Spring is a time of renewal. The MALT executive has been busily planning elections and the MALT AGM, as well as contributing to Manitoba Libraries Conference 2010. We have also been discussing ways to improve our organization, and are excited about the future of MALT. We hope to hear from many of you over the next few months.

MALT election nominations are open until April 12. We are seeking nominations for the following positions on the MALT executive: President, Vice President, Newsletter Editor, Secretary, Treasurer, and Website Designer. We welcome nominations from library technicians or support staff working in libraries across Manitoba, and can easily include executive members from rural areas by teleconference.

If you are interested, please send your name, contact information, and a brief biography to malt_info@yahoo.com.

The MALT AGM will be held at the Delta Hotel on May 17. Refreshments will be served at 4:30, and the meeting will be held from 5:00 – 6:00 p.m. Although the AGM is scheduled in conjunction with Manitoba Libraries Conference 2010, you do not have to be registered for the conference to attend the AGM.

The AGM is an opportunity to meet other MALT members, speak up about the organization, and exercise your voting rights. We will be electing several executive members and discussing changes to our constitution. The 2009-2010 MALT executive will also be giving reports on our activities for the past term.

Please join us for our AGM. There will be tasty snacks and door prizes – and the AGM is conveniently scheduled before the conference Pub Crawl!

Tech Toolbox – CanLII by Jodi Turner

You are not a lawyer, but do you get asked legal questions?

CanLII (Canadian Legal Information Institute, <http://www.canlii.org>) is a legal resource created by the Federation of Law Societies. Part of its mandate is to provide the public with permanent open access to the legal heritage of all Canadian jurisdictions. What does this mean to you? CanLII is a great source for free case law from all Canadian jurisdictions. It allows you to search for judgments from all levels of Canadian courts, and decisions from boards and tribunals, like the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal and the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada. CanLII lets you see which decisions and legislation your decision cites, and also allows you to see what decisions have considered yours (known as "noting up.") Prior to the creation of CanLII this information was only available from expensive proprietary subscription services. CanLII also included the legislation from all of the provinces and territories. It has a point-in-time feature, which will show the law as it looked on a specific day. This is a very handy feature when searching for legislation that has been amended.

As with all services, there are some drawbacks to CanLII. In terms of legal research, it is a relative newcomer to the game. While its technology is great, it lacks a historical depth that some of its more seasoned competitors provide. Users can reliably find content back to 2000. Pre-2000 materials are spotty, and there is nothing from before 1990.

There are LIIs for other jurisdictions, including the United States (<http://www.law.cornell.edu/>) Australia (<http://www.austlii.edu.au/>), and Great Britain and Ireland <http://www.bailii.org/>.

SESSION THEME: Shopping Around: Library Software Applications and Selection

Speaker: Joseph R. Matthews, J. Matthews & Associates, Inc.

Attended by: Rae Porrior

Date/Time: Thursday, June 13, 1985 □1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Held: Canadian Library Association, Calgary, Alberta

The session was thoroughly informative. My main purposes was to discover whether there were any programs available for use on a microcomputer in the field of cataloguing and of which would produce cards using an Apple II system. The session did focus on what was available on the market for many library applications. Mr. Matthew handed out two documents of which I

He started by outlining the criteria of how a library could define its need for selecting microcomputer software: 1. What are my needs?, 2. What do you do frequently?, 3. Write down your tasks, 4. Check out vendors., 5. Use evaluation methods to evaluate products, evaluate software and evaluate hardware., 6. Contract of vendor., 7. Select hardware., & 8. Implement programs.

who want to automate use a consultant who knows about the availability of microcomp consultant services in the United States. He admitted that he was not fully aware of all services available in Canada and that while he was a guest speaker attending the Canadian Library Association Conference, he is taking two months to investigate and visit key companies in Canada to lean about the products available in this country. He stated that there were implications of micros whereby consultants have recommended in their reports for libraries:

1. Limited storage space.
2. Speed is not important.
3. Activity small and relatively simple.
4. In medium size institutions, one or two microcomputers were sufficient.
5. Local problem or need felt to have a microcomputer.
6. Software availability is a new field for microcomputers.
7. Libraries have limited funds.
8. Some needs have low visibility.

He talked about systems and applications while at the same time referring to Table V on about the various systems and which system was good or bad; costly, its limitations, etc.
