

Wingate University is unique in that we are one of four colleges or universities in North Carolina that have a four-year residency requirement (there are 55 total senior colleges and universities in NC).

Students learn “life skills” by living on campus. Student growth and development are experienced by:

- (1) living with someone new,
- (2) being independent from parents,
- (3) experiencing new freedoms, and
- (4) making personal choices.

Learning happens on a college campus long after the classroom lights have dimmed and offices have closed - communication, conflict resolution, spiritual development, and decision-making are constant parts of the collegiate experience. By living on-campus, students have greater access to institutional resources such as the library, dining hall, and faculty offices as well as club and organization opportunities. This 24-hour learning philosophy has far-reaching benefits across the University's curriculum and community.

While Wingate encourages all undergraduate, full-time students to live on-campus, we understand that some of our students have needs that make commuting to campus a more practical option. Wingate requires that all full-time undergraduate students live on-campus unless meeting one of the following exceptions:

- The student is living in the principal residence of her or his parents/guardians.
- The student is 23 years old on or before the first day of class.
- The student is a ninth semester senior.
- The student is married and living with her or his spouse.

All scholarship athletes are required to live on-campus.

If you qualify for any of the above exceptions and wish to commute, you must register your commuter status each year of attendance.
