2007 AMEC National Mining Congress

Innovation in Exploration

From the President's Desk

Dear Colleague,

It is my pleasure to extend an invitation to you once again, to attend the 2007 AMEC National Mining Congress. Now in its 3rd year, the Congress is well recognised as the leading conference in the mining events calendar, for both companies and individuals from the resources, investment and government sectors.

Thanks to the work of the programme planning committee, the Congress continues to feature an outstanding programme that incorporates a mining investment show alongside strategic and educational sessions examining issues affecting the mining and mineral exploration industry.

The 2007 Congress theme "Innovation in Exploration" is indeed an apt choice as we are faced with the ever increasing need to be innovative in our global and booming industry. I am delighted to welcome the latest industry research and news from CSIRO Mining and Exploration and the various State Geological Surveys.

There are many reasons the 2007 Congress is not to be missed. This year the prestigious Arvi Parbo Oration will be delivered by Robert Friedland, internationally renowned mining entrepreneur of Ivanhoe Mines Limited.

Other Congress highlights include keynote sessions from Andrew Forrest of Fortescue Metals Group, Eric Finlayson from Rio Tinto London, plus sessions on New Discoveries and Developments in our industry, Emerging Exploration Technologies and of course the Mining Investment stream showcasing Australia's leading mining and exploration companies.

The 2007 Annual Gala Awards Dinner features the presentation of various important industry awards including the 22nd Australian Media Awards, the Prospector of the Year, Resources Analyst and Stockbroker of the Year Awards. The Awards Dinner promises to be an exceptional night filled with entertainment. Don't miss the unusual presentation from Dr Clio Cresswell, international mathematician who will present an entertaining speech called The Calculus of Coitus!

I sincerely hope you will take the time out of your busy schedule to join me at the Congress this year. I look forward to welcoming you to the 2007 AMEC National Mining Congress at the Perth Convention Exhibition Centre.

Friedland, Executive Chairman of Ivanhoe Mines Limited. Mr Friedland is well known as one of the mining industry's best-known international financiers. In 1996, he was named Developer of the Year by the Prospectors' and Developers' Association of Canada for his work in establishing and financing companies engaged in mineral exploration and development around the world. Mr. Friedland was also honoured as the "2006 Mining Person of the Year" by Canada's Northern Miner, a leading industry publication, for his coup in gaining Rio Tinto as a partner for Ivanhoe Mines on the Oyu Tolgoi project in Mongolia.
