Education

Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Virginia, 2007-2011

Ph.D. in Human Nutrition, Food and Exercise: August 2011

Studying the regulation of Nhlh2 with differing energy status (transcriptional and post-transcriptional control)

University of Jordan, Jordan, 1995-1998.

Masters in Animal Production.

Effect of nutritional level on onset of puberty of Awassi female lambs in the Jordan Valley.

University of Baghdad, Iraq, 1990-1994.

Bsc in Animal Production program with honors (Ranked 1st of Animal Production Department.)

AWARDS and HONORS

- Trainee Day Workshop Travel Award, 92nd Annual Endocrine Society Meeting (June 2010). San Diego, California.
- Ph.D. Scholarship, Islamic Development Bank Scholarship, 2007-2011.
- The best booklet for farmers, 2006 (Third prize), Agriculture Engineers Association, Iordan.
- The distinguished Researcher in the year 2003, National Center of Agricultural Research and Extension (NCARE), Jordan.
- The first of Animal Production Department (about 250 students) and the honor section, 1994, University of Baghdad, Iraq.

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Doctoral Research: Department of Human Nutrition, Food and Exercise. Virginia Tech, 2007-2011 (Advisor: Dr. Deborah J. Good).

- Determine transcription factors that regulate Nhlh2 gene.
- Study post-transcriptional regulation of Nhlh2, effect of SNPs in the 3'UTR on gene expression.

Research in National Center for Agricultural Research and Technology Transfer: Integrated Animal Resources Research, Jordan, 1998-2007.

- Using untraditional feed stuffs in feeding sheep and goat.
- Enhance growth rate of sheep using feed supplements.
- Study the effect of feeding different kinds of grass on productivity of sheep and goat.
- Improve sheep production by using feed blocks in animal ration.

Master Research: Department of Animal Production, University of Jordan, 1995-1998 (Advisor: Dr. Wadi Lubbadeh).

- Study the effect of nutritional level, protein and energy, on the onset of puberty of Awassi sheep lambs.
