Elysheva Abigail Barnett

Elysheva will participate in the service Friday night, April 17th at 7:30 pm and be called to the Torah as a Bat Mitzvah on Saturday, April 18th at 10 a.m.

Elysheva is a scholar at St. James Episcopal School, who in addition to her 7th grade studies, is an active team member on both the Volleyball and Basketball teams for St. James. Elysheva is an avid reader and enjoys the works of James Patterson, Cassandra Clare, Holly Black and her favorite author, Rick Riordan. She enjoys biking, rappelling, and zip-lining.

Elysheva's mitzvah project is assisting with the Peewee's Pet Adoption World and Sanctuary. Located at 1307 Saratoga, Peewee's is a nonprofit no-kill animal shelter whose operations are accomplished strictly by donations, without assistance from government, city or federal funding; $.96 of every dollar is used for animal care. Peewee's is in constant of dog food / canned cat food, bleach and paper towels. A designated bin has been placed in the lobby of Congregation Beth Israel and Elysheva would appreciate any and all donations to assist this worthwhile organization.

Elysheva is the daughter of Joseph and Margaret Barnett; her grandmother, Barbara Barnett, lives in San Antonio. Please join the Barnett family and share the joy of this occasion with an Oneg Shabbat on Friday evening and a Kiddush Luncheon following services on Saturday morning.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

I often sing the praises of the women of Congregation Beth Israel. Yes, I admit I am a bit biased, but time after time, they are there for our Congregation. I would like to fill you in on the latest gift from this group of hard working women. At our March Board meeting they presented us with FOUR checks. The first was a check for $6000, to sponsor the years' worth of Shabbat Family Dinners. This covers not only the food costs, but the preparations, handled by Leslie Green, our Shabbat Dinner Coordinator. These dinners have become a wonderful social event as well as an outreach to nonmembers. Next, we received a $2000 check for religious school fieldtrips; This will enable some of our students to visit the Holocaust Museum in Houston later this year. The women of Sisterhood also issued a check for $5000 to replenish the Camp Scholarship Fund. As a reminder, there is still time to apply for a partial scholarship to a Jewish Camp for member children. So far, we have rewarded three scholarships to our children, and hope to encourage more of our students to attend summer camp. Last but not least, a check for $20,000 for our Operating Fund was given to us by the Women of Sisterhood. This money is greatly needed to just assist with day to day operations of our facility. Sisterhood also reported that they are sponsoring a program for sight impaired children at the Corpus Christi Museum of Science and History. Thank you ladies for not only helping Congregation Beth Israel, but for helping our general community as well. Finally, this month will be Sisterhood's annual 2nd Night Sedar, not really a fundraiser, more of a service they perform for our congregation. As I recite my praises for the Women of Sisterhood, let me also say how excited I am about the first successful Brotherhood function that was held last month. A nice sized gathering of men of all ages took place at B&J's Pizza. Many thanks to Greg Marks and his committee for having the initiative to start this new group. Hope this will lead to many more functions.

RABBI'S MESSAGE

Passover and Jewish Greatness

We Jews have always done things a little differently. We even start our history as a nation differently to most other nations, particularly nations of the ancient world. A look at most national creation stories uncovers a clear pattern – the ancestors of the nation almost invariably come from great nobility, sometimes even descended from the gods themselves, and the nation was usually formed in a blaze of heroic glory. And what about us? We start as slaves, oppressed by one of these other great ancient nations.

It cannot be stressed how different this makes us in the annals of the history of nations and how we conceive of our greatness as a people. For nations like the Egypt of ancient times, their greatness was inherent. Born of gods, Egyptians were great because it was their due and because the gods decreed it. Greatness was an entitlement of history and birth, an inheritance for all time. And yet that greatness, the glories of ancient Egypt, have faded into the desert sand while we, born of slavery and oppression, are still here.

Perhaps this is because our Jewish concept of greatness starts from rock bottom. From where we started we could only go up! And thus for Jews greatness is born of humility and striving. Unlike other ancient peoples we are well aware of our own shortcomings, put in sharp relief by our humble origins. We do not see ourselves as naturally entitled to greatness. Our ancestors were slaves not gods. Rather we understand that greatness must be earned. That is why, despite all our history since the Exodus, so much of our liturgy and thought harks back to that central narrative. We understand that to attain greatness from our lowly roots we have had to strive for it. And, as a people, and as individuals we have often succeeded at greatness despite so many obstacles in our way.

As Jews today, as we prepare for Passover, we also understand the nature of the greatness that must be earned. As Jews we do not frown on wealth and status, but these are not our measures of greatness. Rather we remember our slavery and redemption and strive towards greatness in morality and ethics, in truth and justice, in kindness and compassion. While Egypt and all the other great empires we have outlived sought greatness in how much of the world they could conquer and own for their glory, we seek greatness in fixing the world for the benefit of all humanity.

Rabbi Emanuel

Omer Study Series: Faces of God - Saturday 11am April 4, 11, 25, May 2 and May 9

What is the nature of God? This is one of the biggest questions of religion and in its 4,000 years of history Judaism has a lot to say about what God is and what God wants from us. In the modern era Jewish thinkers have struggled with how to understand God in an era of reason and science, spirituality and religious seeking and the great thinkers of the modern Jewish world have added depth to the questions of the nature of God. Join us on Saturday morning 11am from April 4-May 9 as we explore different modern approaches the biggest question of them all! Find out what the great thinkers of modern Judaism have said about God and deepen your understanding of what it means to believe in God as modern Jews.

Corpus Christi Community Religious School

Jana Zager, Director

Even though March was a short month for Sunday School due to Spring Break, we utilized our time wisely by making and baking dozens of Hamantachen for Purim and celebrating Passover with a delicious all-school chocolate seder led by the Religious School kids.

A HUGE "Thank You" to Hamantachen helpers Margaret Barnett, Julia Noble, Sarah Noble and Vicki Dvorkin! We were able to make, bake and send home lots of Hamantachen with each student in time for Purim.

This month, Alachua Haskins, our ISJL Fellow will be joining us again for the weekend of April 24-26. Please plan to attend our Family Shabbat that Friday night to give Alachua a warm welcome. She will be here all weekend and will be working with our kids during Sunday School. If you would like to host Alachua in your home, please let me know. This is a great opportunity for her to get to know other congregants.

As a reminder, there will be NO RELIGIOUS SCHOOL on April 5th in observance of Passover.

Shalom,
Jana

92Y LIVE -David Brooks: On Character
Join New York Times columnist David Brooks for an in-depth discussion about what constitutes character as explored in his new book.

Some people seem to possess inner lives that are more substantive than the rest of ours. How do they do it? Depth, argues Brooks, is the core of our being and something we cultivate over time; it's engraved by thought and action; it's built through the commitments we make—to a nation, a faith, a calling or loved ones—and the sacrifices we endure because of those commitments.

Family Shabbat Dinner

Shalom Y'All,

What a fun and delicious Purim celebration we had at our March Family Shabbat Dinner! Rabbi Emanuel and Diana Stillman did an amazing job with the creative "Disney-themed" Shabbat services that everyone enjoyed! Another record turnout was had and it warmed my heart being together to celebrate another holiday together!

Our next Family Shabbat Dinner will be on Friday, April 24th at 6:00 pm with dinner to follow. If you are available to help me in the kitchen in preparing this dinner, give me a call or a text. All help is greatly appreciated!

Please make a note that if you haven't made your reservations yet, CBI will be hosting its 2nd night Passover community seder on Saturday, April 4th. You can call Debbie Bustillo at CBI for a reservation form or you can find one in your CBI newsletter.

On behalf of myself, Eli and Nolan, we want to wish you all a zeisen Pesach (sweet Passover) and can't wait to break matzoh together!!

CBI Sisterhood News

Sisterhood has been busy. The Executive Committee met March 5 at the Czech-Mex Caf Downtown. David Posey from Jean's Restaurant Supply attended to discuss our newly installed oven. We discussed a restricted fund that we have that is specifically for the visually impaired or other challenged individuals. We spoke with Carol Rehtmeyer, executive director of the CC Museum, and decided to partially sponsor a special sensory program that is offered quarterly by the museum by the Department of Assistive Rehabilitation Services. We will sponsor 50 children per quarter.

YOUR Sisterhood is helping to sponsor the CBI OUTREACH EVENT this coming Sunday night, March 29 at the CC Museum. We hope you will join us for an incredible event PLEASE COME WE NEED YOUR SUPPORT.

Join us for the Passover 2nd night seder, on Saturday night, April 4. Call the Temple and make your reservation (a must do!).

FOUR TALKS SCHEDULED BY OUR RABBI EMERITUS

On four successive Sunday mornings, Rabbi Roseman will discuss various issues he raises in his new book. These sessions will begin with light refreshments at 10:00 AM in the Grossman Auditorium with the formal session to start at 10:30. The talks are open to all members of CBI and guests of any religious tradition without charge. It is expected that they will conclude before noon.

On April 12, Rabbi Roseman will speak about “Let Me Speak to You: God and Prayer.”

The following week, April 19, he will discuss “Israel: People and/or Nation.”

The topic for April 26 will be “We Were There, Too: Jewish History.”

Finally, on May 3, the Rabbi will talk about “The Head and the Heart: Intellect and Emotion.”

Copies of his book, Of Tribes and Tribulations, will be available for purchase each Sunday morning, and Rabbi Roseman has indicated he will be delighted to dedicate and sign the books for your possession or as gifts.

Of Tribes and Tribulations

by our Rabbi Emeritus Rabbi, Kedneth D. Roseman

Is now available for check out in our library

Rabbi Roseman takes us on a 12 essay personal and intellectual journey through the most vexing questions of our time. Part apologetic, part memoir, part call to action, Of Tribes and Tribulations is filled with wisdom, honesty, and tenderness. It is a thoughtful, moving exploration of the meaning and value of Jewishness in the 21st century."

Congratulations Rabbi Roseman on your new publication.

Men's Club Corner

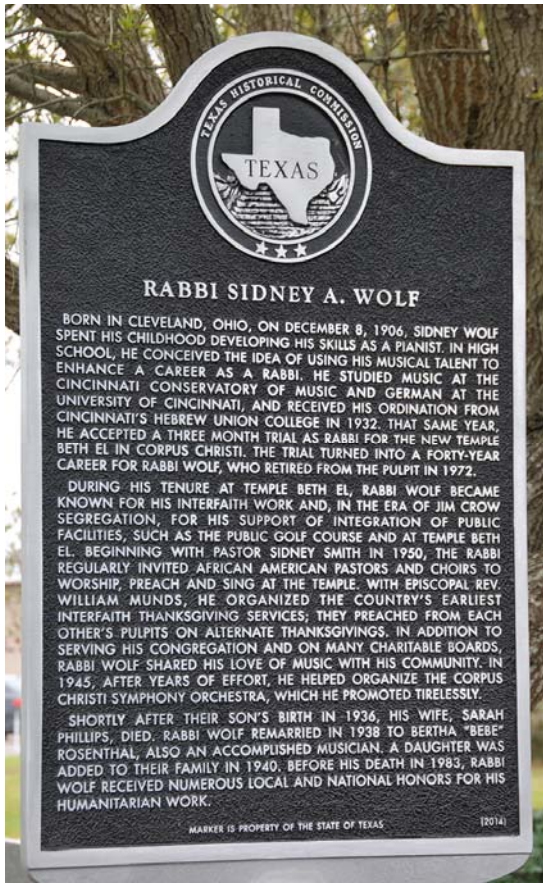

Our first CBI Men's Club gathering was a great success! More than 30 men from CBI got together last month for some beer, pizza and friendship. Everyone who was there had a great time, and many who were not able to make it have asked when we were having the next one. Well, after a week of matzah and manischewitz, I think we will all be ready for some more bread and beer! So, let's gather at B&J's again on Thursday, May 7th from 7:00 to 9:00.

Last month, our theme was Brews and Jews. This month, our theme will be the Three B's. What's that, you ask? Well, you have a choice. It can mean, "Buy your Buddy a Beer." It could mean, "Break Bread with a Buddy." Or it could mean, "Bring a Brother to B&J's." However you choose to interpret the Three B's, the goal is for you to B there!

Another goal is for you to bring a friend. Membership in CBI is not required to be part of the Men's club, and my challenge to everyone who came to the first event is for you to bring a Jewish friend with you to our next gathering. I look forward to another fun Men's night out, and more importantly, I look forward to continuing to build relationships among all of great Jewish people in our community.

HISTORICAL MARKER DEDICATION FOR RABBI SIDNEY A. WOLF— BY HELEN WILK

Rabbi Sidney A. Wolf lived the majority of his life in this little city called Corpus Christi and he lived in such a way that he impacted every aspect of daily life in a positive manner. He did that for every person who lived here THEN, and all those who came afterward.

He did not view people according to their ethnic, religious, racial or economic divisions. Instead he viewed them as representatives of humanity all of whom deserved fair treatment and respect. While serving in the pulpit of Temple Beth El for 40 years and during his 11 years of retirement he implemented those views in many ways and made this city a better place in which to live for ALL its citizens.

Many of you know about the unique joint Thanksgiving service he and his colleague and friend, Rev. William Munds from the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd began in 1934. It was so unusual Time Magazine wrote about it in their Nov. 1936 issue and titled it "Love in Corpus Christi". That ecumenical service will celebrate its 81st anniversary this year.

And some of you have learned about his reaching out to the Black community in 1950 by inviting an African American colleague, the Rev. Sidney Smith of First Congregational Church

To preach from the pulpit of Temple Beth El and asked Rev. Smith's wife, Beulah, choir director at Solomon Coles Black school to bring her group to join that service and to continue doing so in following years. In 1950 Corpus Christi, like all of the American south, was racially segregated.

He was not a man who grandstanded but a man who knew what the right thing to do, was...and did it! And As Carl Kuehn said in his remarks, that is the description of a MENCH. A perfectly wonderful Yiddish word that almost needs no explanation.

When it was necessary to speak out publicly, he was not afraid to voice his views. When the city's public golf course was finally opened to Hispanics and Blacks, but they could not use the lockers or any of the concessions, he rose to speak as a member of the Parks & Recreation Board to remind the board and the public that these people were citizens of Corpus Christi and taxpayers who had every right to use all the facilities. The board voted to open all the facilities to ALL the citizens.

But there were many small acts of kindness done quietly, too.

That's really the way he preferred it. So when my good friend, Hollace Ava Weiner wrote about Sidney Wolf in the anthology, "Quiet Voices, Southern Rabbis and Black Civil Rights," she spoke to a member of the local African American community, who told her, "I remember the first Boy Scout shirt and tie I ever owned. Rabbi Wolf went and bought it. My mother was a domestic. She couldn't afford it."

Hollace also spoke with the late Dr. Hector Garcia who said, "although he kept a low profile, he was well-known in town and respected as a humanitarian." Rabbi was the "go to" person for problems in the minority communities.

My good friend, architect Jack Solka, who grew up here, remembered the impact it had on him when Rabbi took Jack's confirmation class to visit local churches...including the Black St. John Baptist Church. It gave him a new perspective to see black angels...it made him wonder and think. That occurred at a time when there were separate waiting rooms, water fountains & lunch counters. You bet that visit made the kids think...and that was Rabbi's purpose.

From his knowledge and love of music, he also helped to create the Corpus Christi Symphony Orchestra. In 1945 he and the new director of Del Mar Junior College department of Music, Dr. C. Burdette Wolfe, finally launched the CC Symphony. Rabbi served as the initial president of the Symphony Society. He raised funds for the purchase of musical scores, to print programs and publicize the concerts. After his retirement from the pulpit he taught music appreciation classes at Del Mar Adult education series and at Corpus Christi State University. If any of you attended last Saturday night's symphony concert to hear a magnificent performance of Gershwin's Porgy and Bess, you know what beauty the symphony continues to bring to our city.

For all these reasons and many, many others Sidney Wolf deserves to be recognized by the State of Texas as a person to be honored for his impact on our community. It has been my privilege to have known Rabbi Wolf and his equally remarkable wife, Bebe. I am proud to have brought this information to the Texas Historical Commission in Austin and so pleased that they approved the granting of this historical marker. I want to express my gratitude to Anita Eisenhower, chair of our commission, for helping bring me to this moment.

A remarkable, gentle, unassuming man came to our city in 1932 and influenced changes that improved the quality of life for all its citizens. Just as the orchids he lovingly grew, enhanced the beauty of his home, so did the words of his mouth and his commitment to social justice make Corpus Christi a better place to live.
