

RESUME AND COVER LETTER TIPS

Resumes

Overview:

Goal of a Resume:

- To highlight your abilities in a clear, concise manner as they relate to the position for which you are applying.
- To be used and perceived as a selling tool outlining your skills and experience and entice an employer to interview you.

General Guidelines:

- Keep your resume to one page if you are a current student or recent graduate.
- Use underlining, bolding, italics and bullets to make things stand out.
- Use easy to read typeface (i.e. Tahoma, Arial, Times Roman, Franklin Gothic) that is no smaller than 10-11pt (depending on the font).
- Include the month and year when you are including dates in your experience section.
- Do not use personal pronouns, such as, I, my, he, she, it.
- Do not put personal statistics (age, weight, marital status, etc.) on your resume.
- Do not include a photo on your resume.
- Use action and self-descriptive words to describe your work experience (help potential employers picture you doing the job).
- Try to highlight work accomplishments rather than duties and responsibilities.
- Make sure there are no spelling errors or typos. Have someone look at your final copy before you send it to an employer.

Traditional Resume Outline:

Heading:

- Include your full name, address, phone number and email address.
- Consider including a link to your LinkedIn profile and/or a link to your online website/portfolio if applicable.

Education:

- Include colleges and universities where you received a degree, or from which you will receive a degree.
- List your education in reverse chronological order with your current or most recent degree at the top.
- Include the university (University of Southern California) as well as the school (Annenberg School for Communication and Journalism).
- List your degree (Bachelor of Arts in Communication), minor(s), and date of graduation or expected graduation (month and year).

- Include any international experiences in this section.
- Do not include high school information unless you are a freshman student. Sophomores and above should try to focus on college only.
- Include your GPA if it is above 3.5 in your major or overall.
- List courses you have completed that are related to the job for which you are applying. Include this under the sub-heading “Relevant Coursework” and limit this to no more than six courses.

Experience/Work History:

- Include full-time, part-time jobs, and internships (both paid and unpaid).
- You may also include volunteer experience, especially if you had a significant role.
- Each entry should list the name of the company, location of the company, title of your position, the dates you were employed, and a description of your experience.
- You may not be able to include every position you have ever held and should give more detailed accounts about the most recent and relevant entries on your resume and summarized versions of previous or less relevant experiences.
- Use bullet points beginning with action verbs for your descriptions and pay careful attention to your tense (completed experience in past tense and current experience in present tense).
- Information should be organized in reverse chronological order (most recent experience should lead your resume).

An exception to reverse chronological order would be if older experience is more relevant. In that case you may want to lead with a section called “Relevant Experience” and include those marketable experiences, and then follow with an “Additional Experience” section.

Honors/Activities/Accomplishments:

- Include involvement in clubs, awards, scholarships, volunteer work, etc.

Skills:

- Include language and computer skills.

References:

- Do not include names and personal contact information with your resume unless they have been specifically requested.

Make sure you have the individual’s permission before you include him/her on your reference list and keep them informed of your job search process.**

Cover Letters

General Guidelines:

- Never send a resume without a cover letter even if one is not requested.
- Always include your name, address and contact information. Use the same heading as your resume so your documents match.
- Tailor your letter to the job description using specific examples to address the qualifications required or desired by the employer.
- Keep your letter to one page.
- Whenever possible try to get the contact name of the person who will be reviewing the resumes. If this is not possible you may address it to the Hiring Coordinator.
- Double check letter for spelling and errors – especially the spelling of the contact person's name and the company information.
- Sell yourself! Your cover letter should explain what value you would bring to the company and be persuasive.

Traditional Cover Letter Outline:

First Paragraph – Introduction:

- Answer the question: "Why are you writing to this person?"
- Specify the position you are applying for and indicate the source (did you hear about it from a friend, through Annenberg Career Link, etc.).
- Introduce yourself including the degree you are pursuing or obtained.
- Include a brief introduction sentence or two about your interests, qualifications, etc.

Second and Third Paragraphs – Sell Yourself:

- Answer the question: "Why should they hire you for this position?"
- Closely review the job description and describe in detail 2 or 3 points from your resume that are most related.
- Use facts and descriptions of your accomplishments/duties to support your candidacy.
- Tie in specific skills/interests that relate to the position.

Fourth Paragraph – Closing:

- Reiterate why you are the best candidate for the position and make your final pitch to the employer.
- Demonstrate a passion for the industry and knowledge of the company.
- Thank the reader for their consideration of your application.
- Include statements such as "I look forward to discussing my qualifications in person."
- When appropriate indicate that you will follow up and do so.

Quick Tip: Before writing your cover letter, print out the job description and highlight the qualifications for the position. Next to each qualification, write down an example of where/when you've had that experience. This should serve as an outline of potential examples to include in your cover letter.

Sample Cover Letter Format:

(Insert resume heading including name and contact information.)

Today's Date

Mr./Ms. First and Last Name of Employer
Title of Employer Company/Organization
Street Address
City, State ZIP

Dear Mr./Ms. Last Name of Employer:

Your opening paragraph should state why you are writing. Name the position for which you are applying and the source of the listing. Give information to show your specific interest in his/her company - it is imperative that you "personalize" your letter to each organization. Name any direct referral person(s) in this paragraph.

Your middle paragraph(s) should highlight your qualifications. Refer the reader to your resume in terms of your general qualifications. Give details of your background that will show the reader why she/he should consider you as a candidate. If you have relevant experience or related education, be sure to point it out, but do not reiterate your entire resume. Remember that many employers utilize the cover letter to judge your writing and communication skills.

You could add an additional paragraph to go into more experiences that will highlight your qualifications. Be sure to emphasize your skills, qualifications, abilities and personal traits that relate to the job for which you are applying. Be confident in this letter but not arrogant.

In this last paragraph, you want to ask for action by stating how you will take the next step. You can state that you will contact the employer within a specific time to follow up with this letter or to set up a possible meeting at his/her convenience.

Sincerely,

(Sign your name - black or blue ink)
Type your name

Quick Tip: Save a jpeg of your signature that you can insert into each cover letter.

Lucille Craft
Account Director
Joyhut Advertising
1Madison Avenue
NY, NY 10005

Dear Ms. Craft

I would like to express my interest in Joyhut Advertising and the available Account Executive position described on your agency's web site.

After four years at the University of Southern California, where I majored in Print and Digital Journalism and wrote for the school paper, I leapt into the competitive world of advertising at Olf and Oleman Worldwide in San Francisco. For the past year I have served a valuable apprenticeship in the advertising industry, working as an assistant account executive on the Harbinger Sporting Goods account.

During my time on the Harbinger account, the company's advertising spending has increased by two million dollars, and I have progressed from having very little client contact to interfacing with the client-side on a regular basis.

Since my introduction to the world of advertising, it has been my goal to work on Madison Avenue. I would very much like to discuss the open position. Thank you for your time spent reading this letter and the enclosed resume. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Bret Orfman
