Unison Digest / New Edition / Issue 2

A rose, no matter how its name is changed, is still fragrant.

Humans, no matter what their colors are, have the same dignity.

Response to the Equal Opportunities Commission on the work of education for the ethnic minorities report and recommendations

"Inferior education system destroyed numerous ethnic minorities; save the children, effective support Chinese learning"

The difficulties and problems faced by ethnic minority children in public (Government-funded) schools are never been taken seriously by the Education Bureau. Racially biased and poor quality education has ruined the dreams of countless young people of ethnic minorities; piecemeal and inadequate Chinese language support measures failed to effectively help minority children learn Chinese, which seriously affect their studies and employment opportunities and hinder their integration into our society, resulting in inter-generational poverty.
