Prayer for Labor Day

On this weekend, when we rest from our usual labors, loving Father, we pray for all who shoulder the tasks of human labor—in the marketplace, in factories and offices, in the professions, and in family living.
We thank you, Lord, for the gift and opportunity of work; may our efforts always be pure of heart, for the good of others and the glory of your name.
We lift up to you all who long for just employment and those who work to defend the rights and needs of workers everywhere.
May those of us who are now retired always remember that we still make a valuable contribution to our Church and our world by our prayers and deeds of charity.
May our working and our resting all give praise to you until the day we share together in eternal rest with all our departed in your Kingdom as you live and reign Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, one God, forever and ever. Amen.

Parish kicks off new tradition

Human foosball replaces pig wrestling

BY SAM LUCERO | FOR THE COMPASS

STEPHENSVILLE — The end of pig wrestling at St. Patrick Parish's annual summer festival could have spelled the demise of a successful parish social and fund-raising activity. But the response to this dire prediction was unanimous from parish leaders: when pigs fly.

Rather than fold their festival tents, event organizers, with the assistance of diocesan leaders, found a new activity to showcase at the Aug. 9 summer gathering: human foosball with a Nerf-like ball resembling a pig.

Indeed, pigs did fly.

The inaugural human foosball tournament featured 18 teams with six players competing inside two outdoor pens (foosball tables) created using livestock gates and metal bars. Players held onto the bars while attempting to kick the foam rubber ball into a goal. Two of the 18 teams consisted of diocesan employees.

The foosball tournament replaced a controversial pig wrestling event that had been held for 44 years.

SAM LUCERO | THE COMPASS

Members of the Foosball Fillies team, battle the Diocesan Dynamos, a team consisting of Green Bay diocesan employees, during the inaugural St. Patrick Parish human foosball tournament held Aug. 9 in Stephenville.

Last year, a Wisconsin-based animal rights group, protested the event and claimed that animal abuse took place during the contest, a claim pig wrestling organizers denied. Following months of discussion between the parish and the diocese, organizers decided to move on from the pig wrestling.

"After much prayer and many hours of discussion, we realize that what we had for 44 years in the Original Pig Rattle was memorable, legal and great family fun," the parish noted on its website. "We also realize that our parish and diocesan talents could be better spent in areas that are less controversial. It is with great regret that we have discontinued the Original Pig Rattle.

We are, however, very excited to begin this new tradition at St. Patrick Parish."

Deacon Ken Bilgrien, pastoral coordinator at St. Patrick Parish, said community support for the parish picnic, now in its 45th year, was important. "We didn't know" what the reaction would be, "but there is something in the air that hasn't been here in the past," he said.

FRANKLY, FRANCIS

In the People of God, by the grace of his compassion granted in Jesus, many families prove by their deeds that death does not have the last word: this is a true act of faith. Every time a family in mourning — even terrible mourning — finds the strength to guard the faith and love that unite us to those we love, it has already prevented death from taking everything.

The darkness of death should be confronted with a more intense work of love. "My God, lighten my darkness!" is the invocation of evening prayer. In the light of the Resurrection of the Lord, who abandons none of those whom the Father entrusted to him, we can take the "sting" out of death, we can prevent it from poisoning life, from rendering vain our love, from pushing us into the darkest chasm.

Monk has answer for Facebook name rule: He officially changes his name

BY SAM LUCERO | THE COMPASS

ALLOUEZ — What's in a name? To Fr. Moses Wright, known to friends on Facebook as Hierodeacon Moses, it's his identity as a Byzantine monk, given to him when he professed his vows on Aug. 15, 1994.

On Aug. 12, Fr. Moses received a notification when he logged on to Facebook. He was told he had to change his name in order to comply with their regulations on authentic identities. Before the end of the day, his profile name changed from Hierodeacon Moses to his given name, Michael Wright. The change did not sit well with the monk, who lives at Holy Resurrection Monastery in St. Nazianz.

"Well, Facebook finally got my name changed!" he wrote. "Facebook has forbidden religious names and titles. It's been going on for a while now." Fr. Moses told The Compass in a telephone interview Aug. 13 that very few people know him by his given name. "I had to go on and explain what happened," he said. "I've used that name for 20 years now and most people wouldn't know me by my secular name."

The Byzantine monk decided he wouldn't wait for Facebook to change its policy. Instead, he decided to change his name. On Aug. 13, he posted a new announcement:

"Thanks Facebook! After 21 years of using my monastic name, and never officially changing it, today I will petition the State of Wisconsin to 'OFFICIALLY' become Monk Moses," he wrote in a post, which received 80 "likes."

Our full story appears in the Aug. 28 issue.

5 THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW

St. Helen and the feast of the Cross

PATRICIA KASTEN | THE COMPASS

- 1 St. Helen, mother of the Roman Emperor Constantine, travelled to Jerusalem on pilgrimage in 326 A.D.
- 2 She had two churches built in Bethlehem and in Jerusalem at Calvary.
- 3 Legend says Helen found three crosses buried at Calvary and a miracle identified one as the Cross of Christ. She had it enshrined in the new church there.
- 4 The Church of the Holy Sepulchre was dedicated on Sept. 14, 335. The Holy Cross is still honored on Sept. 14.
- 5 In 614, Persians conquered Jerusalem and carried off the Cross. The Emperor Heraclius later regained the Cross, placing it in the Church of Holy Wisdom in Constantinople on Sept. 14 in 629.

A SPECIAL NOTE TO PARENTS

Bishop David Ricken

It is not easy to be a holy family today; life seems to be getting busier and busier. In many instances, both the dad and mom are employed and working to make ends meet. Many parents are raising children by themselves or in separate households.

This makes for a very full and hectic life. Please make sure that you as a parent take the time to give your children the best gift of all — the gift of a strong faith and prayer life. Faith is a gift that will sustain your children throughout the storms of this life and one which will prepare them for the next.

Research confirms that the single most important social influence on the religious and spiritual lives of children, particularly adolescents, is their parents. If we don't share our faith with our children, what will the world share with them instead? If we don't pray for them, with them and teach them how to pray, where will they turn in difficulty and who will they turn to?

Today, we must make space in our lives for Christ. If we give our lives to Christ, he will transform our households to become more prayerful, more holy and more joyful. Let us take comfort in the Holy Family and how they lived, for they have much to teach us. The Holy Family was not without its struggles! Mary and Joseph endured much hardship throughout their lives and yet poured themselves out in love for Jesus. They worried about Jesus when he went missing, only to find him in the temple. As parents, you too pour out your love every day for your children as you make many sacrifices for them and overcome obstacles and trials together. You also worry about your children but if you place your children's lives under the mantle of our Blessed Mother and under the protection of St. Joseph, they will help to take care of you and your family. Do not be afraid! The Lord is with you and the church is with you.

Next month: Keeping Sunday holy.
