Short Essay

The “One-World, One-Health”, in other words, the integrity and soundness on the earth, can only be ensured by maintaining the health of humans and animals (including companion, production, and captive animals, and wildlife). One of the aims of veterinary science is to maintain human and animal health, and therefore, further contributions of veterinary science are strongly urged to realize “One-World, One-Health”. In approximately 1,500 words, please describe how you will be able to contribute to ensuring “One Health” in your future professional activities.
