4) Instructional Activities

- a) Bring out a basket of classroom objects that are black or white. Name the objects with their color such as: 白色铅笔 (bái sè qiān bǐ; White pencil) or 黑色纸 (hēi sè zhǐ; Black paper). Bring out a set of red classroom objects and introduce the color red using: 红色蜡笔/红色铅笔/红色纸 / 红色书 (hóng sè là bǐ/ hóng sè qiān bǐ/hóng sè zhǐ/ hóng sè shū ; Red crayon, red pencil, red paper and red book). Continue similarly encouraging students repeat the objects with their associated colors easily.
- b) Tell students to pick up objects by color. Say: 拿白色铅笔 (Ná bái sè qiān bǐ; Pick up the white pencil.) and have Panda demonstrate the action by picking up the white pencil. Repeat, with the black paper and similarly with red objects. Have the students respond to similar commands.

5) Closure:

- a) Sing the 熊猫歌 (xióngmāogē; Panda song) one more time.

- b) Invite two students to help the Pandas collect the name tags and say 谢谢 (xièxiè; Thank you) to each student. Have the Pandas and students put all of the name tags in a special place in the classroom.
 - c) Say 再见 (Zài jiàn; Goodbye) to the Pandas. Have the Pandas say 再见 (Zài jiàn; Goodbye) to the students. Say 再见 (Zài jiàn; Goodbye) to the students.
- 6) Extension Activity:

To extend activity 3.b. on this day or others, prepare in advance multiple sets of cards of the classroom objects so that students may work in pairs. (Note: To prepare the cards, use small note cards with one picture of an object on each card.)

Have Panda demonstrate the activity with one student. With your help, have Panda sit face-to-face with the student. Have Panda lay out all four cards face-up on the floor, as he names them. Next, have Panda demonstrate and/or tell the student to close his/her eyes. When the student's eyes are closed, have Panda remove one of the cards. Have Panda demonstrate and/or tell that the student should open his/her eyes. Have Panda say dramatically: 哪个不见了? (Nǎ gè bú jiàn le; Which one is missing?). Repeat this process over several class periods.

Next, have students, with your help, demonstrate and/or tell Panda to close his eyes, as a student takes a card away. Help them demonstrate and/or tell Panda to open his eyes and name the missing object.

When students have practiced the activity in the large group setting to the point that they are very comfortable with the activity, assign students to work in pairs, distributing one set of classroom object cards to each pair of students. Have Panda walk students through the process of working with a partner at least twice, giving each of the students the opportunity to remove an object and ask the question. Have students work independently in pairs for a short period of time. In most cases, students will require guidance in developing the skills needed to work in pairs and therefore short periods of practice are imperative to the success of this activity. It is best to end the activity when students are fully engaged and interest is high.
