ANNUAL MEMBERSHIP MEETING

APRIL 6-9, 2008 ★ WASHINGTON, DC

VISION^{TO}ACTIONLOCAL LEADERSHIP NATIONAL CHANGE

Dear Colleague:

Like every election year, 2008 will be a time of transition, discussion and reflection.

As a hospital executive, you bring a unique perspective to the latest national conversation about how to create a better system of health and health care. Your leadership and countless acts of compassion not only inspire the people whose lives you touch, and the communities you care for, but they give you a powerful voice for change.

The 2008 Annual Membership Meeting theme, Vision to Action: Local Leadership, National Change, is a reflection of the important role you play in your community, and the AHA's commitment to ensuring that your wisdom, talent and energy continues to be a positive, driving force behind improving American health care.

This year's meeting, April 6-9, will provide an excellent forum for sharing your ideas directly with the men and women who shape national health care policy. But just as important, it will be a terrific opportunity to reconnect with distant friends and former colleagues, make new friends, and learn from some of the best and brightest minds in health care—our members.

As you have come to expect, the 2008 Annual Membership Meeting will include sessions that provoke thought, debate and laughter. This year's speakers will share their wisdom and insight on some of the most pressing issues facing our nation, including health care reform, and will address topics critical to your facilities, including quality, patient safety and health information technology... just to name a few. And, as always, you will have the opportunity to earn ACHE continuing education credit.

So please mark your calendars and plan to join us this April for a celebration of America's hospitals. I look forward to welcoming you to Washington!

Rich Umbdenstock
President
American Hospital Association

The Joint Commission: Past, Present and Future

The Joint Commission was formed to provide a clear set of standards by which hospitals should operate to ensure patients receive high-quality, safe care. Today it continues to accredit hospitals and other health care organizations with the goal of improving the safety and quality of care provided to the public. Its new president, MARK CHASSIN, M.D., is a distinguished physician and teacher, recognized quality expert, and savvy political leader from New York. Join Dr. Chassin as he discusses the future direction for The Joint Commission, its evolving role in quality and public policy, and its relationship with the hospitals it accredits.

Connecting for Care Revisited: What Hospitals are doing to Improve Patient Care through Information Technology

Hospitals and health systems are using information technology to support care transformation with outstanding results. In this session, you will hear updates on how health care organizations are changing work processes for the better with the help of electronic health records and other IT solutions. Join moderator GEORGE LYNN, president emeritus of New Jersey's AtlantiCare, as GLENN STEELE JR., M.D., president and CEO of Pennsylvania's Geisinger Health System; WILLIAM K. ATKINSON, PH.D., president and CEO of WakeMed Health & Hospitals, in Raleigh, NC; and JONATHON B. TRUSTEE EDUCATIONAL SESSION II

The Board's Role in Quality and Patient Safety: Practical Tools, Tactics and Techniques

Hospital boards increasingly are being held accountable for quality and the safety of the patients in their care. Effectively addressing these concerns requires a greater understanding of the elements of quality care and patient safety, the development of the board's quality literacy, and a clearer connection between the actions of leadership and organizational clinical excellence. In this session, JAMES E. ORLIKOFF, president of Orlikoff & Associates Inc. and a senior consultant for the Center for Healthcare Governance, will address the rationale for governance oversight of quality, and provide specific strategies and tools for improving governance performance in this critical area.

10:45 a.m. - 12:15 p.m. TRUSTEE EDUCATIONAL SESSION III

The Gremlins of Governance: What Keeps Me Awake at Night

In Governance as Leadership: Reframing the Work of Non-profit Boards, Professor RICHARD CHAIT of the Harvard Graduate School of Education, a long-time student of non-profit boards, offered a new way to think about non-profit governance, and a new way to think while governing. He examined in principle and in practice, the concept of governance as leadership, where trustees and senior executives work together in three different but related modes: fiduciary, strategic and generative. In this session, Chait offers an update on his thinking about governance and discusses several dilemmas and trends that can lead to restless nights for people concerned about the health and future of trusteeship.
