

WELCOME MESSAGE

Dear Colleagues

The objectives for this annual independence conference are to highlight the types of violence in the society that appear to be on the increase, their impact on specific groups and the drain on the nation's health resources.

We will continue to look at chronic pain. The family physician's perspective on chronic back pain was given at the May, 2007 UWI/BAMP CME. We will see that the management of chronic pain may have to involve a cadre of specialists. This interesting session of the conference will be on Sunday, in collaboration with the Anaesthetic Department of the Queen Elizabeth Hospital and will include a scientific session. We will even be looking at establishing a Core Committee for management of chronic pain.

There will also be an open forum on pain and sickle cell disease.

You will agree the themes of this CME are relevant to all. The faculty includes local, regional and international renowned speakers.

Please make an effort to attend.

Patsy Prussia
CME Coordinator
