Presented by Aaron V. Rocke, Rocke Law Group, PLLC

Aaron V. Rocke practices civil litigation with emphasis in employment law and commercial litigation. He is a trial lawyer with dozens of trials and has been faculty for continuing legal education seminars on trial skills for groups such as the National Institute for Trial Advocacy and the Washington State Bar Association. He has taught trial techniques to law students at Seattle University and the University of Washington. He has served on the Washington State Bar Association's Court Rules Committee and the Bar Examiners Committee, and is a past chair of the King County Bar Association's Judicial Candidate Evaluation Committee. Along with his private practice, he accepts a limited number of cases as mediator or arbitrator, and serves as a judge pro tempore. His mediation qualifications include a certification from the University of Washington and mediation training from the EEOC. As mediator, he has settled EEOC charges of discrimination and private civil cases.
