INTRODUCTION

From January of 2009 to March 2011, the Transportation Planning and Programming Division (TPP) of the Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) sponsored a comprehensive set of travel surveys in the Corpus Christi Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) study area, located in Nueces and San Patricio counties of South Texas. The purpose of the surveys was to collect data and information needed as input to the Corpus Christi MPO travel demand model for this two-county study area. The model is an important planning tool used to forecast future traffic levels on area roadways, evaluate the region's transportation plan, and aid in the region's air quality conformity analyses. Most urbanized areas in Texas (as well as in the U.S. and abroad) rely on travel forecasting models as a tool in their transportation planning and air quality analysis efforts. Since modeling results may be used in determining conformity or non-conformity status of transportation plans to federal clean air regulations, the use of accurate and up-to-date data from regional travel surveys is important to TxDOT and MPOs across the state.

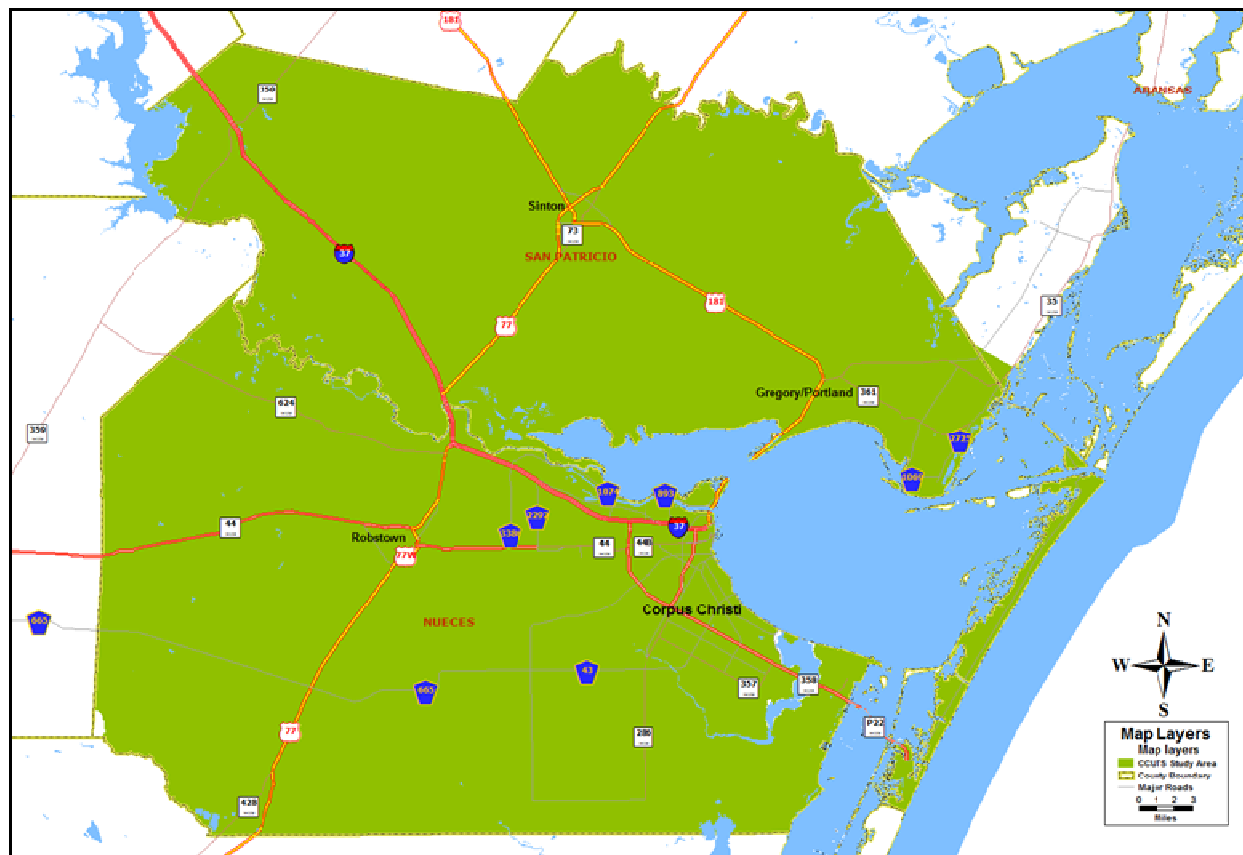

Three different types of origin-destination travel surveys were conducted in the Corpus Christi area, including a household survey, a work place survey, and a commercial vehicle survey. The household survey collected data on the amount and characteristics of travel generated by households within the area. The work place survey collected data on travel to and from area businesses, special generators, and places of employment. The commercial vehicle survey collected data on cargo transport vehicles and fleet or service vehicles of area governments and businesses. Each survey collected a different component of travel needed for the travel demand model. All surveys were designed to capture characteristics of weekday travel during the school year.

This report summarizes the results of the household survey for the Corpus Christi study area. A variety of household summary information is presented in this report. The summary information is subject to modification as the survey data are further evaluated and analyzed within the context of all the travel surveys conducted.

The household survey sample design is based on obtaining travel information from a pre-determined number of randomly-selected households within certain ranges of household income and household size. The desired number of surveyed households in any household size/income range is not proportional to the estimated number of households in the cell. Rather, the number of households to be surveyed in each cell was based on the total estimated number of households in the area and the expected number of trips the households will make during a typical school-year weekday.

The survey sample design is based on a desired level of accuracy of +/- 10 percent with a confidence level of 90 percent for the total person trips in the survey area. Figure 1 shows the survey area. The number of households in the MPO study area in 2009-2010 was estimated from the 2010 Census. Table 1 shows the estimated number of households in the study area in 2009-2010, the number of households surveyed, and the distribution of the number of households surveyed stratified by household size and household income range.

A total of 1,888 households in the Corpus Christi area were surveyed. The minimum number of households surveyed in any household size/income range cell was 33 and the maximum number surveyed was 131. Of the estimated 141,300 households in the Corpus Christi area, 25 percent are households with one person and 31 percent are households with two persons — 56 percent of the households are one- or two-person households.

HOUSEHOLD SURVEY RESULTS

This survey represents a sample of household demographic and travel characteristics for a Monday through Friday weekday during the school year from the spring of 2009 to the spring of 2010. For participating households, each member of the household was provided a diary to record his or her travel. The survey data were retrieved from participants by phone at a pre-arranged call-back time within two days after their specified travel date. Every attempt was made to interview all persons within each of the 1,888 randomly selected households that participated in the survey. In many cases, a proxy provided information for household members who were not available. Adult members of the household usually reported the activities and trips for minors in the household. A small number of households chose to return their completed diaries by mail, in lieu of providing their trip information over the phone.

Key Points Regarding Household Survey Data

- The survey data are for an average weekday in the spring of 2009 and the spring of 2010.
- The survey data were tabulated only for persons who lived in the surveyed households. Persons living in group quarters, such as nursing homes, correctional facilities, or dormitories were not surveyed.
- The survey data are for persons of all ages unless otherwise noted.
- The survey data do not include non-household-based travel such as commercial vehicles or tourists or persons staying in hotels.
- The estimates for population and number of households are based on the expanded survey data and may differ from population and household estimates developed by other agencies.
- The survey data are for trips by residents of the Corpus Christi area that began and ended within the four-county study area. Trips that began inside the county area and ended outside the area or vice versa are not included in this report.

Findings of the Survey

For the Corpus Christi area:

- 96 percent of the households had a vehicle available.

- 98 percent of the households had a licensed driver.
- Trip rates per household generally increased with household size, with household income, and with vehicle availability.
- The average vehicle occupancy was 1.4 persons per vehicle.
- Over 95 percent of all person trips were made in a personal-use vehicle.
- In terms of person trips made, the travel mode breakdown was 72 percent drove a vehicle, 24 percent rode as a passenger in a vehicle and 2 percent walked.
- 27 percent of the total household population did not make an internal trip within the planning area on their survey day.
- On average, each person made 4.0 person trips per day and each household made 9.8 person trips per day.
- The average person trip length was 5.6 miles and the average person trip duration was 8.4 minutes.
- The average vehicle trip length was 5.9 miles and the average vehicle trip duration was 8.7 minutes.
- The peak hour for household travel was from 7:01 a.m. to 8:00 a.m. during which 13 percent of the trip starts occurred. The second highest hour for household trip starts was from 3:01 p.m.-to-4:00 p.m. when 11 percent of the daily trip starts occurred.
- Weekday school year household travel internal to the study area accounted for an estimated 6.32 million vehicle miles of travel (VMT).

HOUSEHOLD CHARACTERISTICS

Characteristics of the household influence travel behavior. For example, household size, income, vehicles available, number of persons employed, and family life cycle affect the amount and the time-of-day that trips are made. For this survey, households include only those persons living in residences, and do not include persons living in group quarters. The figures in this section are for the expanded survey data.

Household Size

Figure 2 shows the distribution of households by household size resulting from the survey. Household size and household income range are the two household variables used to stratify the household trip rates calculated from the household travel survey. When forecasting future travel, the forecast population must be estimated by household size and household income range. Average household size in the Corpus Christi area in 2009-2010 estimated from the survey was 2.64 persons per household.

Distribution of Households by Household Size

For the Corpus Christi area travel model, three variables — household size, household income, and the number of persons employed in the household — were used to stratify trip rates for the home-based work (HBW) trip purpose. For the home-based non-work (HBNW) and the non-home based (NHB) trip purposes, two variables — household size and household income — were used to stratify trip rates.

A typical household makes a certain number of trips on most days to meet household needs, such as to purchase food and other necessities, to earn an income, to attend school, to visit friends and family, to receive medical care, to attend events, etc. For this reason, the number of households is a better predictor of future travel than using the number of persons.

Household Life Cycle

Household life cycle influences the amount and time of travel. For example, households with children tend to make more trips than households without children. Households with working adults tend to make more trips than households with retired adults. Figure 3 shows the distribution of households in the four-county study area by those with no children and not retired, those with children, and those with only retired persons. The survey found that only 28 percent of the households have children, 56 percent of the households have no children, and 16 percent of the households are retired persons.

Source: Corpus Christi Household Travel Survey and TTI Analysis. Note: The data represents households within the four-county study area. The data does not include residents who did not report age. Adults are persons 18 years of age and older. Retired households have only retired persons. If one person in the household was retired and the other adult was employed, that household was not counted as a retired household.

Household Income

Household income and household size are the two primary variables used to estimate household trip rates. As household income increases, the amount of household travel tends to increase. Additionally, as income increases, vehicle ownership tends to increase and additional financial resources are available to the household to support increased travel. Figure 4 shows the distribution of the expanded households in the survey by income ranges based on the combined annual income of all household members.

Household Vehicle Availability and Licensed Drivers

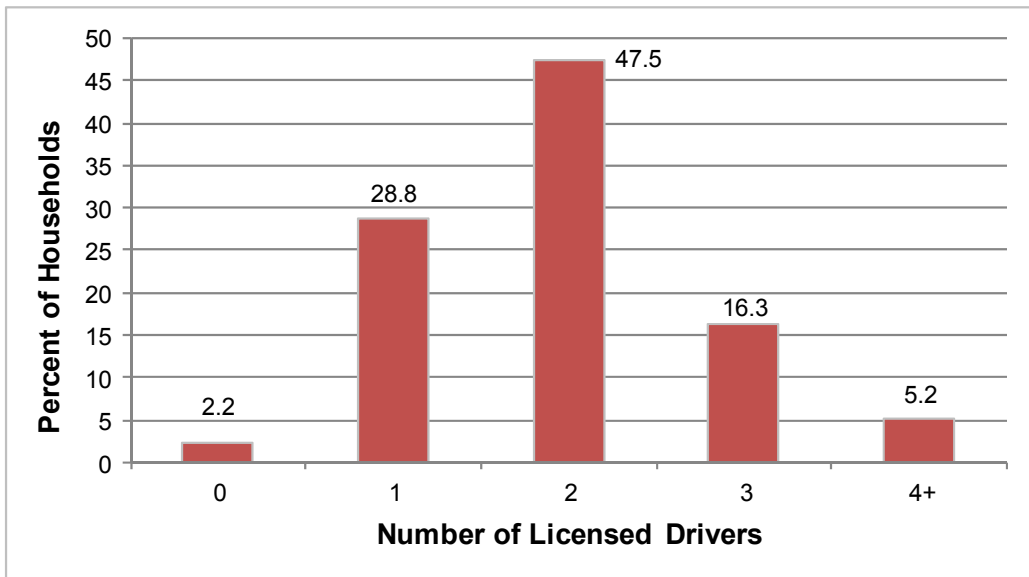

In general, as the number of vehicles available to the household increases, daily household travel increases. This household characteristic also impacts forecasting the demand for public transportation. As household vehicle availability increases, the household demand for public transportation tends to decrease. Figure 5 shows the distribution of the 141,300 expanded households in the survey by the number of vehicles available. Slightly less than 4 percent of the households did not have a vehicle available. The average number of vehicles available per household was 1.99.

Source: Corpus Christi Household Travel Survey and TTI Analysis. Note: A household vehicle is any motorized vehicle available to a household for travel including motorcycles, trucks, vans, automobiles, sport utility vehicles, etc.

Figure 7 shows the distribution of the expanded households by the number of licensed drivers and the number of vehicles available. For the majority of households (66 percent), the number of licensed drivers is equal to the number of vehicles available. For 16 percent of the households, the number of licensed drivers is less than the number of vehicles available, and for 16 percent of the households, the number of licensed drivers is greater than the number of vehicles available. Slightly less than 2 percent of the households have neither a licensed driver nor a vehicle available.

Household Employment

The 141,300 expanded households included 372,919 persons for an average of 2.64 persons per household. Figure 8 shows the distribution of the expanded households by the number of persons employed.

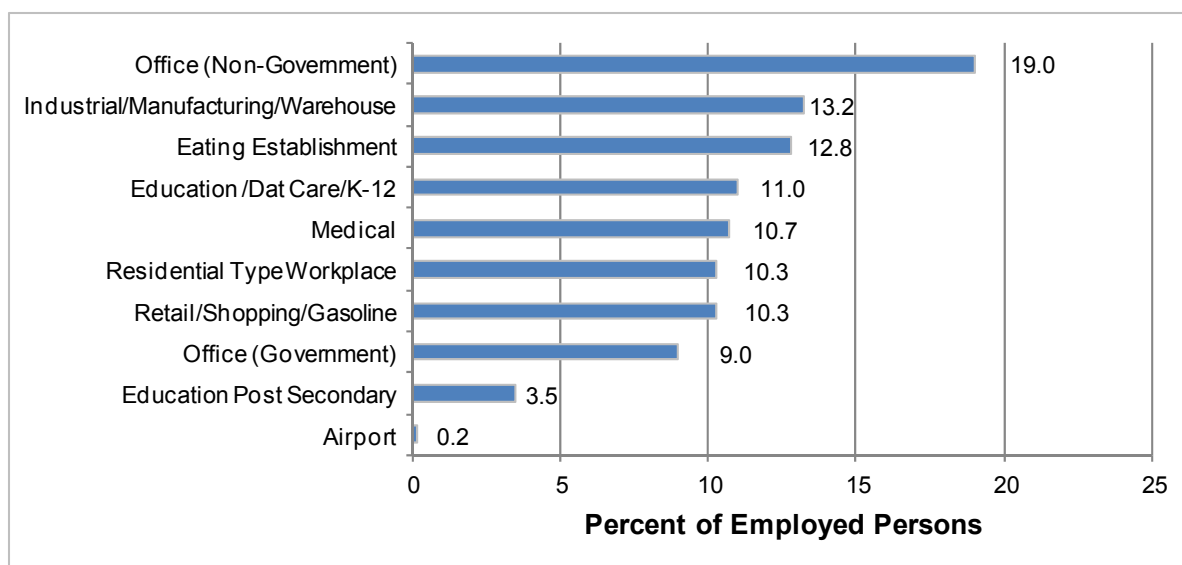

Figure 9 shows the distribution of all persons regardless of age by employment status. More than 32 percent of the population is employed full time and about 19 percent of the population is students. More than 17 percent of the population is retired.

Figure 10 shows the distribution of the employed persons by the type of employer. The 141,300 households had 172,159 employed persons for an average of 1.22 employed persons per household. The employer-type “office non-government” had the largest percentage of employed persons, comprising 19 percent of those employed. The “industrial/manufacturing/warehouse” employer-type accounted for the second largest percentage of employed persons, reporting just over 13 percent.

Ethnicity

TRAVELER CHARACTERISTICS

The previous section reported on a variety of household and person characteristics obtained from the household travel survey. In this section, these household and person characteristics are related to household travel characteristics. Household size, household income, household life cycle, household vehicle availability, household licensed drivers, and household employment all affect the amount of household travel.

Household Trip Rates and Vehicle Occupancy

The household trip rates in this section are for person trips made in a vehicle either as the driver or as a passenger. Figure 12 shows household trip rates as a function of household size. As the household size increases, household trip rates increase and become large for large household sizes. For travel forecasting applications, households with five or more household members are grouped and an average trip rate is used for the group.

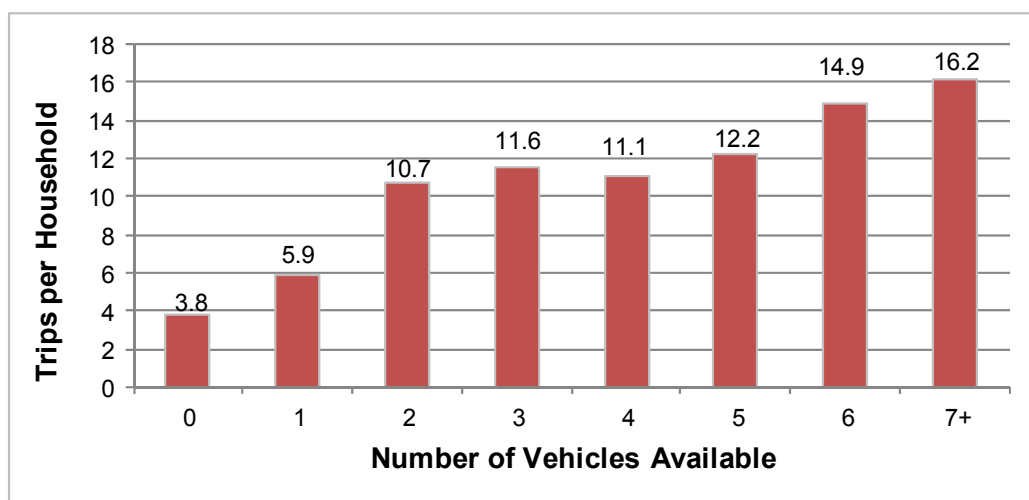

Figure 13 shows the household trip rates for different household income ranges. As expected, as household income increases, the household trip rate increases.

Figure 14 shows the household trip rates as a function of the number of vehicles available to household members for travel. Generally, as the number of vehicles available to the household increases, the household trip rate increases, but the rate increases at a lower rate after two vehicles. Note that households with no vehicles available do make a meaningful number of trips. The unusually low value shown in the 7+ vehicle categories stems from an insufficient sample size in these categories.

Table 2 shows the person trip rates cross classified by household size and household income for all internal trip purposes combined, that is, trips that begin and end inside the four-county study area. These trip rates are for all trips by all modes including transit, bicycle, and walk trips. For travel forecasting applications, the cross-classified trip rates are disaggregated by trip purpose into HBW trips, HBNW trips, and NHB trips (see the terminology section for the definitions of these terms). As a part of the travel forecasting process, the person trips are divided among the modes during the mode split step. The average person trip rate for all households internal to the study area was 9.8 trips per household.

Travel by Age Cohort

An estimated 372,919 persons were represented in the expanded household survey. Table 4 shows the number of persons and distribution of persons by age cohort that did not make any internal trips on their survey day. Generally speaking, older persons are less likely to travel than are younger persons, but the older population is mobile and contribute significantly to the amount of household travel. The rather high percentage of persons making zero internal trips in the 20-24 age cohort probably is due to under reporting or not reporting of trips by this age cohort.

MODE OF TRAVEL

The modes of travel were household automobile-driver, household automobile-passenger, school bus, walk, public transportation, bicycle, carpool/vanpool, and commercial vehicle. Figure 15 shows the distribution of person trips by mode. Automobile travel accounted for 95 percent of the person trips. Commercial vehicle trips accounted for less than 1 percent of the person trips and “walk” mode accounted for 2 percent of the person trips. The surveyed households made little use of public transportation, accounting for less than 1 percent of the person trips.

AMOUNT OF TRAVEL

Several measures are used to record the amount of travel — the number of person trips, the number of vehicle trips, the trip distances in miles, the trip durations or travel times in minutes, and the vehicle miles of travel (VMT).

Trip Distance

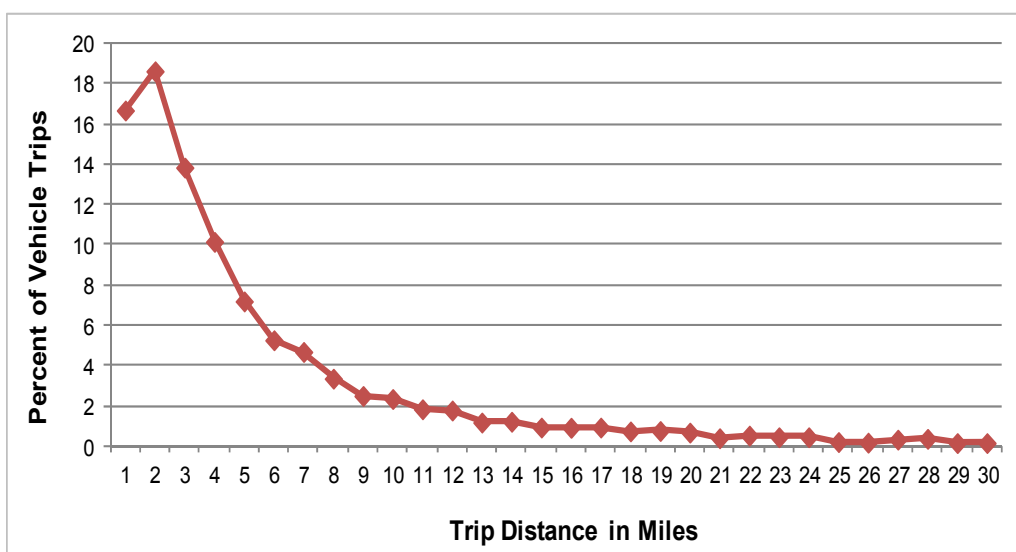

Figure 16 shows the distribution of person trips by the length of the trip in miles. The distribution is for internal person trips, trips beginning and ending inside the study area. The average person trip length was 5.6 miles.

Figure 17 shows the distribution of vehicle trips by the length of the trip in miles. The average vehicle trip length was 5.9 miles. For travel demand modeling purposes, the travel modeler needs data about the distribution of vehicle trips in miles and the average vehicle trip length in miles for each internal trip purpose. Distributions similar to Figure 17 can be prepared for each internal trip purpose.

Trip Duration

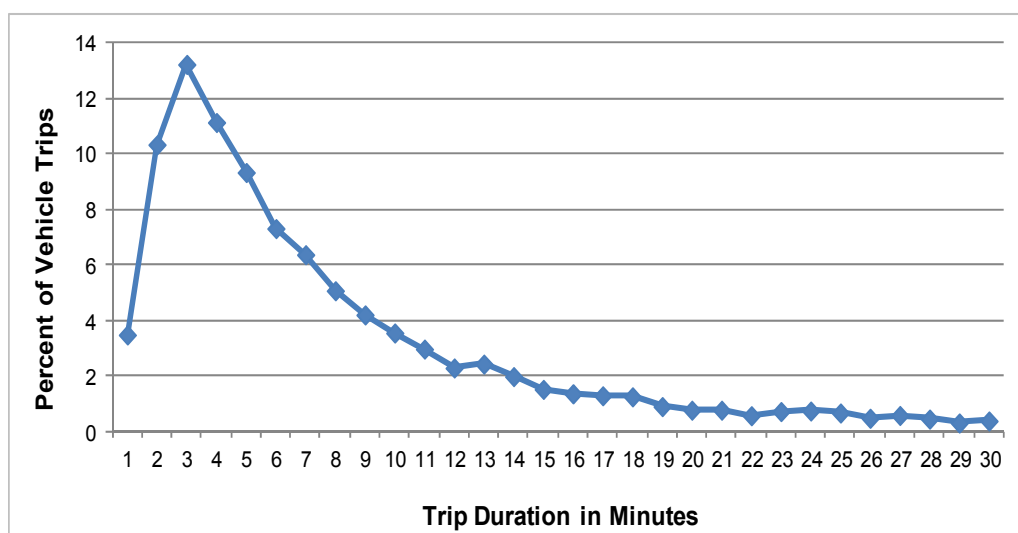

Figure 18 shows the distribution of person trips by the duration of the trip in minutes. The distribution is for internal person trips — trips beginning and ending inside the four-county study area. The average person trip duration was 8.4 minutes.

Vehicle Miles of Travel

VMT is calculated as the product of the average vehicle trip length in miles times the number of vehicle trips. For household trips internal to the Corpus Christi study area, the estimated VMT is 6.32 million miles per school-year weekday. This is not the total VMT for the study area, as the VMT associated with external-local, external-through, commercial vehicle, visitor travel, and intrazonal trips are not included in the estimate.

TIME OF TRAVEL

The time of travel is a function of the activity to be accomplished. The start times for trips to work and to school are dictated by the time when work and school begin. For other activities, such as trips to shop or for recreation, the trip start times are flexible. As travel during peak periods becomes more congested, some drivers choose to make trips earlier or later to avoid the most congested travel time. Figure 20 shows the distribution of trip start times for a 24-hour weekday during the school year. The morning peak period, 7:01 a.m. to 8:00 a.m., has the highest percentage (13 percent) of daily trip starts. During the morning peak period, trips from home to work and from home to school are the primary destinations. The second highest percentage (11 percent) of trip starts occurs during the hour of 3:01 p.m. to 4:01 p.m. During this hour, trips from school to home are the primary destination. Trip starts during the hour from 4:01 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., which are largely trips from work to home, has the third highest percentage (9 percent) of daily trip starts.

TRAVEL PURPOSE

As a part of their travel diary, each household member was asked to identify from a list of choices what they did at each trip destination. The information about the trip destination was used to categorize the trip by trip purpose. In travel demand modeling, typically there are three internal trip purposes — HBW, HBNW, and NHB trips. Figure 21 shows the distribution of person trips by the trip destination purposes used in the survey. As would be expected, the most frequent trip destination was the return home trip.

Type of Place at Trip Destination

Closely related to the travel purpose and what the traveler did at the destination end of the trip is information on the type of place or business that was at the destination end of the trip. This information is used by the travel demand modeler to develop trip attraction rates for various types of land use. In travel demand modeling, attractions are typically grouped into three categories — basic, retail, and service. Table 5 shows the distribution of person trips by the types of places identified in the survey for the destination end of the trip.

WHERE PEOPLE TRAVELED

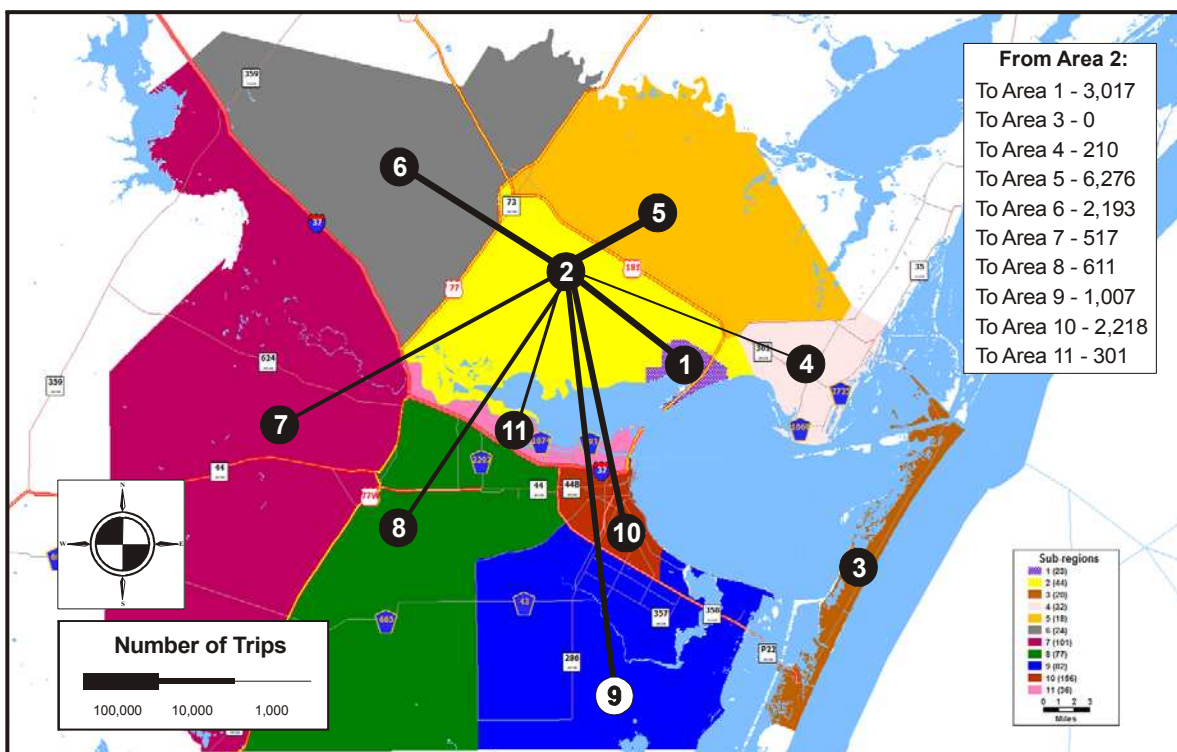

Figure 22 shows the Corpus Christi area divided into 11 sub-regions. This map is used to generally illustrate the geographic distribution of internal person trip movements within the region. Figure 23 through Figure 33 illustrate the number of person trip interchanges between each sub-region and all other sub-regions. The general amount of travel between each sub-region within the region is reflected by the width of the line between each subarea. The wider the line is indicates a greater amount of travel between the sub-regions. Figure 34, the final figure in this sequence, shows the percent person trips that remained within each sub-region.

TERMINOLOGY

Within the context of the household travel survey, a number of terms are used. These terms are defined in this section.

Person Trip – A person trip is the movement of an individual from one location to another location. In the household survey, trips were recorded for all persons in a surveyed household.

Automobile Driver Trip – An automobile driver trip is the movement of a vehicle from one location to another location. These trips are recorded for the person driving the vehicle. These are also referred to as vehicle trips.

Trip Purpose – The trip purpose is stated in terms of the purpose at the location the trip began and the purpose at the location the trip ended. For example, a trip that began at home and ended at work would be referred to as a home-based work (HBW) trip. There were 11 trip purposes used in the household survey.

Trip Activity – The trip activity is stated in terms of the activity at the location the trip began and/or the location the trip ended. There were 22 activities used in the household survey. The activities were recorded in the survey and post processed to identify the trip purpose associated with each trip activity.

Vehicle Availability – Vehicle availability is the number of vehicles available to members of a household for making trips.

Vehicle Occupancy – Vehicle occupancy is the number of occupants in a vehicle during a vehicle trip including the driver of the vehicle.

Mode of Travel – Mode of travel is the physical means used by the household member to make a trip. The modes are walk, vehicle driver, vehicle passenger, carpool driver, carpool passenger, vanpool driver, vanpool passenger, commercial vehicle driver, commercial vehicle passenger, public transportation, school bus, taxi/paid limousine, bicycle, motorcycle/moped, and other.

Home-Based Work (HBW) Trip – An HBW trip is a trip that has one end of the trip at home and the other end of the trip at work. An HBW trip is non-directional in terms of the trip activity/trip purpose, i.e., a trip from home to work or from work to home is defined as an HBW trip.

Home-Based Non-Work (HBNW) Trip – An HBNW is a trip with one end of the trip at home and the other of the trip at a location other than the work location. An HBNW trip is non-directional in terms of the trip activity/trip purpose.

Non-Home-Based (NHB) Trip – An NHB trip is a trip with neither end of the trip at home.

Trip Productions – Trip productions are the number of trips produced by members of a household. Trip productions are calculated by trip purpose and mode of travel. Production rates are the number of trip productions divided by the number of households that produced those trips.

Trip Attractions – Trip attractions are the number of trips attracted to a particular category of land use. Trip attractions are calculated by trip purpose and mode of travel for different land use categories.
