Questions:

6. What did Charlotte mean in Chapter 13 when she said, "And yet I had to climb. This was my restitution". (You may look up the word "restitution" if you need to).

7. In chapter 13, the author tries to get you to appreciate the height and the danger involved in Charlotte's task. To do this he must compare the climb to something you are more familiar with. Therefore, he uses a lot of similes, which are comparisons that use the words "like" or "as". Find and write TWO similes from chapter 13 and explain what each one means.
