School welcomes new Head Teacher

The new Head of Youlgrave Primary School, Chris Watts, begins work later this month, and he says that he can't wait to get started.

Following the retirement of Shaun Snow after 20 years at the helm, Chris Watts brings a fresh and distinctly youthful leadership to the school. A 37-year-old married man, he currently teaches at a large primary school in Macclesfield, where amongst other things he oversees Numeracy and ITC development, and was previously Special Needs Co-ordinator. Chris was born in Salford and studied at the University of Sheffield, after which he taught in Shropshire and at Watford.

One of the attractions of Youlgrave, he says, is that not only is it a lovely village but there is also a strong community spirit. "I'm looking forward to getting involved, and as a working Head with a small number of children I want to develop strong personal links."

When he's not teaching, Chris enjoys walking, cycling and music (he says he plays the guitar – a little!). He has also just qualified as a Peak National Park voluntary ranger, so there will be some busy months ahead.

Bugle letters: what's in a name?

Dear Sir,

I was interested in the article in the March Bugle about the correct spelling of the village's name. The Domesday Book spelling – 'Giolgrave' – bears the hallmark of a Norman scribe. The initial 'y' sound did not exist in Norman French, so the scribe had to use a substitute for words beginning with that sound, often using a 'j', but in this case using 'gi'. Later recorded spellings for the village name are 'Jalgrave', and 'Yolegreve', both quoted in Kenneth Cameron's 'The Place Names of Derbyshire' (1959).

The second element in the place name, 'greave' or 'grave' has often been taken to mean 'grove', from the Anglo-Saxon 'graefe'. However it is usually noted that there is another similar Anglo-Saxon word, 'graef', meaning 'pit', and related to the modern word, 'grave'.

The element 'greave' appears in other nearby place names – 'Orgreave' and 'Bedgreave' (near Sheffield), 'Allgreave' (near Leek) and nearer still, 'Congreave'. 'Smallgreve' has also been recorded in this area in an unpublished document belonging to a local landowner, the Duke of Rutland at Belvoir Castle. A common link in all these places is the presence of mining or quarrying from an early date. It seems more than likely then that the village's name means something like 'yellow pit', yellow perhaps referring to the soil colour around lead ore veins.

I would be interested to hear anyone else's theories about the place name, and also how the word is pronounced, and how was it pronounced fifty years ago?

Yours,
David Sissons

There's always plenty of teaching preparation before any new term, and for a brand new Head Teacher, Chris will have a lot of forms and charts to wade through before term starts at the end of the month.

He says it's too early to talk about specific goals or initiatives for Youlgrave School, but he has some firm ideas on how he sees the school fitting in. "I want to maintain and develop the school as a central part of the community and parish," he says, "building on the strong family spirit that is already in place here." Likewise, he wants to be actively involved, not just in the day to day running of the school, but also in the actual teaching. "Above all, I don't want to lose contact with the children," he says. "I entered teaching to teach, and that's what I aim to do, even as a Head."

As ITC Co-ordinator at his present school, he is also very keen to use modern, technological equipment as part of everyday learning. "We must ensure that we make good use of modern technology to bring the outside world closer to Youlgrave," he says.

JW Shimwell

The death of JW (Bill) Shimwell on 4 March 2003 at the age of 87 years is a sad loss to Youlgrave. His knowledge of local history and wild flowers was second to none and his enthusiasm for village life in all its variety was catching.

As a teacher at Youlgrave Primary School for 31 years, he encouraged generations of children not only in the 3 Rs but in sport and local and natural history. The annual wildflower collection was a highlight in the school year for parents and children alike.

After his retirement in 1979 he kept himself busy with his pigeons, files of local history and in caring for his wife Marjorie.

If any question of local history arose, the immediate thought was to 'ask Bill'. Invariably he came up with the answer, together with various snippets of associated information usually in the form of amusing anecdotes. Some of these were printed in the Bugle and it is hoped that his extensive archive will be used in future publications.

As new comers to the village in 1978, it was our very good fortune to have Bill and Marjorie as our neighbours. Our children benefitted greatly from Bill's teaching and he followed their subsequent careers with interest.

Middleton Well Dressing and Village Market

Dear Sir,

It is with immense sadness that I heard of the passing of Bill Shimwell.

He instilled in us a lifelong love for this ancient village, its history, folklore and wildlife, and in particular his love for the rich diversity of local wild flowers. Indeed, many of us today take our grandchildren, nieces and nephews for walks along well-walked paths and still remember the names of all the flowers en route, pointing out different species on riverbank and in laneside hedgerows.

Birds were another of his passions – and pigeons. He was always winning trophies from the Pigeon Club.

He taught us respect for the old, the frail and vulnerable, and also for the churchyard, in which we never played or hung around.

Our Green Jewel

One of the glories of Youlgrave is the Bowls Club crown green. There cannot be another in the country that offers such a beautiful view, overlooking River Bradford and the hills beyond.

Yet a surprising number of residents have never been to the bottom of the playing field to see it!

Many assume that the Club is of fairly recent foundation. In fact, the green dates from before the last war. Reopened in the early '70s, a clubhouse was added in 2000, with help from the National Lottery. Now, 60 members have nine teams in five leagues – and their standard is high: "One of the best clubs in North Derbyshire," Secretary Peter Rowland claims. But it's not all leagues. In spite of the heavy fixture lists there's plenty of time for practice and friendly games.

Bowls is fast losing its reputation as an old person's game, though the exercise is undoubtedly

He was our true local historian – all those slide shows and talks at the British Legion Club. He was very modest but always proud of being 'home-grown', for in his heart there was nowhere like 'Pommie'.

The lads, now in their fifties, still bring out their school football medals with pride, and the photographs of the team with JW Shimwell in their midst.

"You never forget a good teacher" says the TV advert. We shall never forget JW Shimwell. We owe him a tremendous debt of gratitude, for he is irreplaceable... for there was more 'magic' in JW Shimwell's lessons than was ever to be found in any Hogwarts Academy!

In deep sadness and with utmost respect, beneficial for complaining joints. No, there's skill involved that an increasing number of youngsters appreciate.

Fees for the local club are reasonable: ladies and gentlemen £30; new members and senior citizens £20; and £5 for non-playing members.

As Peter says, that's not bad for all your bowling from March to September.

So join early and avoid the rush! More details are available from Peter on 636467 or p.rowland@youl.freeserve.co.uk.

New-look Hollands

Recent changes to Hollands Butchers on Church Street, Youlgrave, have affected more than just the interior layout. Take-away hot drinks are now available, thanks to the introduction of a smart new coffee machine, serving the likes of cappuccino, espresso, latte and mocha, as well as speciality Twinings tea. David Figg told the Bugle that it was partly in response to the number of visitors asking for food and drink when the pubs are closed, but he also hoped that local people would enjoy a reasonably-priced take-away cup of quality tea or coffee. The service complements the range of made-to-order filled cobs and sandwiches. In addition, the shop will now stay open longer. From Monday to Friday it will open between 7am and 5.30pm, and on Saturdays the extended hours are from 7am to 4pm. In addition, Hollands will remain open during lunchtimes.

Rainbows recruiting

Youlgrave Rainbows are looking for new members to join their friendly local group. Rainbows are the youngest members of the Guide association, and most of the girls are between 5 and 7 years old. The Youlgrave unit meets every week after school and enjoys all sorts of fun activities, from games and drawing to singing and storytelling. For more details contact Rainbow Guider Louise Hancock on 0781 7978616.

Youlgrave car break-ins

Thieves have been targeting cars in a number of neighbouring villages, and last month they struck in Youlgrave when five cars were broken into over the course of just one night. The message from the Police and Neighbourhood Watch is remove all valuables from your vehicle when you're not in it (including anything that might simply look tempting), and make sure to lock your car during the day as well as overnight!

DISTRICT AND PARISH COUNCIL ELECTIONS

Both will be held on Thursday 1 May. Monyash joins Youlgrave's ward this time, while Over Haddon leaves us for Bakewell. We look forward to some spirited campaigning and welcome Monyash to the new 'Lathkill and Beyond' ward.

Parish Council elections are also taking place the same day.

In the last local election the turn-out in the Derbyshire Dales was an impressive 46%, but you needed to have registered your name by 11 March, otherwise you will be ineligible to vote.

For information on the electoral register for future elections, call 01629 761267, or email electoral@derbyshiredales.gov.uk.

New era for Middleton Welldressing

The day that Middleton's founder welldressers Mary Marsh and Jean Youatt hang up their organisers' hats is finally upon us, after 25 years of very successful work.

When Diane Kettle bravely put her name forward to take over, she was more than a little worried that she would have trouble finding enough of a team to carry on with the traditional craft. By the time the first planning meeting came round, although there were no new faces, she was very pleased that all of the regular stalwarts had come along to support her.

at Middleton if they want get to know other villagers. We often get the feeling that perhaps newcomers feel the invitation isn't aimed at them but nothing could be further from the truth.

Dressing the clayed boards begins on Monday 19 May, but the work doesn't start and end at that. A week earlier, Saturday 10 May, the boards need to be put in the river to soak, coming back into the playground a week later for the messy job of claying. There are notices that need placing at the major road junctions leading to the village

It's not all work around the boards at Middleton . . .

The work involved in putting the welldressing together is very tough if numbers are few so new welldressers are, as ever, desperately needed. As well as being a very rewarding and creative process to be involved in, it is a great way of meeting people. Anyone new to the village could do a lot worse than come along to the open shed in the playground and Middleton also has its unique dressed arrows, which the children of the village complete as their apprenticeship to the main board. Work on these will also start on Monday 19 May and all willing trainees will be very welcome.

Then, after the welldressing has been finished, (hopefully not too late on Friday night!) the boards need putting up – an early start on Saturday 24 May – ready for Middleton's big day, the Village Market.

Plans are well in hand for another bumper day as the new Entertainments Committee puts on its first Village Market. Robert Wigley, chair, tells me that there will be most of the old favourite stalls but in the interests of variety, also the opportunity for new stallholders, who should contact Robert (tel. 636229) or other Village Hall Committee members for details. Are congestion charges the answer to Youlgrave's traffic problem?

The introduction of London-style congestion charges is being considered in a bid to solve Youlgrave's traffic and parking problems.

In the radical new proposals, the Parish Council is looking to charge motorists for entering the village, with special dispensations for residents and local business users.

Speaking on 1 April, Parish Councillor Bob Sleight told the Bugle that the outline plans for Youlgrave would be closely modelled on the successful scheme in London. "We are looking at the possibility of charging motorists 50p per day for entering the village, with a reduced fee of 20p for residents and business users such as delivery vans, tractors, buses, and so on."

However, he went on to say that because of the Council's limited funds they wouldn't be able to afford vehicle licence plate recognition cameras. Instead, Councillors would take turns on the proposed road barriers at Alport and Coldwell End, stopping traffic and taking money. Planning applications for two decorative tollbooths are to be submitted.

In order to determine the authenticity of residents and those staying in the village, car drivers may be asked a few simple questions, such as the correct spelling of the village name, or identifying Youlgrave's local nickname.

"I know this move may upset a few people," Cllr Sleight admitted, "but with the traffic and parking problem getting worse in rural areas of the Peak District we feel that as a progressive village Pommie should take the lead. There is no doubt in my mind that the County Council's so-called 'Quiet Lanes' initiative will be greatly enhanced by banning outside traffic altogether, and hopefully this will be the start. Who knows – we might eventually make enough money to resurface the main street ourselves!"

Derbyshire County Council and the National Park authority were both unavailable for comment.

Rural Broadband – coming to a computer near you . . . ?

Did you know that in order to get BT to upgrade our telephone exchange so that broadband can be received, we only need 285 people to register an interest? Broadband allows you to download and upload information from the Internet up to twenty times faster than a normal phone line connection. In addition, you can use your telephone at the same time as you are using the Internet.

This will not only allow the people of Youlgrave, Middleton, Alport and Stanton but also the schools and community halls to have much better access to the Internet.

If you already have an Internet connection and are able to access the Internet all the time then you will be paying around £15 a month for the Internet and £10 a month for your BT line (total £25). If you have a dedicated BT line for Internet use only, then you will be paying a further £10 a month (total £35). Broadband is around £25 a month in addition to your £10 BT line charge (total £35).

Obviously from an Internet point of view, the benefits are endless and in some cases for no extra charge.

Robert Roper

NB The savings quoted are calculated on the basis that users pay for their Internet calls (the telephone call made by the computer to Internet Service Provider (ISP)) by subscription or 'flat rate' - something around £15 and no further charges for Internet calls.

In fact, I suspect that most users pay for Internet calls on a 'pay as you go' basis, ie 1p a minute evenings and weekends and 3p at peak times. Therefore, the amount saved on calls will only be significant for heavy users and those paying the 'flat rate'.

Also the cost of a Broadband (ADSL) modem needs to be taken into account (about £100) and a connection fee of about £35.

I made enquiries of BT regarding the upgrade of the Youlgrave exchange to ADSL. The 'trigger point' has not been set and that the number can actually be anywhere between 200 and 800.

Although the statement from BT regarding our exchange is: "It is unlikely there will be enough demand to cover the cost of upgrading . . . we will continue to monitor the number of people registering." the message their PR department gave was to keep registering. A list of ISPs offering registration can be found at www.bt.com/broadband. Please, if you think you might benefit from a faster connection, visit the site and register your interest – it would be an interesting concept if sleepy Middleton could get Broadband when it doesn't even get mains gas!!

Walter Knowles retrospective

We are arranging a retrospective exhibition of paintings by Walter Knowles, who died exactly a year ago. It will coincide with the well dressing weekend and be at the top chapel, where Walter held his exhibitions in well dressing weeks for so many years.

The exhibition will include some pictures for sale – pictures that were in Walter's studio when he died. But we are hoping that many people in the village, and beyond, will be prepared to lend pictures they have bought or been given, so that we have a good show of pictures painted over many years and in different media. We would like to celebrate Walter's talent and enthusiasm properly by showing as wide a range of his work as possible. We think that many visitors to the village at well dressing time will remember Walter's exhibitions and be delighted to see evidence that we value his work and his memory.

So that we know how many pictures to expect, we should be grateful if people who are prepared to lend pictures for the exhibition would contact us. Where possible, we would like to know the subject-matter of the pictures and when you acquired them so that, if they don't have a date on them, we have some idea when they are likely to have been painted. Please contact any of the organisers – details are given below.

If you have more distant friends or relations who you know have pictures of Walter's, could you possibly encourage them to return the pictures to the village for the well dressing weekend, so that they can hang alongside pictures that have remained here?

We will be supervising the exhibition personally and will take great care with any pictures you are kind enough to lend.

We are looking forward to hearing from you.

WI's spring clean for a worthy cause

There was a good attendance for the March meeting of the WI when we were guided through the business by Jennifer, as usual, well assisted by Margaret and Marjorie.

The minutes of the last meeting were read, approved and signed, and Margaret gave a very good report on the DFWI Spring Council Meeting at Buxton on the 4th of the month. Order forms were brought for us to take part in the DFWI Bulb Scheme, and so aid Federation funds, and we also received special pouches into which to put our old, unwanted or odd pieces of jewellery to help the National Heart Research Fund. We shall all be going through our trinket boxes in our general spring clean to help with a worthy cause.

The usual lists were circulated for various trips to be organised: a suggested walk and luncheon on 25 April, and the Group Social Evening on 30 April at Monyash. There is to be a DFWI Spring Walk at Carsington Water on the 10 May, and a farm visit at Wessington on the 12 July.

The speaker for the evening was Sheila Allen, who gave a comprehensive talk on rural transport in North Staffordshire/West Derbyshire. We do use Bakewell and Eyam Transport for some of our trips, but we were not aware that there are other benefits available – such as an 8-seater minibus with a tail lift suitable for a family with a wheel chair user. There is a 'Bike-Bus' centred in Stoke, which enables people to come into the beautiful countryside and cycle for the day, and be transported back home to Stoke.

Next month we meet on the 8th, and the speaker is Nancy Hawksworth on cookery. Do come along for some new ideas.
