The Holiday Auction

Michael Jessen

Happy Holidays from all of us at Zachys Wine Auctions! It has been a very eventful year for us in 2009 with a total of fourteen auctions (including this exciting December sale) in four locations, including four sales in Hong Kong. Through the November auction we have hammered down nearly $47 million worth of the world's finest and rarest wines and are poised to lead the world-wide market for the year. It certainly could not have been accomplished without the trust and participation from our broad base of clients, let alone the hard work of Zachys' incredible auction team.

The Holiday Auction is a very exciting and focused sale comprised of just under 1600 lots, but with a total value of approximately $4.5 million. The catalog is filled with wonderful collections and a vast assortment of wines for all palates and pocketbooks.

Our first day session is highlighted by a pair of exciting offerings. AN IMPORTANT COLLECTION OF OLD AND NEW WORLD RARITIES COURTESY OF A PROMINENT SOUTHWEST COLLECTOR (Lots 203 through 308) represents a selection of highlights from a good friend of Zachys Wine Auctions and one of America's major up-and-coming collectors. Included is a healthy and exciting selection of Bordeaux, Champagne, and California bottlings. We are extremely honored to feature AN EXCEPTIONAL OFFERING FROM THE PRIVATE COLLECTION OF A PROMINENT UNITED STATES AMBASSADOR (Lots 368 through 664), the most significant and distinguished collection in the sale encompassing nearly 300 lots of meticulously acquired and carefully cellared rarities. The Ambassador's collection is a veritable treasure trove of mature bottlings of Bordeaux and Burgundy and offers an outstanding opportunity to back fill your cellar with great bottlings from yesteryear.

The early segment of our second day session is anchored by A DEEP OFFERING OF THE WORLD'S FINEST WINES FEATURING A COMPREHENSIVE COLLECTION OF PRISTINE BORDEAUX IN ORIGINAL WOOD CASE (Lots 821 through 988), an extensive assortment of primarily full case quantities of recent vintage Bordeaux, Rhone, Champagne, and Italian gems, the majority of which were acquired by the consignor upon original release. OUTSTANDING WINES FROM A PROMINENT WEST COAST COLLECTOR INCLUDING THREE IMPRESSIVE VERTICALS FROM ELITE NAPA VALLEY PRODUCERS: SCREAMING EAGLE, HARLAN ESTATE AND OPUS ONE (Lots 1146 through 1183) represents a small but important offering from one of our most trusted California clients. Chateau Lafite Rothschild 1982, 1986, and 1997 are featured along with incredible collection lots of Screaming Eagle, Harlan Estate, and Opus One. CLASSIC OLD AND NEW WORLD BOTTLINGS INCLUDING PRISTINE BORDEAUX FROM THE 1982 VINTAGE (Lots 1187 through 1308) comes from a family collection of bottling from the 1960s to the present day that were largely acquired on release.

Finally, we are very saddened about the passing of Daniel Ginsburg, one of the world's great appreciators of Champagne and ancient Bordeaux. Dan was the president of Champagne De Meric and was well known as an astute connoisseur of classic Bordeaux. His collection is featured at lots 1396 through 1498 and includes, among many other gems, a magnum of Chateau Lafite Rothschild 1870 which originally came from the famous Woodperry House cellar auctioned by Christie's in 1976.

We look forward to seeing you back at restaurant Daniel for the Holiday Auction on December 10th and 11th! If you plan on joining us don't forget that Daniel allows guests to bring wine from their cellars to enjoy with the world class lunch buffet served only during Zachys' auctions. If you cannot attend the sale, please do not hesitate to get your bids in ahead of time or log in online to bid live during the sale.

Cheers!

—Michael Jessen

CHÂTEAUNEUF-DU-PAPE

Châteauneuf-du-Pape, 20 kilometers north of Avignon, is both the geographical centre of the southern Rhône and its leading quality appellation. It is a large vignoble, its 3100 hectares producing over a million cases of wine a year. It is also, like Bordeaux, a region of large estates which are self-sufficient and individual in wine terms. The styles of the top Châteauneuf-du-Pape domaines contrast interestingly with one another, as do individual châteaux in Bordeaux, and for the same reason. Each reflects its own particular soil, mixture of grape varieties, mesoclimate, and, perhaps most important of all, differences in vinification techniques. Each, obviously, is a mirror of the personality and skill of the man who makes the wine...

Châteauneuf-du-Pape can be made from a large number of different grape varieties. There are as many as thirteen authorized for the appellation, though several of these are now rarely encountered. Some of these are white varieties, added to the red wine to give it a bit of zip and freshness. The most important grape is the Grenache, widely grown throughout the South of France, in Provence as well as the Languedoc, and also in Spain. Next comes Syrah, the staple red wine grape of the northern Rhône, and then Mourvèdre and Cinsault... Nowadays, the normal blend is usually the following: 50 to 70 per cent Grenache; 10 to 30 per cent Mourvèdre; up to 20 per cent Syrah, Cinsault, Cournoise and Vaccarèse (the latter two in very small proportions); and up to 10 percent Clairette, Picpoul and Bourboulenc (all white grapes).

Led by the Perrins at Château Beaucastel, today's fashionable Châteauneuf grape is Mourvèdre. This means there are two factions in the appellation: those who insist on almost as much Grenache as possible, and those like the Perrins who are making their super-cuvées from 60 per cent or more Mourvèdre...

With such a choice of grapes, soils, and now, vinification methods – for there are some estates which seek to produce a more primeur, early drinking style of wine – it is not surprising that there is no such thing as a typical Châteauneuf-du-Pape. All wines, however, will be full in colour and full in body; somewhat fiery and peppery, robust with a warm rich southern flavour and a broad, spicy, slightly farmyardy aroma and character. Those estates with a high proportion of Grenache, and which keep the wine long in wood (large oak foudres rather than the barriques traditional in Bordeaux and Burgundy), make a wine with a pronounced, somewhat attenuated earthy character, full of guts but lacking in finesse, and not able to age gracefully. Others, adopting modern methods but not discarding the concept of Châteauneuf as it is known and appreciated, produce excellent wine, which, price for price, is undoubtedly one of the best values of the top reds in France.

CHÂTEAU D'YQUEM

Château d'Yquem is the apex qualitatively and the centre geographically of the Sauternes area. Each major property occupies its own little hill. Yquem's is the highest. It is also the largest estate, the most perfectionistic, the most consistent. Unlike the rest of the region there was no cutting of corners, no lack of investment, no dip in quality in the sad days of the 1960s and 1970s.

Until the recent acquisition by LVMH, Yquem could boast that it was the sole leading property in Bordeaux which had belonged to the same family, the Lur-Saluces, since before the French Revolution. Indeed there has only been a single change of ownership, and that through marriage, since 1593, when Jacques de Sauvage, local treasurer of the king, an ancestor of whom was mayor of Bordeaux in the fourteenth century, took over as tenant of what was then the royal property of Yquem. The château, conceived as a medieval fortified manoir, has its origins before this time, though largely rebuilt in the Renaissance style somewhat later.

On 6th June 1785 a magnificent wedding, uniting two of the leading families in the area, took place. Joséphine de Sauvage d'Yquem married Louis-Amédée de Lur-Saluces of Château de Fargues. Their descendants married into and became involved in a number of local Sauternes estates: Filhot, Coutet, de Maille and others over the next couple of centuries. In 1999, rather against the will of Comte Alexandre de Lur-Saluces, who lives at Yquem and ran the estate on behalf of his extended family, Yquem was sold to LVMH. Nothing, however, seems to have changed as far as the production of the wine is concerned.

At Yquem we have Sauternes winemaking at its most perfectionistic. The vines are pruned to yield 9 hl/ha – one glass per vine (as opposed to a full bottle in a classified growth red wine château). Collection of the grapes is berry by botrytised berry, rather than by bunch or half-bunch elsewhere. The grapes are crushed in a small horizontal hydraulic press in three stages. Unlike in Champagne, for example, the first pressing does not necessarily give the best wine. There is no débourage before the wine is put into cask. Fermentation and ageing is in new oak, of course, the latter taking place in a splendid underground cellar, constructed in 1987. The assemblage is late and the wine is not bottled for three years or more. Only then is it put on the market...

There is something very special, and indeed very consistent, about Yquem. The wine is more oaky than most in its youth. It is by quite some way the richest, most concentrated, most intense wine of its kind. In great years – I have a marginal preference for 1989 over 1990 and 1988 – it is nectar: the liquid quintessence of concentrated sunbeams, to quote Thomas Love Peacock.

BILLECART SALMON

It's a real pleasure for any wine enthusiast to visit this small, well-run domain in Mareuil-sur-Aÿ. This company, which is very much in fashion at the moment, makes elegant, sporty wines that suit "nouvelle cuisine" perfectly. The company was established in 1818 and it has always concentrated on quality Champagne in quite a light style. Billecart has a very innovative attitude towards winemaking. They are pioneers of cold stabilization, which entails sinking the temperature of the must to 5°C for two days and then adding dried yeast to the fermentation, which takes place in stainless steel vats for as long as three weeks. The slow fermentation is made possible by keeping the vat's temperature at around 12°C. The wine then has to be heated up to 18°C so that the malolactic fermentation can take place. François Domi who is the winemaker has performed several successful experiments with oak barrels from Louis Jadot in Burgundy since 1998. Clos Saint Hilaire – a grand Blanc de Noirs made from fifty-year-old vines in Mareuil-sur-Aÿ is a very interesting new recruit. The philosophy of the domain is to avoid oxidation at all costs. The flavour is expected to come from the grape itself as far as possible, and not from secondary aromas from the vinification process. Billecart purchase 95 per cent of their grapes from twenty-three top-rated vineyards, and their own grapes are Pinot Noir from the village. They have contracts with many respected growers from Grand cru villages of Avize, Cramant and Le Mesnil. The domain's refreshing, fruity, and elegant style led me for many years to believe that Billecart's Champagnes should be consumed young. However, their greatness lies in the fact that, despite their early and direct charm, they develop in an incomparably beautiful way in the cellar.

Richard Juhlin, The Champagne Club

LE CLOS SAINT-HILAIRE

A one hectare walled vineyard, Le Clos Saint-Hilaire is named for the patron saint of Mareuil-sur-Aÿ, the site of the House of Billecart-Salmon since its inception. This single, unbroken and enclosed plot was planted in 1964 adjacent to the House and is characterized by its chalk and alluvial soil. The resulting cuvee is extremely rare – only 3,500 to 7,500 bottles are produced in a given year – and is comprised exclusively of Pinot Noir grapes, which are vinified on-site and aged in old Burgundian casks. With the goal of allowing the wine to mature in typical single cru style, the House adds no dosage at all. The character of this unique Blanc de Noirs has been described as "somewhere between its neighbor, Clos des Goisses, and the Bollinger Vieilles Vignes Françaises (VVF) produced from pre-phylloxera vines in Aÿ and Bouzy."

KRUG CLOS DU MESNIL

This is an increasingly rare chance to add multiple vintages to your cellar of the single vineyard Clos du Mesnil, a Blanc de Blancs of such rarity (around 1200 cases each vintage) that even in our own business circle of the fine wine trade we sparingly encounter it.

Indeed, this is the definition of the essence of Champagne. Remember that a Blanc de Blancs (100% Chardonnay) has no other blending partners (grape varieties) to offset viticultural imbalances. It is the true art of the most pure Champagne expression, coupled with the terroir of a stone-walled plot of land. I've noticed people are often quiet when they sip and muse over a Krug Clos du Mesnil; it seems to get the mind racing. It is humbling to place in perspective that the Clos du Mesnil, a stone-walled vineyard a mere 4.57 acres in size, dates back to 1698, and was for many years tended by Benedictine monks until its purchase by the Krug family in 1971.

Champagnes such as Krug Clos du Mesnil, even more than still wines, are at their absolute best when properly stored and cared for, so the opportunity to obtain these rarities direct from their legendary maker should not be taken lightly.

CALIFORNIA

HARLAN ESTATE

Harlan Estate, owned by Bill Harlan, is a luxury, world-class, Cabernet Sauvignon-based wine produced from a steep, terraced vineyard on the western side of Napa Valley, high above Napa's famous Martha's Vineyard. Approximately 24 acres are in vine and the yields to date have been very low. Bill Harlan, better-known as one of the principals of Merryvale Vineyards... has only one objective: to produce one of the greatest red wines of California.

The wines are a blend of approximately two-thirds Cabernet Sauvignon and the remainder Cabernet Franc and Merlot. Bob Levy, Merryvale's winemaker and Michel Rolland, the well-known Bordeaux oenologist, are the architects behind these exceptional efforts. Stylistically the wines are the Napa Valley equivalent of a hypothetical La Mission-Haut-Brion/Cheval-Blanc blend. They are rich, powerful wines with unmistakable elegance, complexity, and purity.

FINE WINES FROM THE CELLAR OF AN ENGLISHMAN IN NEW YORK

The following wines have been consigned from the cellar of a true connoisseur of fine and rare wines. Having been enjoying wines for over 40 years, this collector decided to do a little cellar thinning to make way for other purchases. The younger wines were purchased on release. The older wines come from wine auctions in London, where the consignor has been very careful about provenance. In his words:

"I only buy when 1. there is a large cellar of wines being sold; 2. all of the wines in the cellar are in good condition (i.,e. I won't buy wines even if they are in good condition from a cellar where some wines are not in good condition); 3. I look for some indication from the auction house that the seller had good provenance. Most of my older wines come from when I started buying at Christies in London, before the New York auctions started and when most of the cellars were from old country houses, but of course there are also some more recent acquisitions."

I have known this gentleman for a number of years and over that time have had numerous wines from his collection and they have always shown beautifully. All wines were stored in a home cellar that is humidity and temperature controlled with power back up. Don't miss out on this opportunity!

AN EXCEPTIONAL OFFERING FROM THE PRIVATE COLLECTION OF A PROMINENT UNITED STATES AMBASSADOR

Zachys Wine Auctions is honored to present the following extensive collection of mature Old World rarities, courtesy of a distinguished United States Ambassador and passionate wine connoisseur.

The Ambassador's love of wine, which stems from the mid-1970s, was cultivated during frequent trips abroad, during which he was exposed to the great wines of France through friends and business associates. Over the years, he participated with various tasting groups, consisting of friends who enjoyed sharing and exploring wine together. As his tastes evolved, he ultimately landed on the great domains of Bordeaux and Burgundy.

The collection was amassed largely through astute auction and retail purchasing. The Ambassador only sourced from the most trusted purveyors, and most of his cellar was acquired through Zachys, Christies, and Sothebys. Close attention was always paid to provenance, and auction purchases were primarily from ex-cellar releases and prominent collections. Specific provenance is noted in the individual lots for important bottlings. His collection is maintained in actively climate-controlled home cellarage and ideal offsite professional storage.

Only a portion of the Ambassador's collection is being offered. The lots that follow represent a selection he made after his cellar grew too large. Highlights of the offering include incredible classic Bordeaux bottlings, such as Chateau Lafite Rothschild 1899 (Lot 368), Chateau Mouton Rothschild 1945 (Lot 374), three magnums of Chateau Latour 1959 (Lot 377), and a complete original wood case of Chateau Lafite Rothschild 1982 (Lot 401). Rare, mature Burgundy bottlings are also a centerpiece of the collection, highlighted by Romanee Conti 1929, 1937, and 1943 (Lots 516-518), Musigny Pierre Ponnelle 1947 (Lot 519), four magnums of La Tache 1971 (Lot 528), and a complete original wood case of magnums of Montrachet DRC 1988 (Lot 568).

This collection represents a remarkable opportunity to acquire some of the greatest examples of Old World gems, all of which have been thoughtfully acquired and cared for meticulously.

MICHAEL BROADBENT ON THE 1959 BORDEAUX VINTAGE:

A great vintage. Hugely popular with the British wine trade, proclaimed by the pundits as 'the vintage of the century' and tres grands vins by the Bordelais, the optimists were not far out despite some talk of lack of acidity. Apropos, the eminent Professor Peynaud states that if a wine has an abundance of all the major component parts, alcohol, extract, fruit and tannin, an equally high level of acidity is not only not essential, it is not necessary. The 1959 vintage was blessed with a very favourable growing season, in particular a fine, warm summer, with rain mid-September to swell the grapes; the harvest followed a week or so later. ★★★★★.

1961 BORDEAUX VINTAGE

There is little doubt in my mind that 1961 stands supreme among the vintages of the last couple of generations. For me, it demonstrates in a superlative way all that I look for in a fine wine: ripe fruit, balance, concentration, a 'three-dimensional' quality of flavour and character and, above all, elegance...

Happily the balance of the 1961s is perfect; the wines were not too dense and were able to demonstrate how excellent they were right from the beginning. Unlike other years, they have at no time in my experience been hard to assess or gone through an awkward phase when their quality was difficult to acknowledge. Perhaps this is because though deep in colour, full in body and tannin, they have superbly rich, concentrated fruit...

The harvest took place in fine weather and an exceptionally small crop of exceptionally healthy grapes was gathered...Right from the start, however, the wine was indisputably of exceptional quality. Not only this but it was also uniformly good throughout the region. 1961 is not one of the years where one can glibly say that Saint-Emilion and Pomerol were better than the Medoc or vice versa...

The 1961s are now over 40 years old...what is remarkable...is how much vigour the vintage still possesses. In some cases, a bit of astringency lurks underneath, one or two others are beginning to get a bit attenuated. But in the majority of cases the wines were alive and vigorous, and would continue to be so for many years still. Fiftieth birthday celebrations are already being planned. What this shows is that it is concentration and balance, not bulk, which counts. The continuing great quality of the 1961s demonstrates that the longer one can keep a wine, the more complex it gets.

DOMAINE DE LA ROMANEE CONTI 1983 VINTAGE

The 1983 vintage for Domaine de la Romanee-Conti was a very tough year. First there was hail, then the advent of rot in August thanks to the tropical heat and humidity. When the harvest occurred, the domaine instructed its pickers to pick the grapes, not the grape bunches, by hand and to discard all of the rotten grapes. The results are splendidly concentrated, rich wines...

GUIGAL

Marcel Guigal - perfectionist, fanatical, pernickety - is the super-star of the appellation and probably sells more Cote-Rotie under his own label than all the other growers combined. Despite this size, however, the quality is exemplary - as they should be at the prices he charges! He harvests late, insists on very low yields, and keeps the wines in a combination of barrel and small foudres and demi-muids, all newish wood, for up to three and a half years before bottling. Their wines are so concentrated they can withstand this wait without drying out, and remain profound, rich and individual. La Landonne is the Brune, La Mouline the Blonde, La Turque the sort of hermaphroditic mixture. Usually my favourite is the Landonne. The Chateau d'Ampuis bottling combines elements of both the sectors of Cote-Rotie, from vines in the climats of La Pommier, Le Pavillon, La Garde and Le Clos.

CHAMPAGNEDOM PERIGNON 1971Champagne1.5cm below foil*

"Perfection...a touch of sweetness, wonderful flavour and length. Refined. And, at 30 years old the same. Perhaps a touch more color, fine mousse though; a light 'straw' nose; perfect taste, balance, a touch of inner sweetness, great length, excellent acidity." MB 1/01.

DOM PERIGNON ROSE 1973*Champagne0.5cm below foil*

"Superbly elegant, light-footed Champagne with charismatic grace and inviting charm. One of the lighter but also more classic vintages of this super-wine. The luscious fruitiness exudes newly picked raspberries, and the breadly notes are magnificently balanced. A wine that should be enjoyed in great gulps!..95." RJ 3/03.

MASSANDRA

MASSANDRA

Situated on the Black Sea in modern Ukraine's Crimea are the esteemed vineyards and winery of Massandra. The area was first planted to vines in the mid-nineteenth century when still a part of Imperial Russia. Vineyards around Massandra have long supported a widely heterogeneous assortment of imported grape varietals from around Europe. From the beginning the refinement of wines produced at Massandra quickly attracted favorable attention from the Tsar himself. By the twilight of the nineteenth century Massandra was producing an array of wines specifically for the Tsar bearing his seal. The best known Massandra wines have always been of the dessert variety, emulating a range of styles from Sherry to Madeira, Port to Marsala, and Tokays to Muscats.

Perhaps as deserving of legend as the Massandra wines themselves is the vast and intricate system of cellars bored into the mountainsides. The labyrinth of cellars boasts 21 different 150 meter tunnels where strategically placed air shafts maintain a constant 13-14 degrees Centigrade. Natural springs also sustain cellar humidity levels at 90-95 percent. These conditions have allowed wines at Massandra to age under prime conditions, with many examples going back to the estate's inception. Massandra still produces and ages superior wines, both sweet and dry, and is sitting on a comprehensive 'library' of all the wines produced there since the beginning. Having survived both the Russian Revolution and World War II unscathed, the cellars of Massandra are a living page out of Eastern European History. These wines were famously put on display at the Yalta conference where Joseph Stalin, Winston Churchill, and Franklin Roosevelt tasted old vintages of sweet Massandras together in memorable photos.

In 1990 Sotheby's put some of those same vintages tasted at the Yalta conference up for auction, among many others, and Massandra received some of its first widespread exposure in the western world. During the Soviet Union's last gasp several other auctions of Massandra wines ensued as they attempted to raise western currency to finance modern winemaking equipment for the estate. Though generally the quality of the wines, both young and old, received enthusiastic acclaim, auction hammer prices were not as strong. Back vintages of these wines continue to appear at various auctions and shrewd connoisseurs snatch them up for a song.
