PRESENTER

WILLIAM CONE, PhD, is a licensed psychologist with a clinical practice focus in geriatric services. His practice includes conducting assessments, testing and evaluation, and creating treatment plans for elderly individuals with psychiatric problems. Dr. Cone conducts training programs and case management consultation for the staffs of geropsychiatric hospitals, home health agencies, retirement homes, assisted living facilities, day treatment programs, skilled nursing facilities and board and care homes.

Nationally known for his work on memory and the causes of memory disorders, Dr. Cone is an author of five books including the top selling Stop Memory Loss!: How to Fight Forgetfulness Over Forty and Caregivers Bible: Managing Behavior Problems in the Elderly, a book for professional caregivers of the aged. The Caregivers Bible has recently been adopted as the source of training for all Area on Aging staff in the California Department of Aging. These excellent books will be available for review and purchase at the program.

Dr. Cone earned his PhD in clinical psychology and is a member of numerous organizations including the International Psychogeriatrics Association, the American Society on Aging, the Gerontological Society of America, the National Academy of Neuropsychologists, and the American Medical Writers Association.

Psychologists, social workers, nurses, case managers, counselors and health care administrators attending Dr. Cone's presentations have consistently given him the highest possible ratings.

PURPOSE & OBJECTIVES

The explosive growth of older people in our society has been accompanied by a need for health care professionals, especially mental health professionals, who are familiar with the unique problems and challenges facing this population. Effective treatment in the aged requires an understanding of the interplay between the aging body, the aging brain, and psychological well being.

The purpose of this program is to provide attendees with knowledge, tools, and techniques that will enable them to deliver high quality health treatment to older adults. They will gain the skills necessary for the complex process of assessment and intervention, including medical, psychological, environmental, and interpersonal issues, and will be able to apply this knowledge to the diagnosis and treatment of elderly clients.

At the conclusion of this activity, the learner will have the knowledge required to:

- ❖ Assess the mental and emotional status of elderly clients.
- ❖ Discuss the multiple effects of aging on mental health.
- ❖ Differentiate between depression and dementia.
- ❖ Describe treatments and interventions for behavioral and emotional difficulties.

CUTTING EDGE PRESENTERS AND TOPICS IN EXOTIC LOCATIONS

Hawaii in March or Alaska in July: John M. Ortiz, Ph.D., is presenting two days packed with information on both assessment and intervention of Asperger's Syndrome, Non-verbal Learning Disorders and High-functioning Autism.

This workshop reflects ongoing research and clinical findings involving these populations and draws from multi-therapeutic and multi-modal disciplines.

CAN'T GET AWAY IN MARCH or JULY?

Hawaii in May: David A. Jobes, Ph.D, ABPP, is presenting an intensive, one-day, suicide-specific program. Dr. Jobes offers practical information, excellent case examples, and is an exceptional therapist role model.
