How to report changes

Do not forget to give complete Business names and Business IDs. However, aside from the information that you are reporting as changed, there is no requirement to fill in all the other fields of this form.

Custodian-registered companies must report any changes to the Tax Administration promptly. Relevant changes include new appointments of Changes that must be reported include new appointments of representatives and changes of address or the business name. If corporate restructuring or a similar event leads to a change of identity of the custodian-registered company, the new company must apply for registration and the old company must file this form to notify us of the termination. Notice of termination is also required in situations where there is no need for the registration to remain valid any longer.

When you are reporting:

- A change of representative, write the name and address of the new representative in the appropriate fields.
- A change of business name, write the new name in the appropriate field and enclose an extract from the Trade Register of your country showing the new business name.
- Address changes, fill in the appropriate fields.
- Termination, fill in lines 1 to 2 below.
