AUTHORITY

Colorado Revised Statute (C.R.S.) § 25-20.5-101 directs, among other things, the coordination of prevention, intervention and treatment services to improve the health and well being of children, youth and families in Colorado. In accordance with C.R.S. § 25-20.5-105, a state plan to coordinate prevention, intervention and treatment programs managed by state departments is required to be reviewed and revised every two years to ensure collaboration among programs for the provision of a continuum of services for children and youth in the state.

A revised State Plan for Prevention, Intervention and Treatment Services for Children and Youth, 2006-2009, was submitted to Governor Bill Ritter, Jr., who signed the State Plan on March 17, 2008. Among the benchmarks of this State Plan is the formalization of the relationship among state-level collaborative groups, state advisory councils and statutory groups that address children and youth issues, in particular behavioral health issues.

In addition, in accordance with C.R.S. § 25-20.5-107, the Executive Directors of four State Departments (Human Services, Public Health, Public Safety and Transportation) and the Commissioner of Education each signed a Memoranda of Understanding that includes a commitment to implementing the Colorado LINKS for Mental Health's Children and Youth Behavioral Health Action Plan.

PURPOSE

The purpose of this Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) is to establish a formal relationship and a formal line of communication between Colorado LINKS for Mental Health, an interagency collaborative group, and the [insert name of the group]. Through this MOA the Colorado LINKS for Mental Health and the [insert name] acknowledge the common areas of focus of each group in regard to these goals of the Colorado LINKS for Mental Health's Children and Youth Behavioral Health Action Plan:

- integrating behavioral health efforts to better meet the needs of children and youth;
- partnering with families and youth in statewide policy efforts; and
- identifying and building support for innovative strategies for budget, funding and financing of children and youth behavioral health programs and services.

For purposes of this MOA, behavioral health is defined as encompassing both mental health and substance use (use, abuse, and dependence/addiction) disorders, and developmental disabilities.

The mission of Colorado LINKS for Mental Health is to promote partnerships among state agencies and key stakeholder groups by weaving together existing efforts to create a more coordinated continuum of behavioral health services for Colorado children, youth, and families.

The mission/statutory duty of the [insert name of group] is [insert mission/statutory duty; add any specific aspects related to behavioral health priorities].

OBJECTIVES

With the above stated purpose, this MOA identifies the following joint objectives:

- Integrating Behavioral Health Efforts to Better Meet the Needs of Children and Youth
 - Streamline practices across state agencies and increase interdepartmental coordination.
 - Help local communities develop specific integrative practices and engage non-traditional partners
- Partnering with Families and Youth in Statewide Policy Efforts
 - Ensure consistent and institutionalized participation of families and youth on state and local boards.
- Identifying and Building Support for Innovative Strategies for Budget, Funding and Financing
 - Reform budget, funding and finance practices in order to develop long-term, consistent and flexible funding streams.

SHARED VALUES AND PRINCIPLES

Many young children with social, emotional and behavioral challenges have complex needs and may be involved with multiple public systems. Behavioral health challenges in children can be recognized and successfully treated by communities, professionals and families working together in constructing a networked array of community-based services and supports, and by developing partnerships at the service delivery and policy levels.

In order to better align policy level and service delivery level efforts in the State of Colorado, the following values and principles serve as a common guide and foundation for jointly creating a more coordinated, integrated continuum of behavioral health services for Colorado children, youth and families. These values and principles describe essential aspects of community-based systems that serve children youth and families, which Colorado LINKS for Mental Health and [name of group] support through their work and in making decisions, formulating recommendations, and determining policies and strategies.

Values

1. A system of care is child/youth-centered and family-focused, with the needs of the child, youth and family dictating the types and mix of services provided.
2. A system of care is community-based, with the locus of services as well as management and decision-making responsibility resting at the community level.
3. A system of care is culturally competent, with agencies, programs, and services that are responsive to the cultural differences, including racial, ethnic, gender, age, sexual orientation, socio-economic, spiritual (religious), and geographic differences of the population.

Principles

1. Persistent Commitment to Families, Youth & Children. Colorado and its communities make a commitment to the fundamental rights of every child, youth and family to achieve and maintain permanence in home, school and/or community and stability of support in a safe environment.
2. Safety (Child, Youth, Family, and Community). Services and supports are developed and implemented to best ensure the safety of the child, youth, family, and community.
3. Child/Youth-centered. Services and supports are provided in the best interest of the child or youth to ensure that the child's or youth's needs are being addressed.
4. Family-focused. The child or youth is viewed as a part of the whole family. System, services and supports are based on the strengths and needs of the entire family. Children, youth and their families shall participate in discussions related to their plans, have opportunities to voice their preferences and ultimately feel that they own and drive the plan.
5. Individualized. Plans and supports for children, youth and their families are tailored to the unique culture, beliefs and values, strengths, and needs of each child, youth and family. Funding sources must be flexible to support individualization.
6. Culturally Responsive. The system of care is culturally competent, with systems, agencies, programs, and services that are responsive to the cultural differences, including racial, ethnic, gender, age, sexual orientation, socio-economic, spiritual (religious), and geographic differences at the system and individual child, youth and family levels.
7. Strengths-based. Assessments, services and supports are based on identified strengths of the child, youth, family, and community.
8. Early Access. Services and supports should have a prevention and early intervention focus to facilitate wellness for the child, youth, and family.
9. Community-based. Services and supports are provided in the most appropriate and least restrictive environment and in the home community of the child, youth and family. A system of care is community oriented with the location of services, management and decision-making responsibility resting at the community level.

10. Natural Supports. Children, youth, and families are supported by family and community social networks and community resources (e.g., service organizations, faith based organizations and businesses). Services build on and strengthen these natural supports.
11. Collaborative. Collaboration between agencies, schools, community resources, youth and families is the basis for building and financing a local comprehensive and integrated system of care that supports easy access to needed services and supports for children, youth, and families.
12. Family, Youth, and Professional Partnership. Family and youth are partners with professionals at all levels of assessment, planning, implementation and governance of a system of care.
13. Outcome-based and Cost Responsible. Services and supports are outcome based with clear accountability and cost responsibility. The system values and funds outcome and quality management. This accountability includes prudent and effective use of public and private funds. As communities find ways to reduce the use of restrictive care the funding is retained in the community and reinvested in the prevention and early intervention that has made these improvements possible.
14. Transition. Children and youth should be ensured smooth transitions through all major changes in their lives.
