Rumisonko

South American Winds

Friday, April 24 • 8 pm

Rumisonko, a Latin American folk music ensemble, has been performing in the Washington DC area since the late 1970s. Founder Carlos Arrien began playing music of the Altiplano (high plains) with fellow Bolivian, Chilean and American college students as part of a thriving music scene centered in the Mt. Pleasant and Columbia Heights neighborhoods. The members of Rumisonko play traditional tunes and instruments of the Andes mountains. To these pre-Spanish tunes and dance forms, they have added the politically charged songs of the Nueva Canción (New Song) movement.

Rumisonko means "heart of stone" in Quechua, the language of the Andes, and the name expresses the group's belief in the enduring strength of the culture rooted there. From this ancient pre-Incan civilization come the pipes (zampoñas) and the flute (quena). Almost as old are the Argentine drum (bombo) and the charango – the mandolin-like stringed instrument traditionally made from an armadillo shell. Rounding out the current ensemble's sound are guitars, a bass, and a drum set, adding newer and contemporary influences from Latin American and elsewhere.

The performers now include a second generation – Rene Deheza and his son, Luis, and Carlos Arrien and his son, Mariano, will join Alberto Lora and Julio Saracho to perform this haunting music, which has been heard at New York's Lincoln Center, the Smithsonian Folklife Festival, DC's Latino Festival, Loyola University in New Orleans, the Takoma Park Folk Festival, FSGW's Washington Folk Festival and the Kennedy Center Millennium Stage.

So practice your huayno, bailacito and cueca, and come join us at WES Auditorium for an evening of soaring music and dance.

Admission is $15 for the general public, $10 for students to age 22, free for FSGW members, although we suggest $5 donation to help defray the increasing costs of the monthly programs. Directions to the WES Auditorium – see page 23.

Ed Trickett

The Return of the Native

Sunday, April 5 • 7:30 pm

Ed Trickett is one of the great song sharers of our time. And he's from around here – as he puts it, “I grew up near Dupont Circle back in the days when you could afford to have kids grow up near Dupont Circle.” He seeks out songs from traditions and songwriters all over the country – ballads, sea songs, love songs, and sometimes songs of no consequence whatsoever – which he performs in his distinctive tenor voice, often accompanying himself on 6- or 12-string guitar or hammered dulcimer.

He's performed with many other artists, including Anne Mayo Muir and Gordon Bok, and has appeared on A Prairie Home Companion.

In his “real” life as E.J. Trickett, Ph.D. (he teaches psychology at the University of Illinois Chicago) he doesn't get back here often enough – so take advantage of this rare chance to enjoy an urban and urbane troubadour.

$15 for FSGW Members. Free for residents of the Town of Glen Echo. $18 General Public. $10 students and children.

John Cephas 1930 - 2009

An Appreciation

Master blues guitarist, vocalist, and inspiring teacher John Cephas died Wednesday, March 4, 2009. His loss is keenly felt by the many Washington area musicians who were privileged to know him as a leader, mentor, and friend. Although John loved to play the Piedmont-style or country blues for which he was world-renowned, he was passionate about passing it on. “More than anything else,” he said, “I would like to see a revival of country blues by more young people...more people going to concerts, learning to play the music. That's why I stay in the field of traditional music. I don't want it to die.”

I first met John more than 20 years ago at Augusta Blues Week in Elkins. I knew virtually nothing about acoustic blues, but hoped to inject a bit more rhythm into my playing. I wasn't sure I was ready for his intermediate guitar class, but he encouraged me to try. On the second day, John played his version of Skip James' Special Rider, which was so haunting and beautiful and powerful it brought me to tears. At that moment, I fell in love with the blues. Over the years, I saw John at many concerts and workshops, but what I remember most fondly is his sheer joy when jamming with other musicians – experts and beginners alike – on a porch or at a barbeque or in someone's living room.

John was a central force in keeping the blues alive. He was a founder of the D.C. Blues Society, which has spurred continued interest in blues for more than two decades. He supported the Archie Edwards Blues Heritage Foundation in many ways, most memorably by conducting guitar workshops and sitting in on an occasional Saturday jam.

John received many accolades in his lifetime, mostly notably a National Heritage Fellowship (often called the “Living Treasure Award”) for his contribution to preserving American cultural heritage. He and his harmonica-playing partner Phil Wiggins performed all over the world, serving as American ambassadors through acoustic blues.

His greatest legacy is that the music he loved lives on through everyone he touched as a teacher, performer, or friend.

Donna Fletcher, Board Member
Archie Edwards Blues Heritage Foundation

Needed: A Few Generous Angels

FSGW presents traditional music and dance to a general public that's forced to stretch its arts and entertainment dollars because of the recent ups and downs (mostly downs) of the economy. We need to stretch our own organizational dollars, too. So, following the lead of many other non-profit groups, FSGW is actively seeking individuals and businesses to make tax-deductible contributions of $100 or more to support the general work of the Society, or to create one or more funds dedicated to specific types of events – a fund for Irish programs, or for blues, for Jewish events, or for songwriters' appearances, for Balkan concerts, or for flamenco. What about a fund to present National Heritage Fellows in concert, or to produce events in very public places, where we could spread the word about FSGW's work? You get the idea. We're looking for angels to help present the finest folk talent, the best dance band, the most unusual workshop. FSGW has two dedicated funds already: the David Olive & Linda Lieberman Memorial Fund (providing Getaway scholarships) and the Jonathan Eberhart Memorial Fund (for an annual concert). Think about it. If you or your business – law firm, real estate agency, restaurant, employment agency, whatever – is in a position to make a tax-deductible donation to FSGW, we'd like to hear from you. We'll thank you or your business publicly (unless you'd rather be anonymous) at the event, in the Newsletter, and online. If you'd like to help FSGW, please contact FSGW Vice President Mary Cliff at VicePresident@fsgw.org to discuss your ideas and take the first steps toward becoming an FSGW Angel.

FSGW thanks Lilli M. Vincenz for her generous contribution.

Joel Eckhaus and Ralph Shaw

Uke Can't Say We Didn't Warn You!

Saturday, April 18

Workshop at 4, Concert at 8

Joel Eckhaus and Ralph Shaw met as performers and teachers at a succession of ukulele festivals around the US and Canada, where they discovered a mutual interest in the popular music of the 1920's-1950's – particularly the music of two of history's greatest uke players, Roy Smeck and George Formby – and a shared passion for the great vocals of The Inkspots. (In 2007, at the Portland Uke Fest, they began "covering" Inkspot songs as The Whiteouts.)

Joel is from White Plains NY, and has played with a number of memorable bands, including his current group, Dos Eckies, a uke-abilly trio. He is mild-mannered and droll, and particularly fond of outrageous parodies of classic pop songs. When not performing, Joel operates Earnest Uncommon Musical Instruments, making ukuleles, mandolins, and tenor guitars. Ralph Shaw grew up in England and now lives in Vancouver. He has recorded a series of instructional DVDs for the ukulele. A "sensitive" banjo uke player with an unrestrained theatrical flair, Ralph's physical expressions and frenzied gyrations can move an audience to tears (of laughter).

A concert with Joel and Ralph includes vaudeville and music hall novelties, jazz and swing standards, rock 'n roll classics, and a healthy dose of side-splitting humor. Together, their voices, instruments, personalities, and wit combine in ways that exceed the sum of their parts and provide an evening of entertainment that could keep you smiling for days.

Joel and Ralph will also teach a 90-minute workshop for ukulele players of all skill levels,, featuring strumming techniques, songs, and instrumental styles of Roy Smeck and George Formby. The workshop will be followed by a potluck dinner and ukulele jam (if you've got one, bring it!) from 5:30-7:30, with the concert starting at 8. Light refreshments, including beer and wine, will be served. All at the home of Marv and Kathy Reitz. Info/directions, 301.670.6716 or email reitz@verizon.net.

Suggested Donation levels: Workshop only, $20; Concert only, $15; both $30.00

Sponsorship: This concert is cosponsored by the Folklore Society of Greater Washington and the Metropolitan Ukulele Association. <http://www.metroukeassoc.org/>

First Annual Jonathan Eberhart Memorial Concert

Ganga and Warner Williams & Jay Summerour

Saturday, May 2 • 8 pm

Jonathan
Eberhart

Jonathan Eberhart was a founding member of FSGW – a memorable singer and fine guitarist. As chanteyman, award-winning science writer, radio host, songwriter, active Folklore Society member and discoverer of musical talent, he was a man whose presence was felt wherever he went. When he died in 2003, he left FSGW a concert fund to continue some of the work he loved so well. The first annual Jonathan Eberhart Memorial Concert is the first in what will be a memorable series that will continue for years to come. Join us at the Washington Ethical Society to celebrate some very fine music, and the inspiring memory of a talented and generous friend.

On Saturday, May 2, please join FSGW at the Washington Ethical Society auditorium to hear two sets of performers who are well-known to regular visitors to the FSGW Washington Folk Festival, where they have been favorites for years. Ganga performs traditional music from the villages of Bengal, India. Warner Williams and Jay Summerour play Piedmont blues. Jonathan encouraged both groups to do more public performance, as he often did with musicians he discovered and nourished in his years working with the FSGW Washington Folk Festival.

This concert is free to FSGW members. More information will be posted on the fsgw website as it becomes available.

29th Annual FSGW Washington Folk Festival

Saturday, May 30 and Sunday, May 31 noon-7 pm

For over three decades the Folklore Society of Greater Washington has produced the Washington Folk Festival at Glen Echo Park. This year you will enjoy music and dance from India, Mongolia, North Africa, Ireland, Scotland, France, Israel, Brazil, Bulgaria, Guatemala, Iran, Turkey, Japan, Spain. Local craftspeople will demonstrate and sell handcrafts, and American music will be represented by blues, bluegrass, old-time stringbands and more.

In order to produce the FSGW WFF we need people with many skills. Major management positions are filled, but we need volunteers to help with a variety of other tasks before, during and after the FSGW WFF. If you have skills in volunteer coordination, publicity, web page design, database design and administration, fund raising, food preparation, sound engineering, or festival management, we'd love to hear from you. Please use the form below, or sign up on the web at fsgw.org/wff/volunteersignup.php, or call Dean Clamons at 703.641.9655 (dclamons@cox.net) or Volunteer Coordinator Linda Goodman at 301.656.1627.

Volunteers are usually scheduled in two-hour shifts, but you can work as many blocks as you'd like. Tell us about your talents and interests, and we'll find a place for you!
