This is NOT another workshop that discusses what autism is. Instead, this workshop will provide the participants with ideas and proven strategies that will make life easier for the child with autism, their caregivers and others around them.

A professional with extensive expertise in working with young children who have autism and other social, communication, behavior, and interaction difficulties will present information on the known difficulties these children have and offer appropriate ways to manage these challenges

- ★ videos demonstrating strategies will be shown
- ★ sample of effective “tools” and resources will be available
- ★ and a panel of family members affected by autism will share their experiences

Each participant will have the opportunity to participate in a Make & Take activity to make an intervention “tool” to use in their home or work to help a child with challenges associated with autism.

For information on joining ECIAEYC, contact Beverley Baker at 352-5151.
