Means of Egress

Sponsored by CALBO Training Institute

Egress and Panic a view from top to bottom; viewing emergency egress by comparing code and case study. This course runs through the structure of egress as currently outlined in the 2010 CBC then compares and contrasts human behavior as covered in current egress theory with code requirements and the case histories of egress success and failures. This course looks at the structure of the code and the organization of chapter 10 then examines human behavior under panic situations. The course is designed for those that want the fundamentals of both code related egress as well as understanding of human behavior in emergencies. There is also a focus for those that wish to develop a deeper understanding of egress design and interpretation.
