CME APPROVAL PENDING

Online Evaluations and Certificate of Attendance

The College has implemented a new process for evaluating our postgraduate courses. As a participant, you will (1) complete the evaluation online and (2) print your certificate of attendance online. The certificate will be available on the first day of the course and remain available for 3 months after the course.

College Disclosure of Faculty and Industry Relationships

In accordance with College policy, all faculty and planning committee members have signed a conflict of interest statement in which they have disclosed any financial interests or other relationships with industry relative to topics they will discuss at this program. At the beginning of the program, faculty members are required to disclose any such information to participants. Such disclosure allows you to evaluate better the objectivity of the information presented in lectures. Please report on your evaluation form any undisclosed conflict of interest you perceive. Thank you.

Course Description

In this unique course, stimulating didactic sessions will provide updates of important topics in women's health. Important issues related to the practice of obstetrics and gynecology in contemporary society will be addressed. This is a family friendly course with specific sessions that should be of interest to spouses/partners of physicians with a focus on finding a balance between a fulfilling personal life and a rewarding professional career.

Learning Objectives

After attending this course, the participant should be able to:

- Discuss current and future challenges in healthcare reform, understanding ACOG's advocacy issues for women's health care access and our Fellow's practice support.
- Discuss the effects of health care legislation nationally and within Texas from recent legislative sessions.
- Discuss the evaluation and treatment of the perimenopausal patient including the use of birth control versus hormone replacement, including appropriate screening tests, reviewing special issues in this group of patients.
- Review ureteral anatomy, and describe peripheral nerve anatomy and perineal anatomy with clinical correlations.
- Review current screening and diagnostic tests for cancer in women, and discuss recommended treatment options.
- Understand the scope of early term deliveries and complications associated with elective early term delivery and learn resources designed to decrease rates of elective late term delivery.
- Review the patient safety program, "Team-STEPPS" developed by the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ) and apply to office practice.
- Review the basic science behind vulvodynia and discuss the new classification system for vulvar pain syndromes.
- Describe the epidemiology and disease burden of pertussis in young infants and recommended preventative strategies, including targeted immunization strategies.
- Describe the impact of STDs in the US and discuss the importance of the 2010 STD Treatment Guidelines, and discuss antimicrobial resistance in gonorrhea and other STDs.
- Understand current trends of collaborative practice in women's health care and be familiar with current collaborative practice models.
- Apply principles of building and strengthening interpersonal relationships and review their importance to your personal success.

ACOG DISTRICT XI AND TAOG 2011 JOINT ANNUAL MEETING

We are very excited to invite you to the 2011 Annual Meeting of ACOG District XI and TAOG, an outstanding opportunity for professional growth and social networking — without having to travel far! During this three day conference you will learn cutting-edge and essential information that will help you and your practice thrive in the ever-changing health care arena.

As you can see from the scientific program schedule, this conference contains an impressive array of faculty teaching on a wide-range of topics on women's health. This year we've also included breakfast talks on relationships and asset protection that will be of interest to you and your significant other. The Plano/Frisco area is very family-friendly, with numerous tourist and shopping activities nearby, including the State Fair of Texas in Dallas. We look forward to seeing you October 14-16 in Plano!
