The Santa Rosa Reader

The Santa Rosa Reader, published by SCMA, is a personal anthology from the Santa Rosa Family Medicine Residency by Dr. Rick Flinders, a family physician who trained at the residency and later became its director. The anthology includes essays, histories, journals and reflections from Dr. Flinders' long career in one of the preeminent family medicine residency programs in the United States.

"The writings for this book span over forty years," notes Dr. Flinders in the introduction, "and provide temporal landmarks in the history of our specialty. Mostly they offer glimpses into the extraordinary process of training, teaching and becoming family physicians."
