

Long Island Library Resources Council Presents:
MEDICAL LIBRARY ASSOCIATION'S eLEARNING WEBINAR

Librarians Collaborating to Produce Systematic Reviews: Project Launch to Publication

Farmingdale State College, Greenley Library

Friday, May 2, 2014

2:00PM- 3:30PM

What is a systematic review? What are the practice guidelines? How do I negotiate my contribution? Join our panel of speakers as they discuss what is really needed and resources for improving your skills. They will tackle these issues and discuss opportunities for librarians to be part of the team.

Webinar Agenda:

Part I: Introduction

Part II: What is a "systematic review" and what is really needed?

Part III: Opportunity for Librarians to be Team Members

Part IV: The systematic review toolbox

Part V: Conclusion: Final thought from each speaker

Panelists:

- Mark Berendsen, research librarian at Galter Health Sciences Library, Feinberg School of Medicine, Northwestern University, Chicago, IL.
- Sarah Jewell, reference librarian at the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center (MSK) Library.
- Joey Nicholson, population health librarian and coordinator for systematic review services at New York University (NYU) Langone Medical Center
- Shandra Protzko, AHIP, director of Library and Knowledge Services at National Jewish Health in Denver, Colorado.

1.5 Medical Library Association (MLA) continuing education (CE) hours will be awarded to all attendees.
