New Projects On Azusa's "To Do" List

One project is partially funded by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act

AZUSA — Azusa City Manager, Fran Delach announced that construction on two longawaited projects within the city will break ground in the first week of July. The two-phased project will be designed to reverse deteriorating road conditions along two of Azusa's most popular corridors and improve the ride and make them more attractive.

"With its close proximity to the 210 Freeway, Foothill Boulevard is one of the best-known and most visible retail districts in Azusa," says Azusa Mayor, Joseph R. Rocha. "It is an economic mainstay of our city and we have decided to reconstruct it in place. This will be an investment in an area that is the one of Azusa's most travelled corridors."

existing roadway will be removed, pavement and aggregate base ground to a consistent size, emulsion added and then placed as roadway in the same day. This process requires no hauling off of excess materials. Later, a new layer of asphalt concrete will be placed upon the roadway as a driving surface. New surface striping, traffic loops and sidewalks are included in the project. The cost of the project will be $640,911. Work will begin the first week of July and be completed in August.

The second project will be the Citrus Avenue project which will be bounded from Alosta Avenue to the Cities northerly border at Foothill Boulevard. The project is funded by $540,000 from the American

The project will reconstruct the entire roadway, provide new striping, traffic loops and improve the ride dramatically on Citrus Avenue. The project will begin in early July and be completed in late August. Construction management will be provided by SA Associates.

"This is a great development for Azusa as it will encourage business in these tough economic times," said Azusa Council Member, Uriel Macias. "These investments in our infrastructure will cultivate economic growth in our region from which future generations will benefit."

Measure to Roll Back Car Dealership Regulations Earns Approval from Assembly Fiscal Committee

SB 1004 Would Give Regulatory Relief to the Struggling Automobile Industry

SACRAMENTO — Senator Bob Huff (R – Diamond Bar) announced today that Senate Bill 1004 – a measure to rein in burdensome regulations on car dealerships – was unanimously supported by the Assembly Appropriations Committee.

"Economic recovery is going to depend on the success of businesses like these," said Senator Huff. "With over 250 California dealerships closing their doors in just two years, we have to provide relief from the regulations that put the brakes on businesses."

Current law restricts salespersons from working at multiple dealerships unless all locations have identical ownership and structure. There is simply no reason why owners should not be allowed to move salespersons to different dealerships in order to meet market demands on any given day.

SB 1004 will repeal this and other onerous regulations that are hampering the auto industry in California.

Senator Bob Huff serves as the Senate Republican Caucus Chair. He represents portions of Los Angeles, Orange and San Bernardino counties.

Covina Pursuit Ends With Arrest

By George Ogden

COVINA - A Covina Police observed a white Chevy Suburban run a red light at Second and Badillo around 10:30 p.m. on Wednesday, June 30. The officer attempted to pull the driver over for a traffic stop but the driver sped off. The driver refused to pull over for the officer and the officer asked for backup as he chased the suspect. Not knowing if the driver had committed some other serious crime, did a drive by shooting or possibly may have someone against their will in the vehicle, the officers knew that they had to do their best to pull this vehicle over in the safest way possible.

As the pursuit wound through the city streets and on to the freeway, the officers were joined with an air unit

Officers pulled back in the hopes that the reckless driver would slow down and not continue driving unsafely. He hit speeds up to 90 miles per hour and the driver, with the officers pulling back, basically turning the chase over to the air unit. The driver continued driving recklessly. This concerned the officers and they closed the gap so they could immediately render assistance if the suspect wrecked and hurt innocent people or himself. They would also be there to take the suspect into custody.

Safety of other people was a main concern of the Covina officers who chased the suspect on and off the freeway and into West Covina, where a number of West Covina units joined the chase.

The chase wound back into Covina going down Badillo to Citrus and going south. Officers wanted to end this chase as soon as possible in the safest way possible. As the suspect was heading south on Citrus, he turned west on Rowland and headed towards Azusa Ave.

As he approached the red light and cross traffic he hit the brakes stopped before he

crossed the intersection. After a moment or two, the suspect swung open the door and got out with hand up and laid down on the street, an indication he already "knew the drill" of a felony stop. At that time, the officer felt that the suspect came to his senses and just gave up. However, this was not the case. He was driving the Suburban so hard and recklessly; because a wire came loose and this cause the vehicle to become disabled.

The suspect, who was identified as Justin Harky, 25, was arrested on a number of charges. Some of the charges are: evading, DUI, driving on a suspended license and Grand Theft Auto as the vehicle was a recent stolen vehicle.

It appears that the suspect was at a party and stole the keys out of a purse that belonged to the girl who was driving the Suburban. People at the party came up to her and said that they thought she had left the party as they saw her vehicle driving down the street. When she went to check her vehicle, she found it was gone and then discovered her keys were gone at that time too.

She was brought to the scene where the vehicle was stranded she played with the loose wire and was able to start the vehicle.

Harkey was not new to being arrested. He was arrested on May 20 and posted bail of $971. On June 27 he was again arrested and this time it was for two charges in which bail was posted the next day, June 28, for $15,000 and $300. Then two days later, he gets involved in a dangerous pursuit and this time the bail is set at $75,000 and charged with a felony.

The Covina and West Covina police officers were satisfied with the outcome of this pursuit and that the suspect was not injured as well as none of the officers or any citizens.

Often, officers will back off from the chase hoping that the suspect will come to their senses and slow down. When it becomes clear that the driver will continue on with their dangerous and reckless driving, the officers will have no choice but to close down on the suspect and use the safest method to terminate the pursuit. This could include spike strips, the PIT maneuver or blocking in the suspect.

In some cases, officers have terminated chasing a suspect altogether when they have a pretty good idea who the driver is. Sadly, this sometimes doesn't work and the driver still drives crazy and crashes into innocent victims.

Most people support officers doing what they can to catch suspects safely and not to let them get away.

Potential voters would be required to present proof of identity and residence and complete a registration form. Not every polling place would have onestop voting; registrars in each county would be able to determine where and how many locations would have one-stop voting.

AB 1531 now moves to Senate Appropriations for fiscal consideration.

City Of Azusa Takes Over "Be A Walker" Program

By Jorge V. Rosales

AZUSA - The successful Be A Walker-Walk 60 fitness and wellness program which Azusa Mayor Joe Rocha started back in November 2009, in partnership with the Azusa Wellness Center, Azusa Pacific University, Azusa Unified School District, and community volunteers, Azusa Wellness Committee, is being taken over by the City of Azusa's Recreation and Family Services Department commencing with the July 10, 2010 event at Zacatecas Park.

The objective of the program is twofold. First, to educate families, specially children, about the importance of walking, exercising, and eating healthy and nutritional food and snacks, in order to prevent obesity and the associated health problems that it causes, such as diabetes or high blood pressure. And second, to encourage families to actually walk and exercise regularly, if not daily for at least 60 minutes per day.

Prior to the walk of at least one mile, participants are given a presentation on good eating habits by a professional nutritionist, safe and healthy exercise tips by a certified fitness

The Be A Walker program under the Azusa Wellness Committee has been such a success since its inception that early this year they partnered with the City of Azusa to submit a proposal to the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health for the program entitled: Renewing Environments for Nutrition. A Tale Of Two Presidents: One An Audacious Hypocrite; The Other A Shameless Sellout - In Short, A Pair Of Real Phonies

While I have no wish to belabor the recent offerings of Mexico's president, Felipe Calderon, I find them so outrageous as to be worthy of additional discussion. First of all, since when do presidents of other countries - any other countries - come into our country and be given an open forum to attack a U.S. policy, even if it be a policy by default, i.e. a States's legislative effort, the result of the federal government's refusal to act. And, since when does a president of the U.S. take the foreign president's side against one of his own states. Since when? Since Barack Obama assumed the presidency of these United States, a circumstance that we shall regret for decades to come (as we lapse into banana Republic status).

While Calderon's conduct was a breach of protocol that is so far beyond the pale of geopolitical diplomacy as to be almost incomprehensible, it is all the more amazing for coming from this particular president and his particular country. Why? Let us count the ways.

First of all, Calderon presides (in a fashion) over one of the most, if not the most, corrupt countries in the Western Hemi-

Second, Mexico's level of criminality goes well beyond the routine corruption typically associated with a kleptocracy; it is a narco state. That is, at any given moment, it is questionable whether the government or the narco gangsters actually preside over the country. With the passage of time, it is beginning to look more and more like Columbia during the period when the drug cartels were warring over who actually controlled the country.

Third, the reason we have an illegal alien problem is that Mexico, a country possessed of rich natural resources, has never been stable long enough to create a stable, let alone a vibrant, economy - one that might encourage its citizens to stay home and eke out a living in their efforts to protect itself from the country of birth. That is, quite simply, they come across the Rio Grande to make a living because they are unable to do so in the land of their birth.

Fourth, not only do the conditions in Mexico argue for abandoning the country of their birth, but, in addition, they are encouraged to leave and supported when they choose to do

Fifth, and an absurdly clear indication of Calderon's hypocrisy, is the fact that Mexico's immigration laws are far more draconian than anything done by Arizona. Indeed, as I have previously noted, I would be quite content if America took the same approach to illegal immigration as that pursued by Mexico. Of course, not only has Obama nor Napolitano read Mexico's laws on the subject, as oft noted, they lacked the judgment, let alone the courtesy, to read Arizona's law before criticizing it.

In short, Calderon's own country has created the conditions which fuel our illegal alien problem, has supported those of its citizens who chose to leave, and then has the unmitigated gall to come into our country and complain of one of our state's cost and abuse engendered by his country's failings. It is much worse than just unmitigated gall; it is unspeakable, and the appropriate thing to do would be to treat Calderon as we should treat illegal aliens - don't let him in, and if he gets in, throw him out!!! As you may have gathered, I find Calderon's behavior more than just a breach of geopolitical protocol, I find it reprehensible in the extreme.

However, as despicable as I find Calderon's behavior, there is something I find even more reprehensible. What might that be? Two things: First, Obama's providing him with the opportunity to engage in that behavior - twice, first in a statement from the White House and thereafter in a statement to our Congress - and second, in the reaction of Obama and the Congressional Democrats to his presentation. Obama, rather than defend the actions of one of the States over which he is supposed to preside, agreed with Calderon. Can you image any other head of State allowing his country to be so slighted? And, of course, the Congressional Dems gave this ineffectual low life a standing ovation. How low has America fallen!!!

It is bad enough that when our President goes abroad he never misses an opportunity to either apologize for his country, suck up to an enemy while alienating a friend, or jeopardize our national security in some other fashion, but now he has sunk so low as to invite foreigners in to join in his effort to further demonstrate just how unexceptional America really is and, believe me, a few more years of Obama, and we really will be unexceptional.

By the way, do you know of any other country that has done more good for the world than the U.S.? Do you know of any other president, prime minister, or head of state that has gone around the world apologizing for his country's misdeeds? Let me help you out here - the answer is no! Actually it's worse than that. For example, Germany, which provoked 3 major conflagrations over a period of 75 years has not prostrated itself on the alter of public opinion apologizing for those massacres. Japan, which ran through Asia, raping, pillaging, and murdering not only does not apologize for its transgressions, it either denies that anything happened, or argues that WWII was our fault - i.e. we refused to sell them any more scrap metal so long as they continued on their rampage. And that is their version of history, according to one of the most recent efforts by one of their academics (but, alas, what can you expect from academics?). So what is this apology nonsense all about? As Victor Davis Hanson noted in a recent column at National Review online (5/2710) entitled Our Chief Confessor - Right Now there are quite enough foreign felonies in the world without dwelling on American misdemeanors:

"Obama, however, in response to Calderon, mentioned the growing irrelevance of borders themselves. He cited his own worry about the propriety of an Arizona law that currently receives a 70 percent approval rating among Americans. Even if Obama in the past has remarked that he thinks America is not necessarily an exceptional nation, the president still should side with States that want to enforce federal laws rather than foreign nations that seek to circumvent them."

But I guess that would be asking too much of a president who finds his own country so unexceptional.

It's Time To Call It Quits

Some years back a much younger and perhaps more innocent Barack Obama opined that he was not against all wars, just dumb wars. And then he was elected to an office where among the dumb things he inherited was an eight year long conflict waged in inhospitable terrain, without competent support from the resident government, in a civil conflict against a home-gown enemy, and without any sense of what it means to have won. Perhaps conservative columnist Tom Friedman put his finger on it when he wrote, "You know you're in trouble when you're in a war in which the only party whose objectives are clear, whose rhetoric is consistent and whose will to fight never seems to diminish is your enemy: the Taliban."

That comes as close to defining a "dumb war" as anything no looseness was acceptable. I can think of. At the beginning it was assumed that Afghanistan was the home base of the terrorists who attacked the US on Sept 9, 2001, even while practically all the attackers came from Saudi Arabia. Now almost ten years later that argument has gone by the books and the enemy seems to be Afghans identified with the Taliban. And we don't know how to get through the quagmire, except to wade in more deeply. It's like going into a dark cave without an exit.

On top of the debacle came the untimely departure of General McChrystal, which revealed the presence of a military command without military discipline in a war zone where over the cliff, it doesn't help to change the jockey. Whoever is the General in charge, the campaign in Afghanistan will continue to be stalemated, at best.

So here we are mired in the longest war in our history, even if it may be illegal since it was never Constitutionally declared. What is even more depressing is the lack of a clear objective, together with no exit strategy and no way to gracefully depart. If we did decide to leave, what would we say to the families of the thousand young Americans who gave their lives in what they were told was the defense of their nation? Can we simply declare victory and go home? Can we honestly believe that a When the horse is about to jump futile, corrupt and inept Afghan government can carry the ball? Can our word-mongers come up with the face-saving rhetoric that allows us to believe what we honesty know is false? There are still those who claim that we won in the equally invalid war in Vietnam. We lost! But now we have a whole new generation that has no recollection of what really happened and will never be confronted with the truth.

Even though there was no support from Administration's subalterns, President Obama authorized sending 30,000 more Americans into battle with no better logic than to call them heroes, even as the Pentagon engaged in the bravado called hope. The military told us that with this surge we could solve the problem in short order. They either lied or were just plain wrong, and now more of those we sent are either being killed or are committing suicide. These are not just statistics but are about precious human beings. Of a much smaller matter is the economic cost, which continues to add billions to the deficit. Perhaps loss of face is the darkest downside. We cannot emotionally afford another defeat.

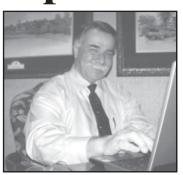

Despite all of these obstacles, increasing numbers of Americans are saying that it is time to get out and simply swallow the indigestible. Maybe they are

DUI Checkpoint Warning Signs

While working the DUI and Driver's License Checkpoint Saturday night in West Covina, we couldn't help but chuckle when motor officers would pull up with warning signs in hand. I will share a couple with you. There were signs clearly posted announcing the checkpoint placed during the set up. So, what was the problem? Why would people want to post their own signs? Do they have something to hide?

These people should spend the time that they use for making these signs into getting a license and insurance. It looks like they put the signs out there

Arrest Of Vehicle Burglars

AZUSA - On June 28, 2010 at 11:00 PM an alert citizen reported seeing a suspicious man run from a parked vehicle in the 700 block of W. Twelfth Street while carrying something in his hands. The citizen watched the subject climb into the passenger seat of a white Pontiac Bonneville which drove off east bound, and quickly called the police department. Within minutes Azusa Police Officers had the same Pontiac stopped in the area of Tenth Street and Alameda Avene. They found David Dominguez, 27 years old of Azusa behind the wheel and both Jose Orosco, 25 years old of Azusa and Adam Noriega, 46 years old of Upland riding as passengers.

A search of the vehicle revealed clothing and other property which had been stolen from the trunk of a parked vehicle on Twelfth Street with a value of more than one-thousand dollars. All three were arrested for suspicion of burglary and possession of stolen property. David Dominguez was additionally charged with driving under the influence and for violation of probation and is being held at the Azusa PD Jail with no bail. Jose Orosco is also being held with no bail for violating his probation and Adam Noriega is being held with a $100,000 bail.

Explorer with the Baldwin Park Police Department holds up another sign, in Spanish, warning of the checkpoint.

Two Hung Low

a true story by Alfred Kinstle

In the 1930's my family moved from southern California to Dayton, Ohio (close to where my mom grew up as a child). There were 8 of us: 3 adults and 5 kids. It was the deep Depression. Mom and Dad purchased a two-story, wood-framed house for $2,250. Dad was quite a piano player. He picked up gigs in the north Dayton beer parlors. We kids would walk in the gutters, looking for loose change.

The Boy Scouts of America were busy soliciting boys to join. I got permission and arrived early at the basement of the Catholic Church. The adults had not yet arrived to supervise, so the group was left to think up something to do. The scouts had been practicing their knots, and the conversation naturally moved to the hangman's noose. They invited me to participate. I was enthusiastic and thrilled to receive their apparent acceptance. Remorse quickly settled heavily onto me when they tied me up, fastened the rope to the joist, put the noose over my head, and pulled the chair out from under my feet. There I hung. I was in quite a fix! Thankfully a Brother arrived in time to rescue me. All I suffered was some rope burns, and a life-long desire to have nothing tight around my neck. The lesson I learned was: Don't go for notoriety.

In our neighborhood, the young boys - ages 4 -10 years old, played a lot of tag. We ran all over everybody's yards, but loved Mr. Y.'s front yard. It had a huge shade tree and a large fence post. (However, Mr. Y. didn't like this herd of children on his property.) One day I darted between that tree and that fence post. Running full-tilt, you can only imagine how surprised I was by a newly strung single wire as it caught me right across the throat. I didn't talk well for a number of days, but it could have been more serious. Folks weren't' inclined to sue; rather, kids would get a reprimand (a lecture from mom, or a wallop from dad) demanding to know why we hadn't been more careful. Most folks couldn't afford a doctor, so if a family member needed stitches, Mom would get out the sewing basket, sterilize the needle, and sew you up.

These are just two examples of situations to watch for where your children play. Sometimes there are holes, ditches, or obstacles that children need to be alerted about for their safety. Children don't always think ahead, or anticipate the 'What if's.' As adults - parents, family, neighbors, teachers, coaches, and group leaders - we can do our part to help children play more safely. My hope is that by telling these true stories, it'll help (even a little bit) so that all your children may have a wonderful, and more safe, childhood.

The US Recovery

Last week's article dealt with the threats that currently prevail in the recovery of the US economy. This week I will focus on the main contributors that will help in the recovery. Virtually every economist that I have spoken to feels there are two main ingredients to a sustained recovery: employment and the consumer. Consumer sentiment was reported recently to its highest level since January 2008. Consumer's assessment of the economy has been improving, although irregular, but the trend has improved since November 2008. Overall, households continue remain worried about the economy their assessment of current conditions is still weak while their expectations remain unenthusiastic. It is unlikely that sentiment will improve to truly optimistic levels until robust job creation returns and home prices stabilize.

Debt is an important issue when discussing the economy and its recovery. Households have been reducing debt for the better part of two years, so consumer spending is even more dependent on income growth than it has been in the past. Thankfully, employment is growing fast enough to support spending again.

Employee earnings do not correspond perfectly to sales because consumers use credit to supplement spending. People's appetite for credit - and access to it - changes over time. That is why spending plunged so much more than aggregate earnings in 2008; people were weaning themselves off credit. Faster growth in sales than in income now is something of a mystery, because credit use is still falling. Some of it reflects a slower rate of decline in credit, and some reflects spending power freed up as people default on mortgage and credit obligations.

As for employment, which is at the heart of earnings, there have been some improvements since their recessionary lows, and a remarkable 64% of industries are hiring, a number only surpassed once during one brief three-month stretch during the entire prior business cycle; the employment rate has dropped from a 10.1% high in October to where it currently is at 9.7%. The rate has stayed high because almost as many people entered the labor force in the first four months of the year as were employed; the labor force grew enough in four months to reabsorb hundreds of thousands of discouraged workers.

The 2 million-plus drop in the labor force during the recession

What's up in the Economy? Nutshell

is unprecedented in modern history. It also coincides with a significant number of undocumented workers who left the US after the residential construction boom ended, which means the entire drop might not reverse as quickly as it would otherwise. Still, there is organic growth of 100-200 thousand a month in the labor force even without immigration, and these workers will enter the labor force now the recession is over.

For now, employment - and so many other aspects of the economy - is still recovering from the losses of the recession. Indeed, employment was harder hit than spending or economic output, and the recovery to date has reversed only a small fraction of the loss. But prior cycles show the rate of growth tends to continue even after the recovery is complete, meaning the surprising vigor of the rebound in employment should last well into the expansion. The key is closing the circle of spending and income.

There is a direct correlation when talking about labor and the work force to orders and production. For the most part, orders are rising because sales are growing and inventories are remarkably low. Because orders fell so significantly during the recession - to a level lower than the recessionary low in 2002 above-trend growth can easily be maintained through this year and next without creating imbalances. Orders are now back on their 2004 pace, but the economy is quite a bit bigger than it was six years ago, suggesting there is still plenty of room for growth.

One cannot think of a recovery without mentioning the housing market. The housing market is still quite weak both in terms of sales and new construction. From a GDP growth standpoint, however, the weakness is behind us. It is still too soon to say that sales are rising or prices have stabilized in the aggregate economy, especially since the first-time homebuyer tax credit just ended. But after a 5-year housing recession, it is safe to say that the housing market has turned the corner.

With a more optimistic view

Half of the year is over. How are you doing with your New Year's resolutions?

Will my heirs have access to the money in my CDs when I die, or does this money have to go through probate?

Proceeds from a non-IRA bank CD go through probate and may be subject to expenses, delays, and lack of privacy. On the other hand, an annuity, with a properly designated beneficiary (other than the annuitant's estate) can be passed on to heirs without the expense and delay of probate. There are ways to set up an annuity so that the beneficiaries receive a tax-free death benefit to help cover the taxable gain.

Those of us in the automotive service and repair business recommend you exchange the fluid every 30,000 miles or on average, every two years. "ASK GEORGE" - Expert Answers To Common DMV Questions

SACRAMENTO – Do you have questions about general driving related requirements like registration and insurance? Are you unclear about laws and restrictions related to driving? The California Department of Motor Vehicles has answers. "Save Time by Going Online," at www.dmv.ca.gov.

Q: I am currently living in Colorado and will be here until I complete a long term project. In the meantime my driver license will be up for renewal in a couple of months. Since I will be unable to renew it in person, can I just pay the renewal fee online and have the renewed license sent to my address in Canada?

A: A review of your driver record indicates that you must renew your driver license in person. Since you are located out-of-state, you may request a one year extension of your driver license. You must submit a letter stating the circumstances and requesting a one-year extension of your driver license to the following address:

DMV - DL ISSUANCE

George Valverde - Director, California Department of Motor Vehicles

M/S G204

P.O. Box 932345

Sacramento, CA 94232-3450

The extension can only be mailed to your out of state address.

Q: My cousin from Canada is visiting California for a couple of weeks. Is she able to drive with her Canadian license?

A: Thanks for your question. Visitors over the age of 18 who have a valid driver license from their home state or country may drive in California without getting a new California driver license, as long as their home state license remains valid.

Minors visiting California are only allowed to drive with their home state or instruction permit for 10 days after arriving in California. After the 10 days, they must have either a:

- California driver license, or
- Nonresident Minor's Certificate which is issued by the DMV to a minor who has shown proof of financial responsibility

For more information on driving privileges in California, please visit www.dmv.ca.gov and click on the California Driver Handbook link under the Publication tab. From there, turn to the General Information section.

2nd Quarter Construction Update

Southern California Edison's Tehachapi Renewable Transmission Project — Segments 6-9 & 11

Project Update — Southern California Edison (SCE) contractors have begun construction-related activities along portions of Segments 4-11 of the Tehachapi Renewable Transmission Project (TRTP). Upon completion, the project will provide renewable wind-generated electricity and help meet California's renewable energy goals.

Geotechnical Field-Engineering Work Segments 6 and 11

- Field-engineering (geotechnical) borings in Segments 6 and 11 in the Angeles National Forest (ANF) and in the Acton area began in February, and are needed to complete final foundation design for the new transmission structures.
- Small storage yards are being used in areas outside the ANF for the geotechnical work.

Relocation of Subtransmission Electrical Lines Segment 7 and 8 (San Gabriel Valley)

- To facilitate new renewable energy transmission lines, some existing subtransmission lines need to be relocated.
- This relocation will include use of existing structures where possible, and in other locations will include installation of a combination of underground and overhead facilities.
- The relocations will take place within the cities of Irwindale, Montebello, Monterey Park, Rosemead and South El Monte.

SCE's Commitment — Every effort will be made to reduce the amount of noise generated by activities related to construction. SCE understands that construction may be inconvenient to local residents. We greatly appreciate your patience as we move to complete construction as quickly and safely as possible.

CALRTA Teachers Enjoy End of Year Lunch and great music by Jerry Burgan

By Lynda Siminske

Ninety retired teachers of California Retired Teachers Association Division 13 met recently for their final lunch of this school year at Covina Women's Club. The lovely hall was decorated in patriot colors to celebrate Memorial Day, and lunch consisted of a delicious Chinese Chicken Salad, rolls, ice tea, and a lemon cake topped with strawberries and whipped cream. Different CALRTA officers were introduced and spoke about legislation affecting retired teachers. Time was given to write postcards to Harry Reid, Nancy Pelosi, and Barbara Boxer regarding the unfair Social Security Act and and need to repeal the WEP and GPO Acts that penalize teachers whose husbands receive social security but they can't when their husband dies. Scholarhip Chairmen told of the many scholarships that would be presented at the September meeting to students at Cal Poly Pomona, Mt. SAC and Citrus College.

Teachers made generous contributions to contiue the generous Scholarship Program.

Lynda Siminske, out going Historian and Publicity Chairman was honored with a dozen beautiful oranges roses, a gift card, and kind words of appreciation from President, Robbie Cendejas. Lynda has served odn the board of CalRTA for 8 years since her retirement in 2008; she recently won the ED Ely Award for Communication at the State CAIRTA Convention in Sacraemento. Lynd will be moving away from Southern California. CalRTA needs someone to continue her job...Publicity and Historian, if anyone is interested.

Following lunch a wonderful foot tapping, hand clapping Hootenany, musical Program was presented by Jerry Burgan, local Glendora musican and guitarist. He sang songs from our rich heritage of folk and popular music...woven masterfully together with tales of how songs blended into the fabric of America.

Retired teachers were encouraged to sing along. Jerry Burgan was co-founder of "We Five," the 60's Folk Rock group famous for "You were on My Mind," the million selling anthem of triumph over the pain of lost love and found. Jerry played a lively variety of folk songs for over an hour and the retired teachers all enjoyed this wonderful program.

A Teacher's Search for Help for Students with Dyslexia

In 1994, Carol Eden came to Glendora to teach kindergarten at La Fetra Elementary School. Carol, from the beginning, had a special empathy for the dyslexic or struggling readers since both of her sons have dyslexia and had a great deal of difficulty learning to read.

Dyslexia is a neurologicallybased, often familial, disorder which interferes with the acquisition and processing of language. Varying in degrees of severity, it is manifested by difficulties in receptive and expressive language, including phonological processing, in reading, writing, spelling, handwriting, and sometimes in arithmetic. It is estimated that 1 out of 5 students have some degree of this kind of learning disability. It is the most common of all the learning disabilities.

Carol knew that without special help, her dyslexic students would face potential school failure. Having lived with this problem, she was determined to research possible programs that would be of benefit. One such investigation took her all the way to New York to see a doctor who claimed to cure dyslexia. His methods were not helpful.

In 2005 Carol learned of a workshop at Citrus College. It was Susan Barton speaking on the Barton Reading and Spelling System. Being the last day of Christmas vacation, she attended. Carol was impressed, stayed after the presentation to talk with Mrs. Barton, and knew that this could be a solution. With the encouragement of her principal she wrote grants to purchase the program and recruited volunteers to help a reverse mortgage could save you some money.

For example, some banks offer FHA-insured reverse mortgages with lower fees. With the reduced cost, senior homeowners may have access to more tax-free loan proceeds to help secure financial independence.

"This is great news for people who are retired and want to increase their monthly income. Reverse mortgage loans can help homeowners age 62 or over to improve their monthly cash flow and have real peace of mind," said Tim McDonald, head of Wells Fargo's Senior Products Group.

Reverse mortgage loan proceeds are paid to the senior homeowner in a lump sum, for a fixed-rate loan or a lump sum, monthly payment, a line of credit or a combination of the three for a variable rate loan.

Additionally, there are no credit, employment or income qualifications for the reverse programs. mortgage Homeowners must be at least 62 and own their house free and clear or able to pay it off with proceeds from the reverse

'Social Security replaces only a fraction of preretirement earnings, so a reverse mortgage is a popular choice for retirees looking to secure financial independence," McDonald said.

McDonald added that with the recent reduction in Wells Fargo's origination and servicing fees, on average, customers can have up to $9,000 in additional reverse mortgage loan funds made available to them.

Reverse mortgages can be key to ensuring that seniors have the financial ability to age in place. Studies show that 85 percent of older Americans want to stay in their homes for as long as they can. Even modest homes have the potential to generate more than $600 in monthly proceeds from a variable-rate reverse mortgage--as long as the senior lives in the home as his or her primary home, keeps the taxes and insurance paid and maintains the house to FHA standards.

That amount of money can make a big difference in the lifestyle of someone in retire-

The HECM is the most popular reverse mortgage in America today and is only available through an FHA-approved lender. The program has insured more than 580,000 reverse mortgages since 1989.

Wells Fargo attributes the growth of reverse mortgage loans to several factors, including that seniors have greater awareness and understanding of the reverse mortgage loan product, and the aging U.S. population--currently, more than 34 million Americans are over the age of 65.

By 2050, it is projected that 86.7 million Americans will be 65 or older.

The loan amount for a reverse mortgage is based on three factors: age of the youngest borrower, value of the home and current interest rates.

Numerous consumer safeguards are built into the program, including mandatory HUD-approved counseling, payment guarantees, capped interest rates and advanced disclosures.

A consumer-friendly website with a reverse mortgage calculator has been created by Wells Fargo to help seniors learn about reverse mortgages, download free educational materials, and calculate an estimate of how much a reverse mortgage could provide them in retirement. Visit www.wellsfargo.com/reverse.

Not all bank and mortgage companies originate reverse mortgages. Wells Fargo is the nation's leading retail originator of reverse mortgages. (NAPSI)

The classic film featured Natalie Wood and Warren Beatty. This special Citrus College production is directed by Neil H. Weiss and features an all-student cast and crew of more than 30.

"the characters are complex and thought-provoking, while the journey they go through is dramatically entertaining and intense. I think our audiences will leave the play impressed by the high quality of theatre our department produces."

The Citrus Summer Conservatory's production of "Anything Goes" is directed by Gary Kinke and choreographed by John Vaughan, with musical direction by Doug Austin. In this 1930s musical, the cast of 60 recreates one of Cole Porter's best known scores including such hits as "It's De-Lovely," "Friendship," "I Get a Kick Out of You," "Anything Goes," "You're the Top," and "Blow, Gabriel, Blow,"

Assmb. Portantino's Bill To Limit Executive Compensation For Drug Treatment Facilities Passes Senate

public resources and bring

SACRAMENTO – The state Senate has overwhelmingly approved legislation to provide oversight of taxpayer dollars used to fund drug treatment programs throughout California. AB 564, authored by Assemblymember Anthony Portantino (D-La Canada Flintridge) clarifies that drug treatment executives cannot receive excessive salaries from public funds and will be limited to federal guidelines for compensation in similar fields.

"In this era of budget squeezes this is an opportunity to protect precious a standard and oversight to an area that has been plagued by concerns and questions," Portantino. "Clients need these important services and we have to make sure they get them while also ensuring our limited dollars

are spent efficiently."

Assemblymember Portantino introduced AB 564 after concerns about executive compensation were highlighted in a Los Angeles Times article detailing how some executives were making $400,000 to run non-profits funded by public dollars, while simultaneously owning an interest in the company and collecting rent. Current state law provides no limit to the amount of public funds that can be spent on executive compensation for those who operate drug and alcohol treatment facilities. AB 564 will cap all forms of executive compensation at $196,700, similar to the cap used by the National Institutes of Health (NIH).

The bill now moves to the Assembly for final approval before moving to the governor for signature.

One training routine Robin prac-with his shin when most people can only kick wood. Robin could grapple with guys who are over 300 lbs. Batman trusted

Robin's fighting skills and could back him up. On that one trip with Robin, Batman got hooked and asked Robin to be his part-trip, wherein Robin was surrounded by five guys and he never backed down and on another occasion, Robin fell from an eight feet high wall trying to notify the registered owner of the vehicle they had just

REPOssed. Robin had a cut near his eye, two ribs cracked and his shirt was covered with blood all over. In a week's time,

Robin was back to REPO, a job his close friend "Robin" for a
