" began to be popular in the Colonies.

1765: The Stamp Act

Parliament's first direct tax on the American colonies, this act, like those passed in 1764, was enacted to raise money for Britain. It taxed newspapers, almanacs, pamphlets, broadsides, legal documents, dice and playing cards. Issued by Britain, the stamps were affixed to documents or packages to show that the tax had been paid.

In response to this act and other taxes placed on the Colonists by Britain, threats of violence were made against tax collectors by groups of Colonists calling themselves the "Sons of Liberty".

Britain felt surprised and upset that its Colonists were unwilling to buy stamps, which was a common practice in Britain. Later in response to the threats from the Sons of Liberty, Britain repealed this tax in the Colonies in order to maintain peace and good relations.

1766-1767: The Townsend Acts

Despite the repeal of the Stamp Act the British government (King and Parliament) still had the right to tax its American colonies. Britain issued taxes on paper, lead, paint, imported glass and tea. The Colonists disagreed with being taxed by Britain and they banded together and agreed to an embargo on British goods. This embargo hurt people on both sides and cries were heard in both England and America to repeal the tax. After three years all of these taxes were repealed except for the tax on tea.

1767: The Quartering Act

This act stated that the Colonists must allow British soldiers to live in their homes. When soldiers began to arrive in 1768, the Colonists threw eggs, sticks, rocks, and snowballs at the soldiers; creating a tense situation between the citizens and soldiers.

1770: The Boston Massacre

A mob of Colonists began to taunt a British soldier on guard duty on a cold winter night. The taunting (name calling and shouting) became physical when the Colonists began to throw rocks and snowballs.

The lone soldier called for help, and when the other soldiers arrived one of them was hit in the face by a snowball. That soldier reacted by firing his musket into the crowd, in the confusion the other soldiers also began to fire into the crowd. Ten Colonists were hit by the gunfire; five of them would die of their wounds. The nine soldiers were put on trial, but seven of them were found innocent because the court ruled that the mob had started the fight. This was the first bloodshed between Britain and the Colonies.

1773: The Boston Tea Party

Although the earlier Townsend Acts had repealed the tax on most items there was still a tax on tea. The Colonists still did not want to pay any British imposed taxes but they did like to drink tea, so they purchased tea from Holland and boycotted English tea.

Purchasing tea from Holland was against the law and it was damaging to British tea merchants. The tea merchants complained to the King and Parliament about their losses. To help the merchants Parliament gave the East India Company the right to sell tea in the Colonies for less than the Dutch tea the Colonists were buying.

This angered the Colonial merchants who were selling the more expensive Dutch tea. They decided to protest and to prevent any English tea from being unloaded from ships into the Colonies. Some ships tried to unload the cheaper British tea and they were sent back to England with their tea still on board. In Boston, three ships loaded with tea refused to sail back to England before they unloaded their tea. They sat in Boston Harbor for a number of weeks. On a cold night in December, the colonists decided to do something about the tea. Men, disguised as Mohawk Indians climbed on board the ships and threw 342 chests of English tea into the harbor.

1774: The Port Act or the Intolerable Act

King George III of England was unhappy with the Colonists for refusing to pay tax on English tea and throwing the tea into Boston's Harbor. He retaliated by closing Boston Harbor. The British Navy blockaded the harbor and ships were not allowed to enter or leave. Boston's citizens relied on the ships traveling in and out of the harbor and many lost their jobs when the port was closed.

The King's blockade of Boston's harbor had an unexpected effect. All of the colonies decided that the King was wrong to close Boston's port and starve its citizens. They began to send supplies to Boston; rice, sheep, money and clothing were all sent to the city by land so that Boston's people could eat and stay warm.

This was the first time that the Colonies had worked so closely together, they became a team.

1774: The Maryland Tea Party

This action was similar to the tea party in Boston the previous year.

In October, the Peggy Stewart, a ship loaded with more than a ton of British tea was sitting in the Annapolis Harbor. A group of men approached the owner of the ship, Mr. Stewart, and told him to sign a statement that it had been wrong to bring British tea into the colony and that he would destroy his tea. Mr. Stewart, afraid of the men, burned his whole ship instead of just the tea.

1775: The Battles of Lexington and Concord

Two of the men that were the most outspoken for Colonial independence were Samuel Adams and John Hancock from Massachusetts. The British wanted to capture them and put them on trial for treason against the King. The British were also concerned that in many small towns Colonists were hiding guns and ammunition in case of a war with England. The British decided to send soldiers to take these guns and munitions.

In April, a British military force of 700 men marched out of Boston toward the town of Concord, ten miles away. Between Boston and Concord lay a town called Lexington. This was the town in which John Hancock and Samuel Adams were staying. A man named Paul Revere rode to Lexington to warn them and to have the colonial militia, known as Minutemen prepared for the British soldiers.

When the British arrived at Lexington they were confronted with almost 80 colonial Minutemen standing before them. A gunshot from an unknown gun was fired and the British shot two volleys into the Minutemen. Eight Minutemen were killed and ten were wounded without a single British soldier hurt. The British then continued toward Concord.

When the British arrived they did not find any weapons or munitions hidden but they did find hundreds of colonial farmers with weapons. More gunfire broke out and more farmers fell but this time the farmers fired back. Some British soldiers fell, both dead and wounded. The British began to retreat but the farmers followed them and kept up steady gunfire. Many British were killed and wounded in this retreat. Almost 80 British soldiers died along with 50 colonials.

This was the start of the American Revolution.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen United States of America

WHEN in the Course of human Events, it becomes necessary for one People to dissolve the Political Bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the Powers of the Earth, the separate and equal Station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent Respect to the Opinions of Mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the Separation.

WE hold these Truths to be self-evident, that all Men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness -- That to secure these Rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just Powers from the Consent of the Governed, that whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these Ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its Foundation on such Principles, and organizing its Powers in such Form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient Causes; and accordingly all Experience hath shewn, that Mankind are more disposed to suffer, while Evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the Forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long Train of Abuses and Usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object, evinces a Design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their Right, it is their Duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future Security. Such has been the patient Sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the Necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The History of the present King of Great- Britain is a History of repeated Injuries and Usurpations, all having in direct Object the Establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid World.

HE has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public Good.

HE has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing Importance, unless suspended in their Operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

HE has refused to pass other Laws for the Accommodation of large Districts of People, unless those People would relinquish the Right of Representation in the Legislature, a Right inestimable to them, and formidable to Tyrants only.

HE has called together Legislative Bodies at Places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the Depository of their public Records, for the sole Purpose of fatiguing them into Compliance with his Measures.

HE has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly Firmness his Invasions on the Rights of the People.

HE has refused for a long Time, after such Dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative Powers, incapable of the Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the Dangers of Invasion from without, and the Convulsions within.

HE has endeavoured to prevent the Population of these States; for that Purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their Migrations hither, and raising the Conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

HE has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary Powers.

HE has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the Tenure of their Offices, and the Amount and Payment of their Salaries.

HE has erected a Multitude of new Offices, and sent hither Swarms of Officers to harrass our People, and eat out their Substance.

HE has kept among us, in Times of Peace, Standing Armies, without the consent of our Legislatures.

HE has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil Power.

HE has combined with others to subject us to a Jurisdiction foreign to our Constitution, and unacknowledged by our Laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation:

FOR quartering large Bodies of Armed Troops among us;

FOR protecting them, by a mock Trial, from Punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

FOR cutting off our Trade with all Parts of the World:

FOR imposing Taxes on us without our Consent:

FOR depriving us, in many Cases, of the Benefits of Trial by Jury:

FOR transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended Offences:

FOR abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an arbitrary Government, and enlarging its Boundaries, so as to render it at once an Example and fit Instrument for introducing the same absolute Rules into these Colonies:

FOR taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments:

FOR suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with Power to legislate for us in all Cases whatsoever.

HE has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

HE has plundered our Seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our Towns, and destroyed the Lives of our People.

HE is, at this Time, transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to compleat the Works of Death, Desolation, and Tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty and Perfidy, scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous Ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized Nation.

HE has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the Executioners of their Friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

HE has excited domestic Insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the Inhabitants of our Frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known Rule of Warfare, is an undistinguished Destruction, of all Ages, Sexes and Conditions.

IN every stage of these Oppressions we have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble Terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated Injury. A Prince, whose Character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the Ruler of a free People.

NOR have we been wanting in Attentions to our British Brethren. We have warned them from Time to Time of Attempts by their Legislature to extend an unwarrantable Jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the Circumstances of our Emigration and Settlement here. We have appealed to their native Justice and Magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the Ties of our common Kindred to disavow these Usurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our Connections and Correspondence. They too have been deaf to the Voice of Justice and of Consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the Necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of Mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace, Friends.

WE, therefore, the Representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in GENERAL CONGRESS, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the Rectitude of our Intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly Publish and Declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be, FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political Connection between them and the State of Great-Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm Reliance on the Protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.

Objective: Students will analyze the Declaration of Independence for students to gain an understanding of some of the motivations behind the Revolutionary war of Independence.

Purpose: By analyzing the center section of the Declaration of Independence as an indictment against the King by British citizens living in the Colonies students will gain an insight into some of the reasons the Colonists revolted. The revolutionary war had many roots to its origins; many of the reasons given for the beginning of the war can be traced back to the list of indictments listed in the Declaration of Independence.

Materials:

- Copy of the Declaration of Independence (see above)
- Handouts of list of indictments from Declaration of Independence (instructor and student copies)
- Suggested Vocabulary List: Constrains, Derive, Despotism, Disposed, Indictment, Prudence, Tyranny, Unalienable

Procedure:

- Read the Declaration of Independence out loud to the class.

Introduce the idea that the Declaration of Independence did not make the United States independent from Great Brittan; instead it was the colonist's list of complaints or indictments against their King. This list of grievances was the basis for the Revolutionary War; only by fighting a bloody war did we achieve independence.

- Separate the class into 5 workgroups.
- Pass out a selection of indictments from the center section of the Declaration to each group (see Handout student copy of list of indictments)
- Instruct each group to read their selection of complaints/indictments that the British Citizens living in the colonies had against the King of Great Brittan.

Discussion points in groups

1. What do your group of indictments against the King all have in common?
2. Which indictment from your list do you think is the most important reason to go to war and why?

Discussion points as a class

1. Which group of indictments do you think present the strongest argument to go to war?
2. Would you have grouped the indictments this way or do you see another major grouping that was missed?
3. Name historical events that correspond with the indictments in the Declaration of Independence (see Timeline Pre-Visit Activity: Causes of the Revolution).

• Note to instructor:

See Instructor Handout for grouping topics. (Acts of War, Financial Hardship, Interference in Government, Manipulation of the Justice System, Reasons Why This Conflict Was Not the Colonist's Fault.)

Post Visit Activities

These activities are intended to further your students' learning, after their visit to the Thomas Stone National Historic Site, through the use of various social studies skills. With a basic introduction to Thomas Stone, the Declaration of Independence and the American Revolution, these could be used even if your class is unable to make a visit to the park.

- Loyalist vs. Patriot debate and graph

Purpose- Break students into two groups. Each group spends a half hour writing their opening speech. A speaker selected from each group then presents the speech to the whole class. After their first speeches, the students return to their original groups and write a rebuttal to the other group's first statement. Both groups then have a speaker present their rebuttals. The groups then reconvene for their final statements. A representative from each group presents their conclusions to the whole class. At the end of the debate, students who were not selected to be speakers have to give their opinions. Rather than following the viewpoint assigned to their group, they consider the following questions:

What was your opinion at the beginning of class?

How has your opinion changed?

- Would you have signed the Declaration of Independence?

Purpose- Using the decision tree from the previous activity, students will write an opinion piece on whether or not they would sign the Declaration of Independence. They will need to support their answers. It can be graded using the rubric provided.

Bar Graph: Patriots, Loyalists and Undecided

After looking at the causes of the American Revolution and thinking about the views of a loyalist and a patriot, make a decision whether you would be a loyalist, patriot or are still undecided. Make a bar graph telling whether each student in the class would be a Patriot, Loyalist or is yet undecided/neutral.

Example of bar graph

PATRIOT

THE AMERICAN COLONISTS WHO WANTED TO BREAK AWAY FROM GREAT BRITAIN AND FORM
A NEW COUNTRY

LOYALIST

THE AMERICAN COLONISTS THAT WANTED TO REMAIN LOYAL TO GREAT BRITAIN

KING GEORGE III

UNDECIDED

THE AMERICAN COLONISTS THAT WERE UNDECIDED WHETHER TO SIDE WITH THE COLONISTS OR THE KING

Loyalists

- * A strong unified British Empire is good for all
- * American colonies would be weak without Britain
- * The British troops protect the colonies
- * Colonists are British subjects and should obey the law
- * Taxes are due to the French and Indian War which was fought to protect colonies
- * Colonies profit from trade with England
- * Colonies are too far away to have a representative in Parliament, it's just not practical
- * The fight for independence will fail
- * Loyalists have a deep respect for our King
- * The colonists do not have money to maintain an army or navy
- * The patriots are trying to manipulate the colonists

Patriots

- * People have rights that the government can't take away, like property
- * Taxes take away property, like money and goods
- * Colonists are being taxed on sugar, coffee, tea, wine, molasses, newspapers, pamphlets, playing cards, dice, documents, and legal papers, including marriage licenses, paper, paint, lead, clothing and glass
- * Colonists don't have a voice in Parliament, so they can't tax us (taxation without representation)
- * There's no way the colonies can ever be represented; Parliament is too far away
- * Many colonies fought in the French and Indian War; we've done our part
- * British personnel are causing violence, riots and death
- * The colonies have home ground advantage in the event of a war
- * The colonists are forced to house and feed British soldiers

RAFT ON THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR

Directions: You will be placed in the role of someone living during the period of the Revolutionary War. You will need to use facts that you have learned to help support your views. (Whether you agree with them or not!)

Role	Audience	Format	Topic
Loyalist	King George III	Letter Diary Entry	Please help us squash this rebellion in the colonies.
Patriot	King George III	Letter Poster Petition	Taxation without representation is not fair.
Patriot	Another Patriot	Speech Letter Secret Code	We must do something to stop the British!
King George III	Colonists (Patriots)	TV News Report Letter Speech Posters	Treason is punishable by death.

Place a star next to the role you have been given. Be sure to use facts in your project.

Group Activity (Pre or Post)

Give each group an activity card. Students will work together to collect the information. They may present to class or work in jigsaw groups, where one student from each group meets with other groups to share the information learned.

Group 1

1. Describe the Proclamation of 1763 and its part in the causation of the Revolutionary War.
2. Prepare a short biography on King George III.
3. Explain what happened on December 16, 1773.
4. Define boycott.
5. What would have happened if King George III had allowed the American colonies representation in Parliament?

Group 2

1. Describe the Quartering and Stamp Acts and their parts in the causation of the Revolutionary War.
2. Prepare a short biography on Samuel Adams.
3. Explain what happened on April 19, 1775.
4. Define Committees of Correspondence.
5. What would have happened if the Olive Branch Petition proposed by the Second Continental Congress for a peaceful settlement with Great Britain had been honored?

Group 3

1. Describe the Townshend Acts and their part in the causation of the Revolutionary War.
2. Prepare a short biography on George Washington.
3. Explain what happened on June 17, 1775.
4. Define minuteman.
5. What would have happened if the American colonists had professional soldiers for their fighting?

Group 4

1. Describe the Boston Massacre and its part in the causation of the Revolutionary War.
2. Prepare a short biography on Thomas Paine.
3. Explain what happened on July 4, 1776.
4. Define redcoat.
5. What would have happened if modern-day guns were available to the soldiers who fought for both sides in the Revolutionary War?

Group 5

1. Describe the Boston Tea Party and its part in the causation of the Revolutionary War.
2. Prepare a short biography on Thomas Jefferson.
3. Explain what happened on October 6-19, 1781.
4. Define Common Sense.
5. What would have happened if Benjamin Franklin was unable to secure the help of the French in fighting the Revolutionary War?

Group 6

1. Describe the Intolerable Acts and their part in the causation of the Revolutionary War.
2. Prepare a short biography on Benjamin Franklin.
3. Explain what happened on September 3, 1783.
4. Define flintlock musket.
5. What would have happened if the colonists had lost the war?

Important Event Cards

Cut these cards out (laminare) and distribute to class individually, in partners or groups. Additional dates may be added at your discretion.

Have students research the date and determine what special event of the Revolutionary War took place on that date.

Have students complete a written summary of the event or newspaper article explaining who, what, where, when, why and how.

October 1763	1765	1767	March 5, 1770
December 16, 1773	June 1, 1774	September 5 to October 26, 1774	April 19, 1775
