The UK Domestic Luminaires market is defined as consisting of the following products:-

- Floorstanding Luminaires – to include all forms of luminaire which are self supporting.
- Table / Desk Lamps
- Wall / Ceiling / Track / Spotlights
- Lamp Shades / Uplighters / Pendants / Chandeliers etc
- Security & External / Garden Lighting

The market definitions exclude any labour element associated with installation and relate to product prices only at 'factory gate' or manufacturers' selling prices (msp), excluding all VAT and other taxes.

Portable or battery powered lighting such as torches, lanterns etc are excluded, and products designed for use primarily in the automotive sector are also excluded.

The figures provided in this report cover a wide range of products and as such there are considerable complexities in term of market quantification. Whilst we have provided market sizes between 2007-2017 for each of the above key product sectors, these should be regarded as estimates.

As with most market definitions, there is a degree of overlap in terms of the above definitions and whilst we have made every effort to avoid double counting, the market values provided should be regarded as estimates.

As illustrated in the above chart, our estimates are that the domestic luminaires sector is currently valued at around £xx million in 2013, with these products accounting for around x% of the total UK lighting market in value terms.

3.6 UK LED Lighting Market 2007-2017

3.6.1 LED Lighting Market Definition

Product development and advancements in LED technology for lighting applications has resulted in a fundamental shake-up of the UK lighting industry in recent years. Development in terms of greater efficacy and performance levels has continued to present a growing threat to the more traditional lighting market, with the number of applications for LED lighting growing rapidly in recent years.

For the purposes of this report, the LED lighting market is defined as consisting of the following key product sectors designed for use within both domestic and non-domestic end use applications:-

- LED Light Engines – A combination of one or more LED modules with associated electronic control gear (ECG), also known as an LED driver.
- LED Modules - An LED module contains one or more LEDs, together with further components, but excluding the ECG.
- LED Lamps – Diodes consisting of semiconductor wafer material whereby electrons emit light (electroluminescence) when excited by electricity.
- LED Luminaires – A combination of a module or a light engine with control gear to form a lighting system. The luminaire also defines the optical system in conjunction with the light source and can also function as a heat sink.
- ECGs for LED Modules – Electronic control gear which supplies an electronically stabilised voltage and may also incorporate intelligent control functions, energy monitoring, LED light management (e.g. during dimming), may include mechanisms for protection against overload, short circuit and over-temperature.

As illustrated above, there are a number of overlaps in terms of product definition which renders market quantification of this sector particularly complex. Whilst we endeavour to ascertain as accurate a depiction of the market as possible, the following market sizes should be treated with a degree of caution.

3.6.2 LED Lighting Market Sales & Trends 2007-2017 £M

The following chart illustrates the total LED lighting market in the UK since 2007 with forecasts to 2017 (figures changed in sample):-

As illustrated above, sales of LED lighting have exhibited a rapid increase in the last 6 years. In 2013, our estimates are that sales of LED products will increase by more than 60%, reflecting the rapid change evident in the UK lighting industry at present.

LED products have led to a focus on LED products being used for a wide range of applications in the UK lighting market. Representing a key sector of the industry, the number of LED lighting suppliers from a manufacturing background has increased rapidly in recent years, bringing about a significant change to the UK lighting market.

Sustained growth in the LED sector will continue to drive the market forward, with these products being used in a wide range of applications and leisure buildings for both commercial and public use as well as in residential settings. This growth is driven by the benefits in terms of energy efficiency, long life expectancy, and low maintenance requirements, which are highly valued by both commercial and residential end users.

3.6.1 LED Lamps, Modules & Engines Market Trends

LED Lamp Trends 2013-2017

There are a large and growing number of LED lamps available in the UK, with the most common types identified below:-

- General/Reflector LED Lamps – retrofit lamps available in a variety of shapes and sizes suitable for direct replacement of incandescent and halogen lamps.
- LED Miniature Lamps – Miniature LED lamps designed to replace incandescents; suitable for industry use due to shockproof qualities.

- LED Exit / Emergency Lighting – LEDs used in emergency signage applications across a broad range of sectors with lamp life of up to 100,000 hours & low energy consumption.
- Decorative LED Lighting – Accent, Outdoor, string / tape / strips, linear, seasonal, tubular etc LEDs designed for decorative use in a wide range of applications.
- LED Accessories – e.g cord, male plugs, female receipts, tape joining cables, power leads etc

7. Independent Lighting Retailers Company Rankings

7.1 Introduction to the Rankings

The following section ranks the companies identified in the previous chapter by various key financial indicators. It should be noted that each company will have varying degrees of activity within this sector and will include an element of variation in terms of product and service portfolio.

Where possible, we have used the financial information reported by each company. However, for small and medium sized companies reporting obligations are less strict and these companies are not obliged to disclose turnover, profit before tax and other information such as number of employees etc. Where this data does not exist, MTW have provided an estimate based on previous performance, industry averages, other financial indicators and background knowledge of the industry.

Whilst we endeavour to attain high levels of accuracy, it should be borne in mind, therefore, that the rankings and other information provided within this report may contain an element of estimation and inclusion or otherwise of an organisation in this section does not necessarily indicate a company's relevance in the market.
