Why Choose a RESNET EnergySmart Builder?

Builders come in all shapes and sizes, with varying degrees of experience and expertise. But when it comes to energy efficient construction and installations, you need a professional who has the knowledge and training to do the job safely and effectively.

✓ Safety

When errors such as improper venting can mean illness and even death for your family, you want to know that you're working with a trained professional who knows the risks – and how to prevent them.

✓ Effectiveness

While ordinary builders know how to build ordinary houses, EnergySmart Builders know how to build energy efficient homes. They know how to use energy saving practices in various aspects of a home, from insulation to heating and cooling to air sealing and beyond.

✓ Lower Utility Bills

A more effective job done by a professional who is specially trained in energy efficiency will save more energy, saving you money on your energy bills.

✓ Peace of Mind

RESNET has implemented a third party complaint resolution process for consumers who believe that their builder has acted outside the RESNET Code of Ethics. When you work with a RESNET member, you have the confidence that RESNET is standing behind you.

About RESNET

RESNET is a non-profit organization recognized by the United States Government as a national standards-making body for the energy efficiency industry.

RESNET created the EnergySmart designation for contractors and builders in the interest of homeowner protection and safety. The EnergySmart designation sets a national standard of competence for energy efficient installations, retrofits and building projects, and includes training on industry best practices and related safety issues.
